FRENCH FALL BACK BEFORE NAZI THRUSTS ALONG 60--MILE FRONT

WARNING SET ON BOMBINGS OF ANY CITY

Italy Will Retaliate Five-Fold

ROME —(AP)— A pointed warning that five English cities would be bombed for every Italian city attacked by Allied bombers in the event Italy enters the war was published Saturday by the Rome newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia just while foreign observers were expressing belief Italy would enter the conflict next week.

Il Giornale D'Italia's editor is Virginio Gayda, long recognized as Premier Mussolini's editorial mouthpiece.

Reports have circulated here that the British and French plan to bombard Italian centers if this nation entered the war against them.

London Is Threatened

To these reports, the authoritative newspaper said:

"For every Italian city bombed five English cities would suffer the same treatment."

Bombardment of Rome would be the signal for "similar, but greater, bombardment of London," the newspaper added.

However, Rome was considered here to be fairly safe from attack, with the Italians prepared to make it an open city by removing government offices, troops and aircraft.

Last Neutral Week

Some observers heard that an Italian attack on their first secret objective would come in the early hours Monday but a source considered reliable indicated it probably would be later, possibly Thursday or Friday night.

Although only Mussolini and possibly his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, are supposed to know the date of the expected entry into the war, confidence that Italy has closed her last week as a non-belligerent nation in this war was based on impressions in Italian circles as well as war preparations which appear to be complete.

The imminence of an Italian move was indicated further by foreign reports that Italian ships are being kept in neutral ports.

All Ships Docked

Government - controlled newspapers substantiated the reports by publishing them.

RANGER UNITS GUARD RIVER

Mechanized Groups Watch Border

AUSTIN—(AP)—A modern, mechanized detachment of Texas Rangers was engaged in secret operations along the lower reaches of the Rio Grande Saturday to protect the state against possible flare-ups from across the border.

Split in small groups, the Ranger force, whose numbers have not been disclosed, was under orders calling for swift action in any emergency while an Austin headquarters staff catalogued and classified a deluge of reports on possible "fifth column" operations in Texas.

A state official who would not permit use of his name said the Rangers, mounted in automobiles for fast transit on roads and on horses for work in mesquite thicket backlands were prepared to thrust in any direction.

Possible border disturbances developing out of the national election in Mexico July 7 or any activities of an un-American nature on this side of the border, the official said, would find Rangers ready to strike quickly.

Meanwhile, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's call to citizens to report suspected "fifth column" activities brought voluminous replies which were being filed in a cross-reference card index system at state police headquarters.

Sadler Will Remain In Chief State Race

GATESVILLE —(AP)— Several thousand persons attending the annual rodeo here Saturday heard Jerry Sadler, candidate for governor, tell why he had to remain in the race.

JAPAN GROUP SEEKS TRADE

Diplomats Pause In Valley City

BROWNSVILLE—Five Japanese diplomats, reported to have been on a Latin American trade commission, were in Brownsville briefly Saturday night en route from Mexico City to New York.

The group was said to have toured South and Central American countries, and Mexico, seeking the establishment of closer commercial relations between the countries and Japan.

They had no comment to make upon their arrival at the Brownsville airport, however.

Arriving here by Pan American Airways were S. Kato, Japanese minister at large; S. Koshida, Japanese minister to Mexico; and I. Mizune, K. Ohno and M. Harada.

They left for New Orleans by Missouri Pacific Lines, and also plan to visit Washington and New York.

One of the group said they were going to New York to see the World's Fair.

Allies Branch Out In U. S. Purchases

NEW YORK — (AP) — Allied war purchasers, who have heretofore concentrated mostly in aircraft and tools, now are tapping United States industry for an assortment of other weapons and materials.

Wall Street sources said Saturday British and French agents suddenly appeared to have widened their range of orders and inquiries to speed equipment plans and replace losses. Total orders placed since September, are estimated at $1,300,000,000 now, and the figure is expected to grow rapidly.

Reserves Called

Rumanian Army Still Being Enlarged

BUCHAREST — (AP) — Rumania, with more than 1,500,000 men already under arms in the greatest peacetime mobilization in her history, called up five more classes of reserves Saturday in a preparedness measure reported to be connected with Italy's possible entry into the European war.

Although Rumanian dispatches placed the number already under arms at more than 1,500,000, tabulations of previous calls indicated it was probably nearer 2,000,000.

NAZIS CLAIM FRENCH FALL AT MAIN LINE

Weygand Line Gives At German Will

BERLIN NOT HIT

French Claim Of Air Raid Denied

BERLIN, —(AP)— German military sources declared Saturday night the Nazi steamroller is breaking the Weygand line at will and pushing down the path to Paris just as planned.

Three confident sentences made up the high command communique which for the fourth day of the north France drive reported steady advances without disclosing any details.

But those at home were advised not to fear that this meant a bogdown of the drive by veteran troops and fresh divisions. Instead military sources said, the march to the heart of France continues each day ahead of the peace first set by the high command.

Berlin Not Bombed?

An authorized spokesman called "absolutely" untrue a French announcement that naval bombers dumped explosives onto factory districts in the Berlin suburbs Friday night.

"We have been out with spyglasses looking for damage," the spokesman said. "There have been no air-raid alarms in Berlin and no rumors of such a bombing."

Meanwhile, gains were claimed for four big thrusts, steel shod and supported by plunging stukas.

Objectives Are Listed

Hitler's own newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, lister the drives and their objectives as:

Southwest from Abbeville over the Bresle river toward Le Havre, extending Germany's grip on the northwestern coast of Europe from the Arctic Circle in Norway to south of the mouth of the Somme.

South from Amiens; south from Perrone and south from Oise-Aisne canal—to merge into one smashing punch at Paris.

"Operations south of the Somme and the Oise-Aisne canal are progressing successfully," the German communique said, "and the enemy

Germans Hurl Million Men Into Paris Drive

PARIS—(AP)—The French were falling back Saturday night along nearly 60 miles of the front, but still fighting against the German offensive on Paris—facing the strongest attack of the war and the most massive mechanized onslaught in military history.

The Germans threw 60 infantry divisions and seven armored divisions – more than 1,000,000 men and 3,500 tanks–into the assault south of the Somme.

This mighty push reached its peak in the center of the front, where reserves were brought up in the Oise valleythe route to Paris–and hurled into the battle in the region of Roye and Noyon, in an area 48 miles north of this capital.

In this sector alone the Germans were estimated to have used half a million men. Starting at dawn, after dive bombers, artillery and tanks had opened the way, the Nazi infantry charged, each man holding the shoulder of the men before him.

North of the capital the French withdrew for the second successive day. The general fall-back was called a "retirement maneuver," and a military spokesman declared the main line remained unbroken.

The Nazis also struck a tremendous blow on the French right (east) flank and succeeded in establishing a foothold on the south bank of the Aisne River. In that sector the French were counter-attacking bitterly.

German pressure diminished Saturday might on the extreme left (west) flank, where the Bresle Rvier blocked their infantry. A tank column of 200 to 300 which penetrated south to Forges-Les-Eaux was reported being pounded to bits by French artillery and cannon-firing planes.

The battle raged with varying intensity all along the new, shortened 110-mile front from the sea to the Aisne.

Military authorities not given to exaggeration called the battle frankly "the greatest of all time." The number of tanks used almost doubled those employed in the battle of the Meuse, when the Germans broke through to the sea.

On the central sector of the front—running nearly 60 miles from Aumale on the Bresle to Noyon on the Oise —The Nazis sent wave after wave of machines and men smashing against the French lines.

German losses were reported by the French high command to be "enormous" but—still they came.

The French clung to the support points of the Weygand line on the rolling hills and in the scattered woods of the battlefield, pouring fire into the tanks with their artillery.

The advance guards had fallen back Friday under General Maxime Weygand's orders and the movement continued Saturday night after French frontline positions had been swamped under the attack waves.

But still ahead of the Germans stretching a field of barriers all the way to Paris.

In his night communique, General Weygand singled out two artillery units for special praise for the destruction they wrought among German panzer units.

"The artillery group of Commandant Pouyat destroyed 38 German tanks," he said. "One battery of this group commanded by Captain Vandelle destroyed alone 19.

"Another artillery group commanded by Commandant Gunen, attacked at a distance of 100 meters by tanks, destroyed 17."

The Allied air forces, outnumbered since the start of the campaign, stayed in the battle with one squadron of more than 150 bombers protected by both British and French pursuit planes and raining explosives on the German lines.

Some planes swooped down to an altitude of only 50 feet to bomb and machine-gun enemy tanks and troops.

An air ministry communique announced German pontoon bridges over the Somme were destroyed Friday night and that Reichswehr reinforcements were dispersed.

One pursuit squadron was reported to have attacked a German tank park and to have destroyed a "considerable number" of machines.

The Germans moved in two vast thrusts: from south of Roye in the Oise Valley in the center, and to Forges-Les-Eaux on the west flank.

While the front thus erupted with new week-end violence, the French replied with bombs to the Nazi raid of last Monday which killed and wounded about 1,000 Parisians.

Without giving details, the Admiralty announced that a squadron of naval planes had raided factories in the outskirts of Berlin Friday night, and had returned without losing a ship. Speculation arose that some of the raiders might have been American-made, but the admiralty spokesman said he thought not.

The supreme effort of the Germans had created this general change in the front:

It had fallen back from the Somme to the Bresle in the west, from Ham to the region of Noyon in the center and from the Ailette to the Aisne in the east.

British Armed Merchant Ship Sunk By Nazi Sub

Popular Cruise Liner Lost In Attack By U-Boat; Many Rescued From Vessel

LONDON—(AP)—The sinking of the armed merchant cruiser Carinthia—a 20,277-ton former Cunard-White Star liner popular with Americans as a world cruise ship before the war—was announced Saturday night by the admiralty.

It was the largest merchant ship yet sunk by enemy action since the war started.

Two officers and two seamen had been killed when the ship, one of 50 merchant cruisers in the British fleet, was torpedoed by a U-boat. Other officers and the crew were saved. In peacetime the crew was 405.

More than 200 of the crew were landed at a British port by a warship Saturday night. Another 100 were expected on a second rescue ship. The crew said the Carinthia remained afloat for some time after being torpedoed but that two warships failed in an attempt to tow her to port.

Location Not Revealed

The admiralty did not say where the Carinthia had been attacked.

The Germans, however, a few hours before, announced a 14,000-ton auxiliary cruiser had been sunk off the northwest coast of Ireland.

The Carinthia was the second British armed merchant cruiser sunk since the war started. The Rawalpindi, 16,697 tons, was lost last November 23 with 280 of her personnel.

Allies Grow Stronger

Earlier an official admiralty statement had obsreved that "the balance of naval strength in favor of the Allies is now far greater than at the outbreak of the war."

American Liners To Dock Today

NEW YORK. —(AP)— Two American liners neared New York Saturday night with 2,634 humans aboard driven by the terrors of modern war from their European abodes to the safety of the United States.

The President Rooseveit was scheeduled to dock at 7 P. M. Sunday with 720 passengers, most of them Americans. They boarded the ship at Galway, Ireland.

The sleek Manhattan radioed she would dock at 2 p. m. (CST) Monday with 1,914 passengers from Italy, half of them aliens who booked passage before the state department ruled that American citizens must be given preference.

It was reported—without confirmation—that American naval vessels and planes would escort the Roosevelt into port.

FORD TO STUDY FAST PLANE FOR PRODUCTION

1,000 Per Day Capacity Is Now Goal Of Assembly Line At Huge Ford Plant

Many Arms Are Available For Sale To Allies If Needed, FDR States

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army put one of its fastest pursuit planes at Henry Ford's disposal Saturday to let him determine whether his mass production genius can get aerial fighters rolling off assembly lines at the amazing rate of 1,000 a day.

The sudden completion of arrangements to have the pursuit ship delivered to Ford engineers in Detroit Monday momentarily distracted defense program attention from the sharp cleavage of congressional opinion on President Roosevelt's applause for a newspaper editorial urging compulsory military training for the nation.

The unofficial debate on compulsory training, however, was off to a heated start, and there were indications of additional legislative dissension over administration plans which would, in effect, make a large amount of World War equipment available for Allied purchase by turning it back to the manufacturers.

Roosevelt told his press conference Friday that the arms and munitions stores were deteriorating but that they still had an immediate value. Unofficial military estimates were that enough rifles to supply an army of almost 2,000,000 might be turned in.

Ford Requests Plane

The announcement that a pursuit plane would be sent to Detroit was made by the War Department Friday night. Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson said that Henry Ford had telegraphed a request to see the ship "as soon as possible."

Ford asserted two weeks ago that, given certain conditions, his plants in six months time could turn out 1,000 standard-type planes daily. The statement immediately aroused interest both here and in London, and there was evidence that Britain, anxious to bolster her air force, intended to explore the possibility.

Conditions Set Out

Ford stipulated these conditions: That his company be left to its own supervision; that there be no "meddling by government agencies," and that he have the counsel of such aviation authorities as Charles A. Lindbergh and Edward Rickenbacker.

During the World War Ford turned his great industrial plants to the mass production of munitions, whippet tanks, ambulances and submarine chasers.

The question of compulsory military training was injected into the complicated defense picture Friday at the President's press conference, when Roosevelt was asked to comment on a New York Times editorial.

Many Arms Available

He replied that he had read only the first paragraph and liked it very much. The paragraph called for immediate adoption of a national system of compulsory military training.

Reported available for sale are 500 75-milimeter field guns, 600,000 Lee Enfield rifles, 70,000 machine guns, 100 six-inch guns, 250 eight-inch Howitzers, 25 siege guns and 200 Stokes mortars, with large quantities of ammunition.

One member of the House military affairs committee has estimated that 350,000 of the new Garand semi-automatic rifles being manufactured for the United States would equip an army of 1,000,000 men.

Responsible officials indicated, also, that the administration intended releasing more than 500 planes for re-sale by manufacturers to the Allies—for which trade-in authority already exists.

While indirectly opening warehouses to the Allies, the government looked to the United States' own defenses:

Arms arsenals, it was disclosed, have been ordered to begin 24-hour operations wherever practicable.

Leave 'Em Where You Blast 'Em

Nazi U-Boat Leaves Men In Sea

LONDON, —(AP)— The British navy press section declared Saturday that a U-boat commander and his crew after torpedoing a British merchant vessel May 27 watched the crew of 36 struggling in the water for half an hour before leaving the helpless seamen to their fate.

The press statement said that all but five perished before a neutral steamer arrived. It described the treatment of the men as "one of the foulest acts ever perpetrated by a U-boat commander and his crew."

The statement said the ship sank in two minutes, leaving no time to get the boats clear. The statement did not identify the merchantman.

The statement added that the German U-boat commander drove his craft among the men struggling in the water "to ask survivors the name of their ship and to give members of his crew an opportunity to take photographs of his unfortunate victims.

"And while they did so, the U-boat commander stationed two men with boat hooks to fend off and jab at the wrecked men who tried to clamber on board, thinking the U-boat had come to pick them up.

"For about half an hour this went on. Then it seemed the Germans were sated with their bestial gloating. The submarine steamed away, leaving helpless British seamen to their fate in the rough sea."

Twenty-four hours later, the statement said, a neutral steamer picked up five men. The other 31 perished.

To Blockade Britain

A German radio review of the week's fighting commented that Britain "will soon get to feel" the results of German control of the coast.

"The blockade Britain wished on Germany turns the other way," the German announcer said. "Britain's eastern ports, especially the important Thames Estuary, and some of the southern ports will soon be blocked for all trade."

It was indicated this would be accomplished by submarines, wave-skimming torpedo launches and bombers based close to the English Channel.

DEALERS LAUD AUCTION PLAN

Merchandise Is Put On Display Here

HARLINGEN—Merchandise valued at some $700 will be on display at the vacant store building at 212 West Jackson here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the first of three public auctions to be held as trade boosters during Auction Dollar Month, Chairman Jack King said Saturday.

King said the first auction will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. in the downtown section. Another auction will be held June 19, and the final grand auction June 28. He urged local buyers to inspect the merchandise to be auctioned.

Virtually all Harlingen merchants have entered the plan of giving away with merchandise sold an equal amount of Auction Dollars, which buyers will use to bid with on Wednesday. Merchants said Saturday the plan had caught on and the fake money was going in large amounts, and they foresaw spirited bidding for the high quality merchandise.

King suggested buyers come in prior to the auction and exchange small amounts of the Auction Dollars for larger denominations, to speed bidding on Wednesday.

ITALIANS' WAR MOVE EXPECTED

ica was placed on a basis of one round trip each month instead of each week.

Italians took great notice of what newspapers described a "the growing agitation for American intervention" in the war. But Fascists in government circles as well as newspapers continued to scout the idea that the United States would be able to give Britain and France effective aid in time.

Editorial Is Explained

Il Giornale D'Italia sought to explain the declaration of its editor that United States entry into the war would give European powers the right to intervene in American affairs.

The newspaper declared the article was not a "provocation or threat" toward the United States, explaining it meant to say that American intervention in Europe would "create a precedent which would justify the turning of European powers against America either at the present or in possible future conflict."

A Fascist in position to express the government's view volunteered belief that the Germans would crack the Weygand line in France within a few days and then would be ready to attack London.

After the European continent came under the control of Germany and Italy, he said, there would be no place for American troops to land.

In the midst of the war talk, Vatican authorities said Vatican City would be closed to the public as a precaution except for Pope Pius' Wednesday audience.

success in the air: an attack on German troop concentrations at Abbeville throughout Friday and Friday night and on "military objectives" in northwest Germany.

The air ministry communique said the Roy ' Air Force destroyed 17 German planes Friday while 13 British planes were missing.

Railhead Is Bombed

"Much damage was caused to the railhead at Hirson where woods were set on fire and many explossions caused," the communique said. "Here troop concentrations were machine gunned. At Abbeyville many explosions and fires were caused and extensive damage was done to the airdrome."

Reports of Saturday's operations, it added, indicate "that our medium bombers inflicted heavy damage on the enemy's motorized forces."

The statement on Allied naval strength said the navy had been increased since the beginning of the war by the addition of more than 50 armed merchant cruisers and more than 1,500 minor war vessels and auxiliary craft "of which 58 have been lost."

French Navy Powerful

"The French navy is a very powerful and rapidly growing force," the statement said.

"The Allied fleets have been reinforced by active cooperation of Polish, Norwegian and Dutch naval forces.

"During the next few months the royal navy will receive a further large increase in strength comprising every category of warship from battleships to motor torpedoboats and a very large number of auxiliary craft."

The following losses were listed:

One of 15 capital ships; one of seven aircraft carriers; two of 62 cruisers; 20 of 185 destroyers; eight of 58 submarines; six of 108 mine sweepers, sloops, patrol vessels and gunboats.

Nearly 1,000,000 tons of warships are being built in British shipyards, the statement said.

Senators May Defer Wagner Bill Action

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate labor committee, said Saturday it would be "virtually impossible" for the Senate to act on House-approved amendments to the Wagner labor relations act if Congress adjourns on June 22 as leaders have planned.

Thomas said he would call the committee into session next week to consider the amendments which would abolish the present three-member board and create a new three-man agency. The legislation also would separate the administrative and prosecution activities of the agency.

House Approves Bill To Tax Low Incomes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House ways and means committee approved Saturday a $1,004,000,000 defense tax bill, boosting individual, corporation and excise taxes and increasing the number of small income tax payers by more than 2,000,000.

At the same time, the committee ordered studies with a view to legislation at the next session of Congress imposing an excess profits tax to prevent "new war millionaires" and also to provide special amortization for national defense industries.

American Bombers Here And In France

FRENCH ARMY DEFEAT WILL SHOW REASON

If Paris Falls, FD To Ask Billion

WASHINGTON, —(AP)— Reports circulated in informed quarters at the capitol Saturday that an additional $1,000,000,000 appropriation for the army would be asked if the Germans should break through to Paris before adjournment of congress.

Representative Snyder (D-PA), the chairman of the House military appropriations sub-committee, said he thought an additional appropriation would be advisable if the French army should collapse.

Snyder said that on the basis of Hitler's past performances in Poland, Norway, Holland and Belgium, it was felt that if he conquers France, the next objective would be England.

Brazil Next Step

"Then the next step would be toward Brazil, Snyder said.

"Therefore, if we are thinking in terms of western hemisphere defense, we will have to have an additional $1,000,000,000 as soon as it appears the drive toward Paris might succeed.

President Roosevelt already has requested approximately $4,000,000,000 in defense outlays at this session. At the White House, it was emphasized that no request for additional funds was in prospect at present.

Developments Listed

Stephen Early, press secretary, said in a statement that "the President will not at this time ask the congress for additional funds in any amount for the furtherance of the national defense program."

Defense preparations proceeded apace. Developments included:

(1) Approximately 100 heavily-armed attack planes, especially designed to harass enemy troops from low altitudes, were earmarked by the War Department for possible fighting in France, under the administration's "trade in" arrangement for army and navy planes.

The craft are Northrop single-motor attack planes, which the Army Air Corps relegated to non-combatant utility roles last year primarily because of their limited range of action. They will be turned back to the manufacturer who, in turn, will be free to sell them to the Allies.

Tax Bill Discussed

Airmen said the planes were well adapted to the relatively short distances in Europe and expressed confidence they were at least the equal of similar craft employed by the Nazis to "strafe" the Allies in Flanders.

(2) The House ways and means committee, seeking to speed final legislative action on the billion-dollar rearmament tax bill, met in an extraordinary all-day Saturday session to consider the measure drafted by a sub-committee. During a brief recess, members said they had made no change as yet in the bill which would increase personal and corporate income taxes, and most excise taxes. It is designed to raise $1,006,000,000 a year additional revenue.

(3) Plans for extending federal loans to industry for plant expansion under the national defense program were discussed by President Roosevelt and Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator.

After the White House conference Jones said that many inquiries and requests for loans had been received, but none had actually been granted so far. All applications are being routed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(4) The United States Chamber of Commerce said in a statement that the administration's defense program was "well within the capacity of the country without any material interference with normal operations."

The program, the statement said, would bring into utilization capacity that has been idle.

Communications Forbidden

(5) The Federal Communications Commission called attention of ship operators to the fact that the communication act forbids "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" between ship radio stations and other ships or shore stations. It said any violations would be "vigorously prosecuted." The commission already had forbidden amateur radio operators to communicate with foreign countries, and had prohibited amateur use of mobile transmitters capable of sending long distances.

(6) In a statement, General John J. Pershing, who commanded American forces in the World War, urged that the United States send the Allies unlimited quantities of airplanes and arms. He also appealed for contributions to the Red Cross.

(7) Republican Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said in a radio address that elimination of politics in defense matters should be "the resolute purpose of both parties." Republicans in congress, he declared, "can be depended upon to give solid support to all real defense measures."

Martin said, however, that the Republicans "naturally resent efforts to make national defense measures vehicles for granting dictatorial powers to the executive," and wanted defense appropriations "honestly and prudently spent."

FARM PARITY PAYING RULE IS CLARIFIED

Producers Told To Observe Law

EDINBURG—Clarification of regulations under the federal agricultural conservation program and parity payment program was offered Saturday by P. T. Moore, Hidalgo county AAA official. He issued the following statement:

"Any change in the relationship between the landlord and the tenants or sharecroppers, with respect to any farm, that would increase over the previous year, the amount of payments that would otherwise be made to any landlord shall not operate to increase such payments to such landlord.

Limitations Not Apply

"Any reduction in the number of tenants below the average number of tenants on any farm during the preceding three years that would increase the payments that would otherwise be made to the landlord shall not hereafter operate to increase any such payment to such landlord.

"Such limitations shall not apply if on investigation the local committee finds that the change is justified and approves such change in relationship or reduction. Such action of local committees shall be subject to approval or disapproval by state committees.

Explanation Given

"If a tenant in settling his obligations under a rental contract or agreement, or an agreement supplemental or collateral thereto, pays or renders cash, standing rent, or fixed rent, or a share of the crops, or any service or thing of value, aggregation in value in excess of the rental customarily paid in the community for similar land and use, thereby diverting to the landlord the whole or any part of any payment which the tenant is entitled to receive, there shall be withheld from or required to be refunded by the tenant the whole of any payment with respect to the farm made, or to be made, to him under an agricultural conservation program or a parity program for 1940 or any subsequent year, and there shall be withheld from or required to be refunded by the landlord the whole of the payment with respect to all of his farms under the program involved; provided, however, that where the tenant is renting for a share of the crops only and the tenant's is 60 per cent or less, only the landlord's payments shall be os withheld or recovered."

Nazi Dive Bombers Attack Huge Tanks

BERLIN —(AP)— German dive bombers attacked and destroyed four 32 ton enemy tanks at one point in the German drive on Paris, it was announced officially Saturday.

The bombers are assisting land troops in many instances, it was said.

Flag's Designer Wanted Wine For His Just Reward

AP Feature Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The designer of the American flag, which will be 163 years old Friday, wanted "a quarter-cask of the public wine" as his reward.

Betsy Ross may have made the first American flag—there is some dispute about that—but the designer, says Capt. Byron McCandless, U.S.N., was Francis Hopkinson, a song writer and a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Government Pay

Captain McCandless, who has been studying flag lore for a quarter of a century, says Hopkinson

The Original Cambridge Flag

wrote the Board of Admiralty in 1779 about his design and added:

"I now submit it to your honours' consideration whether a quarter-cask of the public wine will not be a proper and reasonable reward for these labours of fancy..."

Hopkinson was told, Captain McCandless' researches show, to submit a bill instead. He did, for $2,700, and was rather bluntly informed that anyone already drawing a good government salary should not expect additional fees.

Hopkinson's original design, drawn in 1775, had the British Union Jack in the corner. It often is called the Cambridge flag, since Washington first raised it above his troops at Cambridge.

Change In Order

On June 14, 1777, after the colonies had declared their freedom, Congress replaced the Union Jack with "stars, white on a blue field, representing a constellation."

McCandless believes Hopkinson created the new design, too.

McCandless' researches show that Margaret Manny made the original Cambridge flag.

But Betsy Ross, whose father helped build Independence Hall, got the new government's contract to make insignia. The concession was carried on by her daughter, Mrs. Clarissa Wilson, until 1857.

Texas May Get Air Training Centers

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Air corps training center officials of Randolph Field, headed by Col. A. W. Robins, the commandant, will leave Sunday by plane for Washington to confer with Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Corps, regarding approval of sites for nine extra civilian elementary flying schools and for a sub-base of Kelly Field and a specialized training school to be established under the War Department's expanded training program.

The officials Saturday were making a study of the sites selected by the operators of the nine elementary schools, and of the sites surveyed, in Texas, for the sub-base of Kelly Field, where advanced pilot training will be given, and for the specialized training school to instruct bombardiers and navigators, the latter school to offer a new phase of training not heretofore given.

Air corps training center officials recently conducted survey flights over different sections of Texas in an effort to locate sites for the Kelly field sub-base and the specialized school.

They surveyed a triangular area bounded by Abilene, Midland and San Angelo, another area around Dallas and Fort Worth, and a triangular area bounded by Houston, Galveston and Beaumont. Several sites in each area were inspected.

The training center officials will prepare their recommendations regarding the Texas sites surveyed to General Arnold. They will give their first, second and third choices, but final approval will be made by General Arnold.

Authorities said that the specialized school probably would be located in the Galveston-Beaumont-Houston are and the Kelly Field sub-base in one of the two other areas surveyed.

DALLAS COUNTY MAY GET ONE AIR CENTER

DALLAS—(AP)—The Dallas News says a training base for the United States Army Air Corps may be located in Dallas county if army officers approve one of several sites inspected Saturday.

A survey board sent out by Col. A. W. Robins, air corps training center commander at Randolph Field, spent most of the day viewing sites in the eastern and northern part of the county. A definite decision is expected on the location in a few days.

A tract of 1,200 acres, with a railroad siding, and with public utility services available within reasonable distances, is wanted by the army. Two sites, one near Mesquite, were reported to have impressed the board of flying officers favorably.

Interpreting The War News

New War Lessons

French Defensive Battle Is Teaching All Army Leaders Something To Know

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

France is doing more than fight a desperate battle for her own life and the Allied cause. She is teaching the world new precepts of defensive war.

That French stand, whether it saves France or not, has already riveted the attention of arming America. In contrast to the fundamental German conception of blasting efficiency in attack, France, in her extremity, has fashioned a defensive technique that has wrung words of admiration even from her foe.

In the eyes of military experts, the battle of the Weygand lines must necessarily outweigh in significance all that preceded it as the Nazi war machine rolled swiftly on its triumphant way.

Whatever the weapons on which America relies, they will be for defense. That is a definitely limiting factor. It is one thing, as the war in Europe has grimly proved to map and implement a strategy of attack and achieve the vitally essentiol element of surprise. It is quite another to concede the initiative in advance to a foe.

U. S. Won't Attack

Yet that is the heavy responsibility imposed upon American national defense planners, with the whole western hemisphere to guard. It springs from a fundamental national philosophy which no administration in Washington would dare ignore.

Any American president who moved to attack another nation, even if he acted under the conviction that an attack was immediately impending by that nation upon the United States or upon some Pan-American neighbor, would certainly risk impeachment.

That removes for America the possibility of resort to undeclared war to create opportunity for surprise attack. It also circumscribes the making of national defense policy, and imposes limitations on the organization, training and disposition of the army, navy and airforce.

New Lessons Learned

American rearmament is keyed necessarily to lessons already revealed in the European conflict. German blitzkrieg technique has accented tremendously the vital importance of a huge expansion of air power and the industry to produce and maintain it. Success of Nazi "panzer" armored legions has virtually scrapped all previous theories of how to deal with that menace.

In the Weygand web battle, however, there are looming the elements of new lessons for military experts, lessons certain to be reflected sharply in the American defense set up. Even if that web fails to save France, it has already taught the world much both as to the strength and weakness of tanks and dive bomber attack. These lessons undoubtedly will be visible in construction of new American mechanized units and in the equipment and training the army to meet a tank and air onslaught.

TAKE MEXICO SOLON URGES

Senator Thomas Sees Dangers There

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Senator Thomas (D-Okla) declared Saturday that if Germany forces the British government to flee to Canada and "war comes to the western hemisphere, the United States should take over Mexico and possibly Panama for self protection."

THOMAS

The German army, said Thomas in an interview, would move on the United States from the south if it attacked this nation.

He said Mexico is "a potential menace because it already is German in all but name."

Meanwhile, Thomas said, orders have been placed for airplanes and the nation's plants are turning out new craft at maximum speed.

"We have on order now all the planes the factories can make. make. They are being turned out at the rate of 350 a month. By September, the rate will be 800, by December, 1,200."

Opinion Held Back

In reply to questions concerning the present status of the nation's armed forces, Thomas said "public opinion, heavily pacifistic, would not have permitted military expansion before the invasion of the lowlands.

"It took the invasion to wake us up," he continued. "We're doing all we can to speed up production. Congress is giving the administrational all the money it wants—and it can only spend so fast."

Give F. D. More Power

"If we're going to meet the authorization power halfway," the senior Oklahoma senator continued, "we have got to prepare to act on the same basis as they act. We're going to give the president more power.

"Whatever he asks for, Congress will give him.

"We're doing the same thing now as if we had declared war, but not with the idea that we're going to get into the war.

"It is to prevent that."

AIRPORT SITE IS PURCHASED AT EDINBURG

51-Acre Tract Starts Development

EDINBURG — Land which may soon become an airport near Edinburg has been purchased and deeded to the city under a trust agreement, Mayor A. A. Aldrich announced Saturday.

The acreage is in two tracts totalling about 51 acres. It is located east of the city.

Aldrich and Harry Wilcox, county engineer, purchased the land recently and signed a deed of trust conveying it to the city under a transaction whereby the city may exercise an option within five years' time and purchase the tract at a price of $5,000.

More Acreage Available

Additional acreage is available to the 51-acre site for possible expansions into a larger field, although money is not now available for its purchase, Mayor Aldrich explained.

The 51-acre section is intended principally to give the city the nucleus of a flying field, which can be developed from time to time and which in its primary stages can be utilized for the Civil Aeronautics Authority's current student and civilian pilot-training program. A number of Edinburg junior college students last year participated in such work, although all their training had to take place at the McAllen airport. The CAA program is continuing here this summer.

Hangar Franchise Seen

Almost all other cities of any size in the Valley now have air fields, Aldrich said, and demands for such facilities in Edinburg have been heard from time to time.

Already one Harlingen aviation man has conferred with city officials on a franchise to construct a hangar at the field and to install facilities for servicing local planes.

District Attorney Is Citing Record

HARLINGEN—District Attorney Joe P. Hatchitt announced Saturday that in asking the voters to return him to office for another term he would stand on his record in office and on his program of law enforcement and prosecution of law violators.

"I would like to thank those who elected me before and ask that all voters examine my record," Hatchitt said, "and satisfy themselves that I have fulfilled all campaign promises in trying to enforce the law in a common sense manner."

Against Racketeering

He added: "I have maintained firm stand against all racketeering in belief such is costly to communities and leads to graft and corruption of law enforcement agencies.

"I have co-operated with local officers and municipal authorities and all agencies connected with law enforcement. My assistant, Arthur Klein of Harlingen, and I have made ourselves available at all times to assist enforcement officers. My re-election will mean continuation of this policy which I believe is one calculated to reduce crime."

Economy Is Cited

Hatchitt pointed to his vigorous endeavors to prosecute worthless check writers, which has resulted in savings to and protection for farmers and business men over the district. His policy of economy without loss of efficiency, in preparation of cases, was also brought out by Hatchitt. He said:

"Those interested will find by investigation that my office has thoroughly investigated every case brought to its attention, but has not put the state to expense of trial where there was no hope of conviction."

The Valley loaded 84 cars Friday, Yoakum 12 and East Texas 91, making a total of 187 from Texas loaded Friday and forwarded Saturday, according to the final report of the season issued by the Texas-Federal market news service at Weslaco.

A number of Valley tomato shippers who habitually follow the deal as the season progresses, have already gone to Jacksonville, Texas. It is there that R. E. Winfrey, local representative of the market news service in Weslaco, went from the Valley.

Oil Interest Centers On Four Important Wildcat Holes For Valley

Two Wells Testing In 8,000 Foot Depth

McALLEN—Wildcat oil interest was centered Saturday on four important tests in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where a total of 10 holes are now drilling ahead or making production tests. Two of the wells are testing in sands below 8,000 feet. Hidalgo, Cameron and Starr Counties were the main scenes of operations.

In Cameron County, testing of a sand at 8,500 feet continued at the important Pure Oil Company's No. 1 Garcia Land and Cattle Company, six miles south of Port Isabel. The test has 9 5-8 inch o.d. cashing cemented at 8,12¢ feet, and below this a 500-foot section of liner has been cemente dto past 8,600 feet for the 8,500-foot sand tests. No reports from the production or drill stem tests are available.

In central Hidalgo county, The Gulf States Oil Company's No. 2 J. Cardenas, Share 156, San Salvador del Tule Grant, is still testing in sands at 7,315-20 feet and 7,322-30 feet, where on 1-4 inch chokes gas and distillate shows have been reported under pressures of 2,600 pounds (working) and 3,150 pounds (closed-in). The wildcat has also tested gas and distillate in sand at 8,174-82 feet under pressures of 3,600 pounds (closed-in).

Testing For Production

In Starr County, the Sun Oil Company's No. 1 W. G. Lehr, Survey 513, several miles west and slightly north of the Sun field, is still testing for production in sand at 4,127-37 feet, where original perforations were squeezed. The flow has showed some oil thus far but tests will continue for several days.

The Sun's No. 1 Claude King, Survey 511, one and one-half miles south of the Lehr wildcat, is coring at 3,900 feet but has reported no shows.

North of the Zimm field in Starr county, the Denzil Oil Company's No. 1 Margaret Seabury, Share 46, Porcion 60, Camargo Jurisdiction, is still testing for production as a pumper or jetted well in sand at 1,341-46 feet and is showing for oil.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 3 Guerra estate, Share 25-B, Santa Cruz Grant, in northeastern Starr, is reported drilling ahead at 6,300 feet.

No Locations Staked

No new locations have yet been staked for the new wildcat area opened last week by the George R. Boyle et al No. 1 E. B. Carruth et al, which was completed for more than 100 barrels per day (45 gravity crude) in sand at 3,491-97 feet on location five miles southeast of the deep Barbacoas field. About 2,000 acres are under lease on all sides of the producer. A tentative location on the 20 acers immediately west of discovery has not been confirmed.

T. E. Stephens et al's No. 1 H. P. Guerra, Tract 269, Porcion 69, is coring for sand at 2,224 feet in westermn Starr county.

The Homer P. Lee No. 2-A Yturria Town and Improvement Company, Porcion 42, Reynosa Jurisdiction, western Hidalgo County, is drilling at 2,750 feet.

Brooks County's new 10,000-foot wildcat test, the West Production Co.'s No. 1 J. D. Cage, Section 31, G. C. and S. F. Survey, seven miles south of Falfurrias, is rigging up.

SIX NEW PRODUCERS SEEN NEAR IN VALLEY FIELDS

McALLEN—Six new producers will be added soon in two fields in the Rio Grande Valley, where operations continued Saturday to be highlighted by an exceptionally heavy drilling program in the Rincon deep field of Starr County.

Four tests are on the sand in that field, with one completed the past week, and two new oilers are scheduled for the Colorado field of Jim Hogg County.

At Rincon, the W. R. Davis Company's Inc.'s No. B-25 T. B. Slick estate, Survey 268, on the west edge of the field, flowed 290 barrels of oil per day on quarter-inch tubing choke in sand at 4,197-4.212 feet. Pressures were 390 pounds, working on tubing and 925 pounds on casing, closed-in.

The Davis No. A-8 Slick, Survey 231, on the north edge of production, is testing for production in sand at 4,111-27 feet.

Field Sand Is Cored

The Davis No. A-9 Slick, Survey 231, 660 feet north of present production limits in the field, has cored the field sand at 4,082-97 feet and has cemented 7-inch o.d. casing at total depth of 4,259 feet.

The Davis No. A-10 Slick, Survey 231, also on the north edge, is coring for the sand at 4,060 feet.

(Dee) Davenport, Survey 944, 660 feet north of the No. A-2 Davenport; the Davis No. 31-B Slick, 660 feet north of the No. 27-B in Survery 266; and the Davis No. 28-B Slick, No. 29-B Slick, and No. 30-B Slick, all in Survey 266 on the west edge of production.

Two tests are on the sand in the Colorado field, southwestern Jim Hogg County.

The Sun No. 1 N. R. Thaxton, Survey 670, on the northeast edge of the field, cored the sand at 3,001-3,012 feet and has set 5½-inch o.d. casing on top of the sand.

EXTRA RADIO MESSAGES HIT

Stations Are Warned By Commission

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Federal Communications Commission issued Saturday what it described as "a sharp warning" against "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" from ship radio stations to other ships or to shore stations.

Earlier this week, the commission issued orders forbidding the country's 55,000 amateur operators to communicate with foreign countries and prohibiting the use of mobile transmitter sets by amateur operators except for very short distances.

The order Saturday was directed to all ship radio operators and ship station licenses. The commission said 'superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" would "not be tolerated" and violations would be "vigorously prosecuted."

Radio treaties to which this government is a party, as well as the federal communication act, the commission said, prohibit unnecessary or unidentified communications. It added that it would "hold ship station licensees, masters of ships and radio operators on board fully responsible for any violations."

Labor Board Changes Seen Never To Reach Law Stage After Votes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Despite 2-to-1 House approval, sweeping Wagner Act amendments around creation of a new Labor Relations Board were said by informed senators Saturday to be headed directly for a Senate committee pigeonhole.

Appealing for Senate action in the face of an adjournment drive, Representative Smith (D-Va), chairman of the NLRB investigating committee which drafted the original revisions, declared that the House vote Friday demonstrated the country's demand for immediate amendments "as an essential part of the defense program."

"Don't fool yourself," said Representative Hook (D-Mich), as House debate ended, "this bill will never be law."

Nevertheless, 116 Democrats and 142 Republicans voted for the Smith amendments; 13 Republicans, 113 Democrats and three others against.

Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the House labor committee, preferring less drastic amendments, bitterly assailed President William Green of the American Federation of Labor for endorsing the Smith proposals, with revisions which were made, after having said formerly that they would destroy the act.

The principal Smith amendment would abolish the present labor board and create a new three-man agency, but permit the president to reappoint the present members—Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin S. Smith, and William Leiserson.

Japanese Arriving In The Philippines

MANILA—(AP)—While the National Assembly was considering the immigration quota bill, 980 Japanese entered the Philippines in the first four months of this year, official figures disclosed Saturday.

The bill, vigorously protested by Tokyo, was passed April 12, but still awaits action by President Roosevelt. It slashes annual quotas from 1,000 to 500.

Mail Gets Through

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Kindness to dogs is reducing the bites inflicted on mail carriers, says Homer Hobbs, chairman of the mailmen's committee on the dog problem. So far this year when 15 mailmen have been bitten, far below the rate for previous years.

Hobbs said one carrier had made friends with a vicious dog by bringing it a bone. Investigation showed that the dog's aversion to mail carriers dated from the time a postman had sprayed it with an ammonia gun.

Minor Tragedy

BROWNSVILLE PORT LOADS CRUDE SOON

First Cargo Is Slated June 16

BROWNSVILLE—The first loading of crude oil at the Port of Brownsville is scheduled Sunday June 16, F. W. Hoimokel, port director, announced Saturday.

The black gold is to be loaded at the W. R. Davis and Company's new tank farm, and is being pumped here from the Rincon field.

Further Expansion

The vessel is to load between 70,000 and 100,000 barrels, presumably for a foreign port.

Meanwhile, further plans for expansion of the Davis and Company tank farm were being rushed to completion Saturday.

The tank farm, which already has three 55,000 barrel tanks, and one 85,000 barrel tank, is having foundations laid for two 80,000 barrel ones. The steel for the two additional tanks is due Monday.

Four 10,000 barrel tanks are also to be erected, and there is also the possibility of constructing two or three more 80,000 barrel ones.

Other Bookings

Joe Stead is head of the Davis and Company tank farm.

While foreign trade was in the offing, two coastwise vessels are due at the Port of Brownsville this week, the SS Henry R. Mallory of the Clyde Mallory Lines, on Sunday, and the SS Dorothy of the Bull Line on Wednesday.

The vessels are to load general cargo for Atlantic seaboard ports.

An unloading rack for casing head gasoline, that will be shipped here by rail, is also under construction at the Davis tank farm.

Charged with refusing to salute the American flag, the religious sect has been the target of criticism, and in some instances of violence, in the Valley, state and nation recently.

Dewey Urges Arming For Americans Now

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—Saying that the task of strengthening America's defenses should not be "blindly" left to our "existing national bureaucracy," Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination urged Saturday that "we must see to it that America does not miss the bus."

In an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting of district young Republicans, Dewey said that "all of us must be ready to accept, as citizens, some of the responsibility to see that the job (of rearming America) is done."

Exchange To Start Paying Reserves On Fresh Fruit Assets During Week

Valley Citrus Unit Said In Best Shape That It Has Ever Been

HARLINGEN—The Rio Grande Valley Citrus Exchange will begin paying back reserves on its fresh fruit assets next week in the same way that some of the member associations have been paying back packing plant reserves, Manager R. B. McLeaish announced at the annual membership meeting of the Stuart Place Citrus Association Friday night. The exchange expects to begin paying back by-products plant reserves within a few seasons.

The reserves consist of money paid into a revolving fund returned to growers when a property is paid for.

McLeaish said that he announced to the La Feria association Thursday night that only 29,000 cases of grapefruit juice remained unsold, but that by time of the Stuart Place meeting only 25,000 cases were unsold. He predicted a good demand for juice from start of the next canning season.

Earl Pike, exchange auditor, told the Stuart Place members that the exchange was in the best condition that it has ever been. He said that the cost of producing and selling grapefruit juice will be 15 to 20 cents a case below last season in spite of a smaller volume.

Those who sponsored the minimum price agreement last fall thought it would hurt the exchange and when they found it was getting more than the minimum they promptly scuttled the program, William A. Brunton, sales manager, charged.

Brunton said many growers were stampeded into giving away their fruit at juice prices after the freeze and let someone else make the profit. With the co-operation of association managers and member growers, the exchange was able to hold back much fruit until the market rose, increasing the exchange average considerably.

Manager Sid Berly of the Adams Gardens property told how his organization netted more money by packing and marketing its fruit through the Stuart Place association and the exchange. "I am pleased with the returns this year and am definitely certain the set-up is right," he said. "It is not what a grower can get for a few boxes at a given time but the average he gets for all of his fruit," he added.

Harold F. Looney described the successful turn being taken by the dehydrated feed business with the production of a better dried citrus peel at less cost. The exchange sold all old stock on hand and its small production of 692 tons produced this season at a good price, he said.

Ben F. Barnes, exchange director, said "the exchange directors have dug in more than in any year before and we have seen results from it."

G. E. Vance pointed out the need for producing more fruit per tree as one way of increasing exchange tonnage. He said that it would be possible to increase production up to 30 per cent "by using all our resources and opportunities." He said Valley Production Credit Association loans were available at 4½ per cent interest to improve production and quality.

James Harter, auditor, and J. H. Welch, editor of Texas Citriculture, were among the speakers.

The association re-elected A. T. Potts, B. F. Barnes, V. Gustafson and W. E. Carey, directors whose terms expire. J. B. Challes, Joe L. Penry, Jr., and J. B. Chambers, Sr., are holdover directors. The board met immediately after the membership meeting and re-elected all the old officers including Potts, president; Penry, vice president; Challes, secretary-treasurer; and Ben F. Barnes, member of the executive committee.

Truck Load Limit's Repeal Asked

DENTON—(AP)—William N. Corry, candidate for state commissioner of agriculture, laid down his 12 point platform program in an address here Saturday.

The former state representative of Keller, Tarrant county, advanced:

The immediate export of cotton under naval convoy; ad valorem taxes only on an equity owned in farm, ranch and homestead property; state assumption of the cost of soil conservation structures; full capacity production and drafting of a state-wide program to "double the annual farm income" in every community."

He also advocated repeal of the truck load limit on perishable produce and livestock; called for proper cooperation with all agricultural agencies, associations and organizations; pledged to stop the financial loss to farmers and the general public due to short weights and measures; and promised an impartial administration and a substantial reduction in departmental charges for inspections, tests, grading and license fees.

BASCOM GILES ASKS RETURN

Commissioner Points To Record

AUSTIN —(AP)— New land laws which he advocated, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles said in a radio address Saturday, had resulted in abolition of vacancy racketeering, clouding of land titles, gambling with school funds and possible favoritism in leasing state lands.

Giles, a candidate for re-election, asserted he had urged, in his previous campaign, creation of a three-man school land board, supplanting the commissioner alone, to administer important school land matters.

The new laws, he said, also had made it possible for occupants to establish priority rights for the purchase of vacancies found in their holdings and eliminated complex logarithmic bids for school and state acreage.

Fifteen hundred applications to purchase excess lands had been filed and the commissioner estimated the permanent school fund would be enriched by possibly $3,000,000 under the new procedure.

Giles said he mailed the first statements of delinquent land accounts in the history of the office and collected $125,000.

"THE HOUSE OF QUALITY"

East Hiway McAllen

She had to raise her boy to be a soldier

In many lands today, mothers are forced to give up their children—even the youngest. Dictators demand them—and dictators are all-powerful. In peace as in war, they control business and industry, capital and labor, life itself. Men and women are told what work they must do. There is no prize for ambition, no hope for the man who would like to choose his own career.

How different it is in the United States! Here is a republic, governed under law by men responsible to the people. In this free nation, we choose our life-work for ourselves. This system of free enterprise, more than anything else, makes the United States the world's greatest nation. Because men are free to dream and work as they see fit, scores of industries have grown great in America: the automobile, radio, telephone and electrical industries are just a few.

As typical Americans, the employees of Central Power and Light Company are devoted to the American principle of working together, producing more of the good things of life and making them available to more people. Through their efforts electric service steadily improves; at the same time, its price steadily comes down.

What inspires the people of Central Power and Light Company? They are paid for what they do, of course. But the best answer is this: the employees of CPL are proud of their part in building a great territory, a great nation. They work as free men to bring better service and value to other free men. They are glad to create wealth in peace instead of destroying it in war.

CPL has been built by free Americans. It is built to serve other free Americans, its customers. It is free from political dictation. Like all industry, like the nation itself, it will succeed as long as there are free Americans to work for it and free Americans for it to work for.

HULL IS OUT OF POLITICS

Secretary Of State Not To Run

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has, on several occasions, disclaimed interest in the presidency, declared in a letter made public Saturday he considers himself "out of politics."

W. T. Kennerly, Knox county Democratic leader, wrote the secretary advising him the Knox county (Knoxville) Democratic convention had strongly endorsed him should President Roosevelt decline a third term.

Hull replied: "I can only repeat what I have said in all candor during the past twelve months, in letters and in the press, and that is that I am out of politics, that I have no aspirations in any sense for any office."

Clipper Plane Hits Bad Weather

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pan American Airways' Atlantic Clipper which took off for Europe Friday afternoon turned around when a third of the way across the Atlantic and landed back here early Saturday morning.

The line's tentative explanation was that the reversal apparently was due to bad weather.

The Clipper had 21 passengers, including Rear Admiral David Le Breton, who was going to take command of the U. S. naval squadron at Lisbon, Portugal; and General Stefano Cagne, director of civil aviation in Italy.

Florida Will Send Three Men To Area

HARLINGEN — Florida is planning to send a three-man committee to the Valley, California and Arizona to check the situation of the citrus industry in those areas, according to information reaching here.

One of the things which influenced the Florida Citrus Commission to send a delegation on a tour of the citrus areas was the fact that California kept a representative in Florida for 89 days following the January freeze.

BABSON SEES SUDDEN TURN HERE TO STAY

Violent Europe News Doesn't Hinder

By ROGER W. BABSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Despite the violent news from Europe, American business has held its ground over the past month. A sensational surge in steel and other heavy industries has cancelled out losses in textiles, building, foreign trade, and automobile sales. Business has also absorbed violent shocks in security and commodity prices without throwing the upward trend (which started in mid-April) into reverse.

This is a remarkable situation. Ordinarily when the stock market is hit with a 30 per cent shakeout over a fourteen-day period, it is as sure a sign of a business slump as is a rapidly-falling barometer of a storm. Added to the panic in the security markets is the drastic break in farm product prices. Wheat, for instance, is off twenty cents a bushel. Naturally, this sharp drop is having its effect on retail trade in rural areas. Sales are already off 10 to 20 per cent in such territories as Kansas City, Dallas, Minneapolis.

Textiles And Building Off

Textile mills have felt the shock, too. Their schedules dipped 10 to 15 per cent as raw cotton prices were slashed two cents a pound. An incessant barrage of war news, twenty-four hours a day, does not help real estate salesmen close their deals. Consequently, the gains in home buildings, which were running along smoothly up to May 1, are now being cut down. Latest figures for the country, nevertheless, show 1940 is still topping the level of a year ago. The slowing down in building is reflected in a tapering off of activity in the lumber camps as well.

Automobile sales are beginning to take it on the chin. After listening to a fifteen-minute broadcast of war news, or a quick perusal of the War Extra, the average buyer has the starch taken right out of him. Moreover, loss of the North European markets is a big blow to our exports of automobiles. Motor output in the first half of 1940 has been at a very high level. Now, with big field stocks, with sales slowing down, and with the export markets disrupted, manufacturers are cutting down production. The same situation is true in certain appliance and furniture lines.

Arms Industries Booming

These unfavorable trends, however, are all being erased by the tremendous impetus given armament industries. Current appropriations cover the largest peace-time funds ever set aside for our army and navy. New factories, training camps, shipyards, machine shops, foundries, will be needed to gear America up to war-time needs. I say war-time needs purposely because it seems inevitable to most well-informed people that we will tangle with Germany or Japan somewhere, sometime! Terrific stock-piles of copper, iron, rubber, lumber, tin, aluminum, will be needed to produce this vast defense machine.

So much for what has already happened. Gloomy as the war news has been—far more shocking than that which swept across the nation in 1914—our markets and business have absorbed the jolts relatively well. Back in 1914 the market collapsed, then closed, and business dropped sharply. It was six months before we had a rally. This time, as I have predicted right along, the war should give American industry a tremendous lift. Hundreds of thousands of the unemployed should find their way back to jobs (either in industry or in the army) in the next twelve months.

Foreign Trade Disclocated

America will, for awhile, become the World's Number One manufacturer, farmer, shipper, and banker. The wiping out of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium has temporarily given our foreign trade a rough time of it. Those countries, for instance, took over 30 per cent of our wheat exports. The loss of our markets in the neutral countries should soon be made up, however, by our taking over of their trade with South America and with England. We will supply the Allies, for example, with steel which they formerly purchased from Belgium or produced in Northern France, with paper which they purchased from Scandinavia, and with foodstuffs which they purchased from Denmark and Holland.

Hence, I believe that, war or peace, our industries will continue to hum. A German victory should mean a far greater defense program than that now contemplated; while an Allied victory should mean billions for reconstruction. To the extent that the world continues its expenditures for luxuries, style goods, and amusements, these armament and reconstruction costs will result in an exhaustion of capital and world wealth. Then a lower standard of living throughout the world will follow unless unnecessary luxury expenditures are curtailed.

Repeal Wages and Hours

There is one other possibility. If the Wage and Hour Act could be repealed and if labor unions would be reasonable, we might be able to increase our armament expenditures and still maintain our present standard of living. As long, however, as short-sighted politicians and selfish labor leaders remain in control, I see no hope for this change. The people of the United States—I fear—still fail to realize that only integrity, hard work, intelligence, self-control, and sacrifice will save them!

Relaxing

M. L. Annenbarg, above, is shown in a thoughtful mood as he relaxes during a recess in his federal court hearing at Chicago.

ITALY BOOSTS STEEL BUYING

Munitions Industry Is Hard To Feed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—To feed its munitions industry Italy has increased its monthly purchasec of United States scrap steel more than ten-fold since the second month of the European war, while Japan's buying has sloughed off markedly.

From a low point in October, 1939, when Italy bought only 7,000 tons, purchases have gained month by month to 74,000 tons in April—last month for which commerce department figures are available.

The United States has no restrictions on export of scrap steel, although many proposals for embargoes have been made in Congress.

Despite gains to Italy, Great Britain and Canada, however, United States exports of scrap steel in the first four months of 1940 totaled only 850,000 tons, as compared with 1,005,000 tons in the same months of 1939.

AUSTIN LEGION POST SEEKS TO BAR COMMUNISTS IN VOTE

Group Will Hold To Minimum Influence By Subversive Group; Reply To Protest Due To Be Given Monday

AUSTIN—(AP)—A move to bar Communist party candidates' names from the state general election ballot was launched Saturday by Travis post No. 76 of the American Legion in Austin.

Asserting its intention to "hold to a minimum" any influence wielded by any subversive group, the Legion post, in a letter to Secretary of State M. O. Flowers protested inclusion of Communist party names on the ballot, contending the candidates would be ineligible to hold public office.

In years past, Communist candidates for state offices were listed with Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist and other party nominees.

Flowers, studying the protest with his legal staff, said he probably would reply to the Legion post's letter Monday.

Communist candidates in the last state election included Homer Brooks, who received 424 votes for governor; Cecil Robinett, 1,023 votes for lieutenant-governor; Nathan Kleban, 163 votes for attorney general, and James Sagar, 204 votes for commissioner of the general land office.

In the 1936 general election, Communist Earl Browder received 253 Texas votes for the presidency and Brooks 283 for governor.

On instructions of the Legion post membership, Adjutant J. E. McClain asked Flowers to deny a place on the ballot to Communists because:

"First: The Communist party is not a major political party.

"Second: Any avowed member of the Communist party running for public office on the Communist ticket would be ineligible to hold such office because, when becoming a member of the Communist party, such person is required to swear allegiance to a foreign government, and thus every act would be as an agent of such foreign power.

"The second reason given is amply and conclusively proved by sworn testimony given by Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party of America, and others, before the Dies un-American activities committee and other government agencies in recent years.

"Also, this is proved by articles appearing constantly in the newspaper 'Daily Worker,' published in New York, the official organ of the Communist party in America."

SOUTH TEXAS JOB PLACING SHOWS DROP

Tomato Canning May Bring Employment

BROWNSVILLE — Temporary farm placements fell off considerably throughout South Texas in May, compared with the same month a year ago, W. B. MacFarland, district supervisor of the Texas State Employment Service, Brownsville, announced Saturday.

There were only 8,211 farm placements during the month, compared with 14,613 of May, 1939, in the 16 South Texas counties comprising District No. 3 of the TSES, Mr. MacFarland reported.

Late Tomato Deal

The late maturity of the tomato deal as a result of the freeze earlier in the year, bore the brunt of the decline.

With the tomato canning season expected to start about June 20, and a good season in the offing, the employment of figures are expected to pick up considerably.

Public and private placements throughout South Texas also suffered a set-back during May. The placements totaled 1,452 compared to 2,122 of May, 1939.

Private Jobs Fewer

There were 1,223 private placements and 229 public ones in May compared to 1,388 and 734, respectively for the same month a year ago.

The May report of the TSES showed further that there were 1,697 new applications for employment filed in May, compared with 1,913 a year ago.

Total applications in the active file as of May 31 were 15,436, compared to 13,115 of May 31, 1939.

Claim Filed

Initial compensation claims filed in May totaled 1,690, and secondary claims, 4,872. Field visits totaled 2,282.

J. G. Starck is manager of Area A of the TSES which includes Brownsville, Harlingen and San Benito.

Nazis See Stronger Spain With New Land

BERLIN, —(AP)— The authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland predicted Saturday that Gibialtar would become Spanish as it was before Britain made it a Mediterranean stronghold.

The commentary said that areas opposite Spain on the African coast—apparently meaning some in addition to Spanish Morocco—"must be in Spanish hands."

"Spain in this position will have the function of an independent trustee for all nations living on the Mediterranean or doing business there."

16 CANNERIES JOIN HIDALGO TOMATO DEAL

Four Firms To Work On Pineapples

McALLEN — Although the Rio Grande Valley's tomato canning deal this summer may equal only 25 to 50 per cent of the pack last season, at least 16 processing plants will go into operation in Hidalgo county in the near future, R N (Bob) Hancock of McAllen, county sanitarian, announced Saturday.

Hancock checked all of the plants late in the week as they rushed preparations to start work about June 17.

Season Is Late

The canning season is more than a month late this season. Last year such operations began May 7. The January freeze was blamed for most of the delay which reduced both quantity and equality of the 1940 spring tomato crop.

Almost all canning will be finished by July 4, the processors told Hancock.

Four of the 16 plants will also can juice from the crop of Mexican pineapples now coming into bearing.

Companies Are Listed

At Mission the Bohannon Canning Company and Smith canning plant will work the tomato deal McAllen will have the Reagan Canning Company, McAllen Canning Company and St. Clair Foods Company in the tomato deal, with the Christensen Products Company plant handling both tomatoes and pineapples and the Southwest Products Company processing pineapples only. Two Edinburg plants, the Myers Canning Company and Apte Brothers will can tomatoes. At Weslaco the L. Young Bullfighter To Appear In Lisbon

Rangel To Fly Across The Sea

BROWNSVILLE—Braving a peril more formidable than bulls, Antonio Rangel, 25, ace Mexican bullfighter, Saturday was en route to Lisbon, Portugal, to fulfill a bull fighting contract despite possible spread of the European war.

The veteran of six years of bullfighting, despite his youth, arrived here Friday afternoon from Mexico City by Pan American Airways and left by Eastern Air Lines for New York.

He is to leave New York for Lisbon via PAA Clipper plane June 9

Wounded Twice

During his six years in the ring, Rangel has participated in about 144 fights, but he has only been wounded twice by bulls.

His interest in bullfighting was acquired by just "hanging around" the matadors when he was a youth he said. He later studied under Rodolfo Gaona, the champion bullfighter of Mexico, who has taught many famed matadors the art.

Rangel was reared in Leon, Guanajuato, the home of Gaona, and it is no wonder he became enthused.

Likes Capework

Capework gives him the greatest thrill. The use of the cape is an art in itself, he said while changing planes here.

The most dangerous part of bullfighting, however, is making the final thrust with the sword while "working" in close quarters with the bull. That is because the fighter can't see the horns of the bull due to the cape, Rangel explained.

ANTONIO RANGEL

"What does a bullfighter do in his spare time?" Rangel was asked.

They don't sip tea, if Rangel is a typical example. The youthful matador's hobby is "jai alai," a more vigorous form of American handball, a sport that is very fast, and exhausting.

When Rangel gets to Portugal, he won't be faced with the necessity of killing the bulls, but the danger will be there just the same. They don't kill the bulls over there, he said. Fighting the bull, however, is carried out in all its perfection.

Rangel is contracted for six Portugal fights, and there is the possibility he might fight 10. He expects to be away from Mexico about three months.

Government Workers Increase In Month

BROWNSVILLE—Assistant Postmaster and Mrs. Charles C. Stewart have returned to Brownsville following the graduation of their daughter, Miss Arnetta Stewart, from the Texas State College for Women at Denton recently.

They were accompanied to the graduation exercises by their sons, Chilton and Kelsey Stewart. Miss Stewart returned to Brownsville with them.

Following the graduation, the Stewarts visited briefly with the assistant postmaster's mother, Mrs. C. C. Stewart, Sr., at Cooper.

Miss Stewart graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree. She majored in public school music and piano.

TICKER TAPE BARELY HITS TRADE LEVEL

Stocks Finish Week On Downside

NEW YORK— (AP) —In dealings that barely kept the ticker tape alive, the stock market Saturday finished a war-hesitant week pointing slightly downward.

Leading stocks started out with minor advances, but the majority fell away a trifle at the close.

Transfers of 199,270 shares for the two hours were the smallest for any session since July 8, 1939. They compared with 273,445 last Saturday. The week's turnover of around 2,500,000 shares also was a bottom figure for this period in about a year.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .1 of a point at 28.2 and on the week was down .3.

Willys - Overland common and preferred were a bit ahead following announcement the company, with a subsidiary, would enter the munitions field. Chrysler and General Motors were resistant.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, and Youngstown, up for a while on forecasts of a brisk upturn in next week's mill operations, ended under water. Other losers were Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Texas Corporation and International Paper Preferred.

Up a shade were Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Standard Oil of N. J., National Biscuit and General Electric.

In a ragged and sluggish curb modest advances were posted for American Gas Standard Oil of Ohio and Technicolor. On the offside were American Cyanamid "B," Brewster Aero and Jones and Laughlin. Sales of about 44,000 shares were the same as a week ago.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Broadcasting Of War Reports Banned Now

MARINE THINKS CHANNEL SWIM JUST A BREEZE

LONDON —(AP)— How a British marine swam eight of the 21 miles between Calais and Dover and was just "getting into my stride" when he was picked up by a small ship ferrying soldiers home from Flanders was told Saturday by Gilbert Rowe, of the Queen Victoria Rifles, one of the few surviving defenders of Calais.

Rowe said the marine seemed quite fresh when pulled aboard the ship.

"His first remark was 'Sure you have enough room for me'"

Meeting Is Set

Dallas Men Organize For Americanism

DALLAS— (AP) —A committee of 100 prominent Dallas business men and civic leaders made plans Saturday for a city-wide "Americanism" mass meeting to be held next Friday evening. One of the principal purposes, they said, was to "crystalize sentiment and material support for the Allies."

Karl Hoblitzelle, financier and theatre magnate, was named chairman at a meeting Saturday morning.

In addition to aid for the Allies, a resolution calling for the meeting said it would stress: "Enunciation of the aims and principles of Americanism; the speeding of national defense and protection of our (American) institutions; and speeding of extermination of the fifth column in the United States."

America's Industry Shifts From Peaceful Gadgets To Fighting Units

Expansion Of Plants Set On Large Scale As Needs Of War To Be Turned Out

Hundreds Of Millions Will Be Spent For Construction Of New Plants

NEW YORK—(AP)—Shifting from the manufacture of peaceful gadgets to fighting machines, America's industry has embarked on large-scale plant expansion and adaptation of factories to war needs, a nation-wide survey showed Saturday.

Projects under construction and in prospect to handle home defense and increased Allied purchases will result in expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for materials, workers and machines, the survey indicated.

Prodded by Allied buying, actual war industry expansion has been most spectacular in airplane and motor manufacturing. Some plants have tripled capacity in the past year or so. Others are pushing new expansion, either started or on the drafting boards.

Gathering momentum to the cadence of the Nazi blitzkrieg tempo war orders are spilling into munitions, textiles, tanks, automotive equipment, guns, explosives, chemicals and have forced a start on the greatest war plant expansion in the United States since 1914-18.

Heavy Spending Seen

Considering the administration's $5,000,000,000 defense program and the race to lend material aid to the Allies, financial circles regard the current expansion as merely in the opening stage.

Waldo G. Bowman, editor of the "Engineering News-Record," estimated Washington's defense plans alone would call for construction outlay of about $500,000,000, including air bases.

Much more may be spent, he said, for industrial plants, either with private capital or government loans. Investment bankers insist there is plenty of private capital available for factory expansion, providing arrangements is made for rapid charge-offs of war facilities. President Roosevelt has indicated public funds would be available, too.

Many Contracts Issued

Aircraft, tool and chemical industries were major contributors to increased industrial construction under way. Contracts for factories and other industrial structures in the first five months of this year totaled $171,000,000 compared with $73,000,000 in the like 1939 period, according to "Engineering News-Record."

The shift to war industry was accompanied this week by a further rise in leading production barometers, notably steel. A fifth consecutive weekly advance lifted the Associated Press index to industrial activity to the highest level since February. This index has regained about half its loss in the winter and early spring slump.

Wall Street speculative markets, however, remained cautious despite the climb in the business curve and the preparations for heavy plant expenditures to equip war industry. Brokers ascribed the apathy of the markets partly to anticipation of individual and corporate income tax boosts to meet the soaring arms bills.

The new German thrust into France and the Italian threat of war in the Mediterranean likewise kept speculators on the sidelines waiting the outcome, brokers said.

FINE TOTALS RISE IN MAY

Fewer Cases Produce More Revenue

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville lower courts assessed fewer fines in May than in April, but the fines were heavier, checks at Brownsville corporation court and in both the Precinct Two justice court indicated Friday.

Eighty-eight fines assessed in May were for a total of $1,387.35 as compared to 107 fines in April for a total of $1,256.67.

Justice of the Peace Fred Recio, place one in Precinct Two, during May assessed 26 fines for a total of $630.80 as compared to 29 fines for $600.42 in April.

Justice of the Peace George Krausse, place two in Precinct Two, during May assessed 22 fines for a total of $368.55, compared with 26 fines for $290.25 in April.

In city corporation court, Judge John Dutro assessed 40 fines for a total of $368 in May, as compared to 52 fines for $366 in April.

A breakdown of the city court fines in May reveals that of 40 fines for $368, eight were worked out for $80; at least something was paid on 11 fines, for $54; and a balance is due on 26, for $234. No fines were suspended.

In addition to collection of $54 on current fines, $14.25 on old fines was collected in May, bringing city court collections to $68.25 for that month. During May also, 12 old fines were worked out, for $94.50.

VALLEY ASKS GUARDS POST

Edinburg Seeks New Border Unit

EDINBURG — Although Hidalgo county officials have been advised that no national guard unit is available for the Upper Valley, members of Edinburg's newest civic organization, the 20-30 club, have petitioned State Adjutant General J. Watt Page at Austin to seek establishment of such a unit in Edinburg.

Scott Toothacker, chairman of the board of the club, said Saturday the petition was signed by local leaders the past week and was taken to Austin by State Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, who conferred with General Page and with Governor W. Lee O'Daniel on the possibility of securing the guard establishment. Only one unit of the Texas National Guard is now operating in the Valley, that at San Benito.

Bonner Wootten, president of the 20-30's, also announced the club has dispatched a telegram to Congressman Milton H. West at Washington urging the sale of araments and other war supplies to the Allies "We also seek your support of border fortifications, including a national guard unit for Edinburg," the club informed the congressman.

The club, meantime, is completing arrangements for its next regular meeting here, scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Palm Cafe, when Wayne Wood, president of the San Antonio 20-30 club, is scheduled to be present as a guest of honor.

The Edinburg club now has a membership of about 50 young business and professional men.

Tax Sales Made

Edinburg Gets $5,500 On Property

EDINBURG—Sales of city property through tax foreclosures have yielded $5,500 in new revenue to the city of Edinburg since January of the year, Mayor A. A. Aldrich said Saturday.

Delinquent taxes against the property totalled about twice that amount, he said, and the city settled on a pro-rata basis with the county and the school district, both of which had back tax claims against the land.

Tax collections here, meanwhile, are running about average, with some 70 per cent of all assessments paid up to the last accounting, the mayor added.

Communists Protest Jailing Of Members

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—The Communist party protested Saturday to President Cardenas against the detention of six members by the police in connection with the investigation into the machine-gun attempt to assassinate Leon Trotsky.

In a message to the chief executive, as well as to the attorney general and the secretary of the interior, the party declared that such detentions would "disorient public opinion with regard to the party's activities."

Study Is Approved

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed into law Saturday legislation directing the Bureau of Labor Statistics to study labor and production costs in manufacturing, mining, transportation, distribution and other industries.

The bureau estimated that between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 men were unemployed because of labor saving devices put into use since 1929.

The governor takes office in January in every state except Louisiana, where the governor's term begins in May.

CITY PUSHES PAVING WORK

Edinburg Uses 'Pay As You Go' Plan

EDINBURG—Edinburg has completed the paving of 11 blocks of streets in its new pay-as-you-go improvement program at a cost of about $300 per block, Mayor A. A. Aldrich revealed Saturday.

"We found we were able to do the work with city laborers at a cost approximately that under the WPA program," the mayor said, "so that is why we have undertaken the project."

Work and materials on all save four of the blocks have been paid for already.

The city puts up $100 and the property owners $200 per block of pavement, he explains. Thus far the city has spent exactly $1,100 and the lot owners have provided the remainder of the $3,000 cost.

The mayor said the program has proved attractive to property owners because no debts against the property, such as paving liens, are left "hanging fire." The work is not undertaken unless both city and property owners' funds are on hand or are in sight for a given block.

"This work will continue indefinitely," Mayor Aldrich asserted. "We are hampered somewhat right now by lack of equipment, but I plan to ask the city commissioners to allow the inspection of and purchase of a piece of machinery in the near future which will help us a great deal."

New Cancer Attacks Revealed By Doctor

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, chairman of the executive council of the California Instiute of Technology, has disclosed a "promising" new attack by science upon cancer.

Dr. Millikan, giving his annual report of institute progress at the commencement exercises, said:

"The cancer research program has had a remarkable chemical development—the further purification of a substance which, on injection into a tumor in an experimental animal, causes the tumor in many cases to shrivel up and disappear."

Local Red Cross Meet Is Called For Monday

Additional Funds For War Refugees Will Be Discussed By Harlingen Men

HARLINGEN—Executive committee of the local Red Cross Chapter will meet at 4 p.m. Monday at the First National Bank to discuss the appeal of the national organization for additional funds with which to assist refugees of the war in Europe, according to Roscoe Pryor, local chairman.

A telegram was received a day or so ago asking for additional funds with the spread of the war and the resulting increase in refugees, Pryor said.

The San Benito Chapter with which the Harlingen group is affiliated, recently was given a quota of $1,860, according to Joe A. Sloan, chapter chairman. This has since been doubled and efforts are being made to raise this sum, he told The Star.

There now are 5,000,000 refugees very much in need of help and the American Red Cross is seeking to raise $20,000,000 or double the original $10,000,000 that was asked, in order to be able to extend needed assistance.

Fishing Rules

With tens of thousands of fishermen on lakes and streams in Texas, the executive secretary of the State Game Department has outlined a few simple rules for the protection of the angler from accidents, and at the same time outlined practices in the handling and treatment of fish and minnows that should be followed if Texas waters are to be as productive of these species as every angler expects them to be.

For your own safety and for the producing of better fishing, check these rules and see if you're living up to them:

At a glance one can usually tell whether or not he has caught a fish that must be returned to the water. Catch the fish i nthe lower lip with your thumb and fore finger, remove the hook and release him easily to the water. If it is necessary to catch the fish with your hands, wet your hand first to prevent disturbance of the protective slime that covers the fish. Be sure you have a legal fish before it goes on the string. This oversight might make a fishing trip an unhappy one. Check your tackle box for a ruler before you leave home or mark off the lengths on your boat or tackle box. Remember bass must be eleven inches long and crappie seven inches. DON'T WASTE FISH. TAKE ONLY THOSE THAT CAN BE USED, AND USE THOSE THAT YOU TAKE.

Seining bait may prove to be more expensive than buying it from a bait dealer, if care is not taken. Be sure that you do not sein minnows over three inches long, small bass, crappie and perch are not minnows. All species other than minnows must be released to the water immediately. Minnows that are too small for bait should be likewise returned to the water. They may be large enough for bait next time you go fishing. They are also valuable fish food. It is illegal to injure small fish or leave them on the bank to die.

Never use a boat that is unsafe and always have life preservers for every member of the crew. Boats with rotten boards should never be used. In case your boat does turn over, never get excited. Most wooden boats will support three or four people even if turned over or filled with water. Wait for help and never try to swim a great distance to shore. Many a good swimmer has lost his life trying this stunt. If it is necessary to swim, never try to swim with your clothes on. Remove your shoes first and then other clothes. It is better to lose your clothes than your life. Never wade unknown waters with hip boots, because if you go into water over your head with hip boots on, it is nearly impossible to remove them. Holes or rock jump-offs will cause one to lose balance and here is where the trouble comes.

Every fisherman should have some first-aid equipment in his fishing outfit. Scratches and bruises should be treated immediately to prevent infection. Never try to get a complete sun tan on a single fishing trip. The pain from sun burn is a poor trade for a sun tan. Every fisherman should have a kit to threat poison snake bites.

Practice safety first and maybe you will not have to use first-aid.

About Show Dogs

That dog fanciers are fully aware of the importance of good inheritance in the breeding of pure-bred show dogs is attested by some 1,350,000 names and pedigrees in the stud book of The American Kennel Club. And yet, the mating of representatives of notable dog-families does not, necessarily, produce dogs of championship caliber.

Quality seldom can be produced unless there is some quality with which to make a start. But even potentially great quality can be ruined by improper raising. The most successful dog breeders realize that their work merely has started when a litter is whelped—regardless of how many champions are found on both sides of the pedigree.

Proper nutrition, particularly in the early life of a puppy, is one of the most important factors in the making of a future winner. The youngster that comes of a line noted for sturdy bone may wind up as a spindly-legged "cripple" unless it receives the correct, bone-building foods. The coat, feet, and ears are other points that may go completely wrong.

Many dog judges place great emphasis upon soundness of structure. Inheritance has a great deal to do with soundness, but the dog raised in the best environment and always kept in splendid condition can best preserve that soundness.

There are many cases on record of excellently-bred dogs that lost their quality under poor care, and many other cases of apparently poor specimens that were made into noted champions by good treatment. One of the greatest show winners of modern times was a dog that at one period in his career seemed fit only to be put to sleep. Of a good line, and structurally correct, he was permitted to lapse into such poor health that few wanted him—even as a pet. Bought by a man who knew the secrets of conditioning, this dog became famous. (From The American Kennel Club Press Bureau).

Sarazen Ties Little For Open Crown

Playoff Set To Start At 8:30 Today

Many Players Are Disqualified

By GAYLE TALBOT

CANTERBURY GOLF COURSE, CLEVELAND—(AP)—Gene Sarazen the dark, fast-striding little golf veteran from Connecticut, came out of nowhere late Saturday through the rain and mud to tie Lawson Little for the National Open championship at 287 strokes and carry the former amateur king into a playoff for the title Sunday.

Winner of his first Open championship in 1922 and a repeater in 1932, Sarazen struck for his third title so unexpectedly that it wasn't until the last three holes that the huge gallery swarmed around him.

Sensational Finish

His finish was nearly as sensational as that of '32 when he scored a final record-breaking round of 66 at Fresh Meadow to snatch the title from Bobby Cruickshank and Phil Perkins.

Little, winner of the British and Amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, was in with what looked like the payoff score. Sarazen had "blown" on the out nine, going two over par, and he needed an impossible 34 coming back to tie. The course was muddy and heavy from a soaking rain.

While Little sat in the press tent and watched the scoreboard with anguished eyes, Sarazen did it. The little guy not only picked up the two birdies he needed, but on the final hole, he nearly curled in a 45-foot putt that would have won him the title

Oliver Disqualified

There was a terrific hullabaloo because Ed Oliver, of Hornell, N Y., had been disqualified along with five other players for having made an unorthodox start on his closing round.

Oliver had a total of 287, too, but it never was posted. His 71 in the afternoon was thrown out because the committee decided the 23-year-old star had broken one of golf's most sacred rules by teeing off some 30 minutes before his scheduled starting time and without having reported to the official starter.

None of the other five disqualified mattered particularly, because they were out of the running anyway, but Oliver was mad in every one of his 240 pounds and he had plenty of support. There was a strong movement afoot to force the U.S.G.A. to admit him to Sunday's play-off. Both Sarazen and Little were willing

But Hal Pierce, of Boston, president of the golf body, said flatly "the matter is closed. We will not consider it further."

He complimented Little for having made a "sporting gesture" in asking that Oliver be included in the playoff. Sarazen had said: "Shucks, let him play. I can beat both of them." The little man with the fighting heart was in fine fettle.

To Meet This Morning

The two man battle between Little, 30, and Sarazen, 38, is scheduled for 3:30 a. m. (CST) Sunday. If they tie again, they will go at it for another 18 holes in the afternoon. Both are impatient. Oliver was crying in the clubhouse Saturday night.

Little's four rounds were 72-69-73-73—287.

Sarazen had rounds of 71-74-70-72—287. He started the final two rounds a stroke behind Little and Sam Snead. He was two shots behind the veteran Frank Walsh, who led the field at the end of 54 holes with 213. But while Walsh and Snead were falling apart in the final crucial 18 holes, Sarazen got tougher hole by hole until he pushed through to his favorite place in front.

Bullfight Set At Matamoros

Featured in the show are the famous band, the comic bullfighters "Don Cuco" and "Popeye's Son" and other stars of the fighting arena who, not content with being skillful bullfighters are also accomplished musicians.

New Orleans Track Is Up For Sale

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— A "For Sale" sign was hung Saturday on the Fair Grounds race track here where once the best horses ran for some of the country's richest stakes.

General Manager R. E. Eddy, Jr., of the Louisiana Jockey Club turned the 125-acre tract over to a real estate broker after he had appeared before a Louisiana house ways and means committee and unsuccessfully opposed a bill which would set up a state racing commission and outlaw bookmaking.

"It will be impossible to race unless we can include the morning line," Eddy said after his appearance before the committee. "As the new bill forbids bookmaking of any kind either inside or outside the track, there is nothing to do but bow to the inevitable."

GENE SARAZEN

Class D Evangeline Loop Is Club Owner's Dream

Associated Press Feature Service

LAFAYETTE, La.—Nearly half a million persons saw the eight clubs of the Class D Evangeline League in action last baseball season.

That's a pretty impressive attendance figure. It's even more impressive when you learn that cities forming the league total only a little more than 100,000 in population. It gets more impressive when you figure that represents an average of four or more games seen by every man, woman and child in league towns.

If that doesn't mean much to you figure it this way:

With that percentage of attendance in the big leagues they couldn't build a stadium large enough to hold the crowds!

Judge W. G. Branham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, calls the attendance record "remarkable." Officials say success of the loop can be attributed to a combination of a sports-loving population, geographical advantages and the application of good principles of salesmanship.

Evangeline League cities are concentrated in Southwest Louisiana, except for Port Arthur just over the border in Texas. Easy traveling distances make it possible to work out schedules which will allow maximum drawing power at all games. In smaller towns, for instance, a team will not play at home two nights in succession. Most of the crowd is drawn from the same group and officials have found that the fans would rather not stay up late two nights in a row.

Knothole gangs and other popular devices are used to attract youngsters—and they flock to the parks.

Worthington Meets Coffey For T. G. A. Crown Today

SAN ANGELO, Tex.—(AP)—Hezzie Carson, San Angelo's golfing man of steel, finally broke down.

Worn by 62 holes of tournament strife in two days, the San Angeloan fell before Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth ace and state Open champion, 3 to 2, Saturday in the semi-final match of the Texas Golf Association's titular meet on Carson's home course.

The Fort Worth shotmaker, Coffey, was off his game, but Carson was too fatigued to take advantage of it. Coffey made the turn one above par and four up on the West Texan, but was four strokes above par over the six hole back stretch.

Joe Worthington of Kingsville, the Rio Grande Valley links king, engages Coffey in the 36-hole championship final Sunday.

Worthington, pumping even par, but Joe Moore, Jr., of San Antonio, the state junior champion, out of the proceedings, 4 and 3, in the semi-final match.

Coffey was a murderous gunner in his quarter-final, 7 and 6, massacre of E. B. Lovvorn, Sweetwater, shelling the course for seven birdies in the 12 holes played. The Fort Worth sensation clicked five birdies, two bogies and two pars on the first nine to come in under the wire at the turn with a 32, three below par.

Carson was caught on the 18th by Tom Miller, Jr., of Austin, in the quarter-final tilt, then barged on into the extra hole to win as he had done twice before. Carson cracked a par 4 on the 19th while Miller three-putted and came up with a bogey five.

Moore and Worthington had the honor of taking out the tournament medalist and defending champion during the morning round.

Moore eliminated Reynolds Smith of Dallas, medalist, 1 up.

Worthington turned back Don Schumacher of Dallas, deefnding champion, 1 up in 19 holes, shooting a par 4 on the 19th while Schumacher bogeyed.

Bill Stark of Orange plays L. M. Montgomery Sunday in the first flight championship final.

Dees McDermott of Waco, and Lindsay Telford of Lubbock battle for the second flight laurels.

Allan Barnard of Lamesa takes on ePnrose Metcalfe of San Angelo for the third flight crown.

REBELS RELEASE TWO

DALLAS —(AP)— Pitcher Frank Lamanske and Infielder Jimmy Adair were released outright Saturday by president George Schepps as the Dallas Rebels cut down to the Texas League eighteen player limit.

La Feria Girls, Edcouch In Lead

McALLEN—What looks like a horse race is shaping up in the Rio Grande Valley girls soft ball league with La Feria and the Whamerettes from Edcouch-Elsa tied for top honors closely pursued by McAllen and Raymondville with San Perlita and the rejuvinated Mercedes team likely to cause trouble for the championship hopes of any of the ball clubs.

Two new girl teams are entering the league warfare. Mission and Donna will get under way soon and the reports are that both teams are strong.

Edcouch-Elsa whammed out a 14 to 11 victory Thursday night over the fast-stepping McAllen Masterettes with a barrage of doubles, triples, and home runs that kept the Masterettes outfielders hunting for the ball most of the time. Lee Watson's pitching was just to the liking of the twin city girls. They also gave the La Feria lassies a scare last Tuesday night by whamming out nine runs in the first three innings. La Feria showed their rating as one of the top teams of the Valley by coming from behind to nose out the Edcouch girls 10 to 9.

McAllen fell from grace and the top rating by their miserable showing against the Mission girls Wednesday night and Edcouch Thursday night. Several new players will probably put Masterettes back in their winning stride. Raymondville and San Perlita have been bumping into the top teams and splitting a pair of games on their home grounds. They will have an opportunity to improve their standing during the coming week. Sebastian and Mercedes are in the process of reorganization. Additional playing talent has been secured to bolster both teams.

The league schedule will be divided into thirds with a champion declared at the end of each round and a final playoff at the end of the season for the season championship.

League standings to Friday shows:

Edcouch-Elsa	3	1	.750
La Feria	3	1	.750
Raymondville	2	1	.667
McAllen	2	1	.667
San Perlita	1	2	.333
Mercedes	1	2	.333
Sebastian	0	1	.000
Edinburg	0	3	.000

Schedule for this week includes:

Tuesday

Mission at Raymondville.
San Perlita at Mercedes.
Sebastian at La Feria.

Wednesday

Raymondville at McAllen.

Thursday

McAllen at San Perlita.
Donna at Edcouch.
Edinburg at Mission.

Friday

Sharyland TCX Club Is Upset By Whalen Ten

Tiff Halts McAllen Edinburg Tilt

McALLEN—Old Man Upset again took his weekly kick at the dope bucket in the Hidalgo County Softball League when the last place Whalen ten clubbed out a 10-inning, 9 to 7, win over the second-place Sharyland T.C.X. club.

The Friday night tilt, played at Edinburg, was one of the best and most exciting games played in the league to date. Pitcher Kenneth Fox led the tenth inning assault on the T.C.X. aggregation by smashing a line single to left field. Heins singled with Fox taking third and both scored when the center fielder dropped Ruppert's long fly. Cunningham flied out to right with Rupert taking third after the catch. Salters walked but Walters provided the winning blow with a smash to shortstop that Robinson booted, allowing the winning tallies to trickle over the plate. Wallace, on the mound for the Sharyland club, allowed 11 hits while Fox allowed a like number for the Whalen entry.

Tuesday night at Edinburg, the Edinburg Stars loafed through an easy 3 to 0 win over the McAllen All Stars. The McAllen team started off with a bang by getting three hits and a walk in the first inning and still not scoring. They had 18 men stranded on the bases during the tilt as the county seat team played heads up ball.

Thursday night at McAllen, the Edinburg club ran up against tougher competition than was expected. The McAllen Stars put up a game battle all the way and fans were seeing a well-played ball game when trouble broke loose. The Edinburg partisans, and there were many of them, had worked themselves up in a huff over several decisions called by Umpire Luther Harper.

Mike McKinney was fired when several pitches were called balls and when the Edinburg infield converged upon Harper, he climaxed the occasion by ordering the Edinburg shortstop, Jerry Stephens, out of the game. He gave as his reason "that Stephens was very sarcastic in his remarks." Manager Abe Bloomfield refused to jerk his player and after a minute and a half, the umpire called the game off and gave it to the McAllen club. Edinburg was leading 4 to 1 when the affair started. It was the last half of the eighth inning. Manager Bloomfield planned to protest Harper's decision, but by noon Saturday, league officials had not received the protest. If allowed to stand as is, McAllen will be awarded the game 9 to 0. If not allowed to stand, Edinburg will take the field with the score 4 to 1 in their favor and a runner on first base. There will be two out when the game starts.

Friday night, at Engelman Gardens, the McAllen All Stars dropped a 7 to 3 game to the Won-Up club although they had defeated the Won-Up club at McAllen last Friday night.

Travis Wallace pitched a 7 to 0 shutout over the Whalen club Monday night at McAllen.

Standings

Edinburg	12	4	.750
Engelman's	12	7	.631
Sharyland	11	7	.611
McAllen	9	10	.473
Whalen's	4	14	.222
Mercedes	2	7	.222

San Antonio Man Is Skeet Winner

HOUSTON—(AP)—H. L. Brown of San Antonio won the state 20 gauge skeet title here Saturday after a 75 bird shoot off with Landrum Cullum of Wichita Falls.

Brown and Cullum tied in the 100 bird race with 99, then Brown won the overtime match when Cullum only placed a single shell in his gun and lost a double when his firing pin fell on an empty chamber.

Brown came back in the first 100 targets of the championship race to post a perfect score of 100. Other shooters who registered perfect scores were young Jimmy Cullum, Sol Freundlich and Frank Wood of Wichita Falls, and Roy Cherry of Dallas.

F. S. Hawkins of Dallas, C. J. Colby of Corpus Christi, Gilbert Gardiner of Houston, all amateurs, were tied for second place with 99.

The second 100 targets of the all bore race will be shot Sunday morning. This event will decide the women and junior titles.

Saints To Play Merchants Today

SAN BENITO—Rio Grande Valley baseball fans are certain to welcome the reorganization of the San Benito Saints, a name long associated with Valley baseball.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the new Saints will meet the Brownsville Merchants at Kiwanis Park here in their first game of the season.

Many of the outstanding amateur and semi-pro diamond stars of the Valley have signed with the Saints and a real game is assured.

Slingin' Sammy Tossing Calves Around In Rodeos

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

SWEETWATER, Tex.—(AP)—Pardner, meet up with Slingin' Sam Baugh—an old cowhand 350 miles from the Rio Grande.

Slingin Samuel, the gentleman rancher with football's finest forward passing arm, is roundin' up the dogies in rodeo corrals.

The sun-broiled Texan has put hemp burns on every critter within reach of his slingshot lariat to date. Old-timers who nearly gulped down their quids when Sammy roped, tied and spanked a calf in 11 seconds out on his ranch, say he has the touch.

In Formal Debut

The Slinger made his formal debut at the Floydada rodeo two two weeks ago. He met up with an unruly calf and used up 19 seconds, which was slightly out of the money.

"Shucks, out here on the ranch I've cut that time in half," apologized Sam. "But it was different in that arena."

Other than football, of which he knows plenty after terrific careers with Texas Christian University and the professional Washington Redskins, calf roping is the best sport, allows Cownand Baugh.

Recently Sam bought 25 head of Brahma calves on which to practice. But he had to sell 11 of them.

"They just got too derned big to handle," he admitted.

To offset the remote possibility that Mr. George (Wet Wash) Marshall, the rather easily excited owner of the Washington football, club, should become alarmed over Sam's innocent hobby of wrestling with bawling calves, the Slinger insists that he will not branch out into other rodeo pastimes—such as bulldogging steers mounting unbroken broncs and riding wild steers with a surcingle.

May Join Jenkins

Incidentally, one of Sam's illustrious fellow townsmen, Mr. Larrupin' Lew Jenkins, the generally recognized lightweight boxing champion, has a hankering along the same general lines.

SAMMY BAUGH

Sam owns some thoroughbred brood mares which the past spring bore thoroughbred colts.

Jenkins, a ranch boy who quit riding herd to win a boxing title, has been conversing with Sam about going into the thoroughbred business. The deal is practically closed—all they need is a thoroughbred stallion!

And, of course, all Lew needs is a ranch. But he promises his thunderous right hand, the one that jellied Lou Ambers' face, will take care of that, effective with his July engagement against Henry Armstrong.

Sam plans to go right along with his rodeoing having entered the famed Stamford rodeo July 2, 3 and 4. He will warm up at Spur June 14 and 15. He trains his own cow ponies and herds them around in a trailer he rigged up.

Right now you can go out any day to Sam's corrals and find a dozen or more dogies with their tongues hanging out.

And Sam's, too.

Texas All-Star Voting To Begin

DALLAS—(AP)—Fans of the Texas baseball league can start casting their votes Monday for their favorite players in the annual All-Star game scheduled for Fort Worth July 11.

Voting will continue through midnight, June 27, and the results announced Sunday, June 30.

Southern division fans can vote on members of the Beaumont, San Antonio, Houston and Shreveport clubs while the Northern division group consists of Dallas, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Tulsa.

Each team will carry six pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders, plus a manager. Players must be voted for at their regular positions, including the outfield.

The manager must be voted on as the manager, but playing managers can be named at their positions. Not more than five men from any one club can be named in the fan's ballot.

The Southern division, until last season, had won the first three games of the annual contest. But, in San Antonio, the North cracked the streak.

Ballots may be mailed to sports editors of league newspapers or to the Texas League office at Dallas.

Texas Athletes Grab Honors In Princeton Meet

Wolcott Tops Three Hurdle Marks

By WHITNEY MARTIN

PRINCETON, N. J. — (AP) — The eyes of track fans were on the state of Texas Saturday as athletes from the Longhorn country won three of the seven events in the Seventh Annual Princeton Invitation track meet, with Fred Wolcott of Rice accounting for two of the victories, one with a world record bettering performance.

Wolcott skimmed the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, bettering the recognized world record of 22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935 He also was timed in 22.3 at the 200 meter mark, surpassing Owen's 22.6 record.

In the 120-highs, he was timed in :13.9. This bettered the meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in 1935, and also the recognized American record of 14 seconds flat established by R. D. Osgood of Michigan in 1937.

As the select field of performers scattered old meet marks right and left in most events, the feature event of past programs—the mile run, went in the good but not sensational time of 4:11. It was won by a dark horse, "Lonesome John" Munski of the University of Missouri.

The University of Texas shuttle hurdle relay team of Douglas Jacques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett and Boyce Gatewood turned in a grand performance in that event to make the Texans' day a smashing success. Matched against a classy Yale team, the Texans were timed in :58.6, which bettered any known time for the event. The best previous record was :59.8. set by USC in 1935.

Summaries included:

120-yard hurdles, second, Boyce Gatewood, Texas; third, Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C.

Two mile run, third, Wayne Rideout, Shore A. C.

Mile run, fifth, Blaine Rideout, Shore A. C.

Hornsby Signs To Manage Oklahoma City

Will Pilot Tribe Today In Twin Bill

Replaces Keesey In Drivers Seat

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the "Old Rajah" of major league baseball fame, has been signed to manage the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League, owner John Holland announced Saturday.

Hornsby is expected to take charge of the faltering Indians, now in the league cellar, for a doubleheader with the Dallas Rebels Sunday afternoon.

Hornsby replaces Jim Keesey, who declined an offer to stay and play first base. Holland asked waivers and named Al Fisher, nominally a pitcher, as the regular first sacker pending Hornsby's approval.

Hornsby is the second "big name" baseball figure to join the Texas League this week.

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean signed to pitch for the Tulsa Oilers Thursday and will hurl his first game there Sunday against Fort Worth.

Hornsby's long career in organized baseball started back in 1914 when he joined the Hugo club of the old Texas-Oklahoma League.

He went into the majors in 1915, signed to play first base with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, remaining with the squad until 1926.

In 1926 he went to the New York Giants, to the Boston Bees in 1928 to the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and back to the Cardinals in 1933.

That same year he joined the St. Louis Browns of the American League, remaining through 1937.

In 1938 he managed the Baltimore club in the International League part of the season and handled Chattanooga in the Southern Association for the remainder of the year.

Last year, he was back with the Baltimore squad as non-playing manager.

He now lives in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, packing to leave for his new job as manager of the Oklahoma City club of the Texas League, said Saturday night he had made no plans for the team and knew nothing about it except that it was in the cellar.

"All baseball managers' jobs are tough," Hornsby said.

The "Rajah" said his success with the Indians would depend on the kind of material he found.

Moody Still Big Question In Texas Politics; First Primary Is Near

DEMO CHIEFS SET MEETING FOR MONDAY

Site Will Be Chosen For Convention

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN —(AP)— With the first Democratic primary only 49 days distant, the number one political question in Texas Saturday continued to be:

Will red-headed, dynamic Dan Moody, twice governor but for the last 10 years engaged in the private practice of law in Austin, once more campaign for the office which none has ever held three times.

A meeting of the state Democratic executive committee here Monday, for the triple purpose of selecting a site for the fall state convention, certifying candidates for the primary ballot and passing on any requests for referenda on controversial matters, was of secondary interest.

Statement Due Monday

Moody said he would have no statement before Monday. His name was filed by friends, which met legal requirements regarding filing, but the committee would not certify it if Moody requested it not to do so.

Mineral Wells, Houston and San Antonio have asked for the September convention, and Amarillo and Dallas may make bids Monday, E. B. Germany of Dallas, chairman of the executive committee, reported.

The convention will declare the nominees of the party, draw a platform for them to run on against the representatives of other parties and select a new executive committee.

No Petitions Received

Germany said he had received no formal petitions for referenda, but expected one on the subject of a tax on gasoline at the refinery in lieu of the present tax at the filling station. Requests for referenda on prohibition and the sales tax also might be presented, he added.

There has been little agitation recently for referenda and capital opinion generally is that there probably will be none.

The executive committee will certify to county committees for printing on the primary ballot the names of 50-odd candidates for state offices. It might have to make a decision or two on whether late filers complied with specifications.

18 In One Race

The deadline for candidates for state office to file was midnight last Tuesday. The same hour also was the deadline for candidates for district offices in districts of more than one county.

The closing for district office candidates in districts of only one county, and also for precinct and county candidates, is June 15, next Saturday.

If Moody's name is finally included, there will be nine on the ballot in the gubernatorial bracket, compared with 13 two years ago.

The most entries, 18, will be in the contest for the railroad commission seat of Lon A. Smith, who is retiring.

Reply to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, if any to questions of Ernest O. Thompson concerning O'Daniel's "record of patriotism" in the World war period is being awaited.

Provisional Leader Forecast In Mexico

Border 'Gold Shirt' Source Claims Neither Avila Camacho Nor Almazan Will Win

REYNOSA, Mexico—Neither Manuel Avila Camacho nor Juan Andreu Almazan will be the next president of Mexico, a person closely identified with the "Gold Shirts" declared here Saturday.

To prevent a rebellion or possible loss of control by the administration, President Lazaro Cardenas will declare a state of "national emergency" and appoint a provisional president to succeed himself, this source said.

"That has been the plan for some time and both candidates know but they can do nothing," he continued.

"Just who the provisional president will be is unimportant, because the Cardenas administration will still be in power."

A national news weekly magazine recently reported that President Cardenas would appoint Sanchez Tapia in his stead. Sanchez Tapia, former military commander in the Federal District, withdrew several months ago from the presidential race.

The election is scheduled for Sunday, July 7. The new president is to take office in December for a six-year term.

An extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress is expected to be called this month, and the Gold Shirt sympathizer said Cardenas may declare an emergency at that time.

The Gold Shirt organization, headed by the exiled Nicolas Rodriguez, claim conservative policies and are vigorously opposed to the Cardenas administration.

WATER MAIN PLAN OKEHED

WPA $25,000 Project Will Start Soon

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville City Manager Robert Runyon said Saturday he has received word a water main project the city is seeking has been approved by the district WPA office at Laredo.

The proposed project will be sent on to the state office and then to Washington for final approval.

Total cost of the proposed project he said is a little under $25,000. About 4,000 feet of 14-inch pipe, now located near the river and not in use since a change in the river bed, is to be dug up and installed on Levee street.

It will replace eight-inch and four-inch mains there, and will afford better fire protection along that street, Mr. Runyon said. The pipe removed along Levee street will be located in other parts of the city, and some new pipe will be purchased and laid in different locations.

Water mains to serve the Brownsville Housing Authority will be included in the project, the city manager said.

He estimated that the city's share of expense in the project will amount only to about $2,000 in cash, after credit is allowed on city equipment that will be used.

NAZI RAIDER CHASED AWAY

Lone Plane Attacks English Town

A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH TOWN —(AP)—A lone German raiding plane and a British ground crew engaged in a spectacular duel in the glare of searchlights late Saturday night while thousands of townspeople looked on.

Searchlights picked out the Nazi craft which roared in at an altitude of only 500 feet. Then the ground defenses blazed away.

Machine gun bullets spurted skyward. The German answered with a stream of tracer bullets directed at the searchlights.

Anti-aircraft guns joined the attack with numerous bursts and the raider made off toward the French coast.

The amount of damages to be paid was not specified in the decision, being dependent on an accounting of profits since April, 1933

Poor Americans May Be Left Behind As Rescue Ship Leaves

DUBLIN—(AP)—At least a hundred homebound Americans, faced the prospect Saturday of being left behind because they lack money for passage to the United States on the liner Washington.

The ship arrived at Bordeaux Friday night and is scheduled to sail for Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday night, and from there to Ireland sometime next week. It may call either at Galway on the west coast, or at Cobh in the south.

The men and women and their families, likely to be left behind unless something is done, are poor working class people whose families have grown so rapidly that they can hardly think in terms of $200 each for the minimum fare.

TRAIL OF STOLEN CARS LEADS TOWARD MEXICO

McALLEN—Investigation of rumors concerning the whereabouts of the 21 stolen Hidalgo county autos consumes most of the police officials' time these days, Chief of Police Noah Cannon said Saturday.

Almost daily someone approaches the police with what he believes is a "hot tip," leading the law to further investigations. Ordinarily most of the informants are residents of Mexico, bearing unfounded rumors. Frequently, however, the reports have given the police a clue which defies their pursuit once it goes across the Rio Grande.

Cannon said state and county police from other Valley counties are cooperative with the local division and the sheriff's department in trying to apprehend the car thieves whom they are certain drive the cars across the border.

Recently, it was understood that state police from Tamaulipas proffered their assistance in trying to stop the current wave of thefts by apprehension of the auto thieves across the border with the cars. It is their opinion that the cars are taken some place and reconditioned and repainted before being driven to the interior.

Chief Cannon pointed out the fact that after a car is in Mexico for 72 hours without being properly bonded, it is subject to seizure by the customs. Only one such instance has been reported, causing local officials to believe the cars have a distributing agency working with them in Mexico.

Recently two county officers went to Monterrey in search of information concerning the thefts. Their mission was fruitless, however, since nothing could be learned from police officials there.

An especially pleasing environment for the event had been created through the lavish use of varied blossoms in the pastel shades. In both drawing rooms of the home were gladioli, roses, cornflowers, summer chrysanthemums and other summer blooms, while in the wide reception hall, the center of floral interest was the huge potted begonia.

Reading the service was Dr. Millard A. Jenkens, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Abilene.

Organ music by Alfred Alexander preceded the nuptial ceremony. The nuptial solo, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," was sung by Mrs. James K. Polk of Colorado City, daughter of Dr. Jenkens.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding dress was white marquisette over satin, an Empire model, styled with gored skirt. A lace yoke was fitted to the shirred bodice which was finished with square neckline and puffed sleeves. The exquisite imported Italian point d'esprit lace veil was worn over two layers of tulle and was held in place with a halo turban of satin. Her shower bouquet was made of white roses.

Mrs. Thomas H. Sweeney, Jr., of Brownsville, was matron of honor. Other attendants to the bride were Mrs. H. B. McGrady of Bonham, Miss Harriet Godwin of Abilene, and Mrs. Edwin E. Middleton of Abilene. Their frocks were identical, being made of delphinium blue mraquisette with lace bodices which followed the long torso silhouette. Sleeves were puffed and ended above the elbow and skirts were wide and full. The beautiful garden setting emphasized the beauty of the fan-shaped trellis, overlaid with gladiolas and fern, where the couple spoke their vows. The bridal party entered along a garden aisle outlined with single rows of gladiolas.

Guests for the wedding included a hundred guests, only young friends of the couple and relatives.

Two hundred other friends were guests for the reception that followed the ceremony. Cake and punch were served from decorated tables on the south lawn. The elaborate tiered wedding cake was topped with flowers in bridal design.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN . . .

"I Took The Knots Out Of Father's Day"

As Told to Me By a Woman Who Knows That the Tie That Binds Isn't the One That Blinds.

. . . All I said to him was "George, you'll be thrilled with the six ties Junior and I bought for you for Father's Day" . . . and what does he do? He stands on his head, (I never knew he was acrobatically inclined) and shouts "I don't want ties," and in the same breath, "No man wants ties . . . we're sick and tired . . . " and then abruptly says, "Yes, that's it. What we men want is something to take the load off our feet. Something to give us peace and quiet for 365 days of the year."

The smile of enthusiasm was no longer on my face. Suddenly I became apprehensive. The shock of getting six ties was too much for George; he was sitting on the floor with a vague grin below his wide staring eyes . . .

I had forgotten my resentment of his outburst. But such ingratitude! Last Father's Day, Junior and I bought two lovely ties—one with big wide stripes (he must of liked it . . . he said it looked like a rainbow), and another with a garden of colors almost like my print dress.

This year we thought we'd surprise him. It took three trips to town to buy those ties. Now, on top of that, I must humor him. So, patronizingly, I said "George, dear, what would take the load off your feet? What would give you peace and quiet for 365 days of the year?"

He looked at me shyly and answered, "well, ... a good comfortable mattress" and then he vigorously said, "And I don't care how much you spend."

And so . . . thanks to Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores . . . George has another surprise coming to him. Junior and I bought him one of the $29.50 custom-built "Valley Ace" inner-spring matresses and a $29.50 custom-built "Valley Ace" box spring to match, all for only $39.50 . . . and Edelstein's gave us a $1.95 quilted mattress protector free. Their salesman said we could pay only 95 cents a week on their Budget Plan, if I wanted to.

I'm so thrilled! Just imagine saving $21.45. I'm going to put it in an envelope and give it to George on Father's Day. When he asks "How come?" I'll tell him that "being a good homemaker is a tie that binds" and that "Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores sell all the home ties that make for gracious living."

What's more, I've found out that George wants comfortable things for his home . . . and that I can buy all these at Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores. And . . . just between us . . . that's what I'm going to do.

This 'N' That

THE MORE brides the more weddings, or vice versa.

Whether it's the power of suggestion or because most girls have always sort of planned June weddings, it's difficult to say and of little moment after all.

But, more than a few guests at every church wedding are eying

bridal finery coming down the aisle with a view of deciding which style veil, dress, or bridesmaid is most flattering to her particular type.

A BRIDAL custom, evidently observed by hundreds of brides over a long period, came to our attention just the other day.

The bride wears a coin, usually a dime, but sometimes a penny in her shoe on the important day.

A penny sent to Helen Sumners McCall (Mrs. Lanier McCall) off Corpus Christi to wear at her wedding in the early spring had served as luck piece for three other brides.

LOOKING for something new in table centerpieces that suggests coolness and maybe the ocean?

Borrow a leaf from the book of a New York career woman who has made a successful business of her hobby of collecting shells and coral.

She sticks big branches of coral into conch shells and builds centerpieces that get photographed in Vogue and such magazines.

A trip to Padre Island or Del Mar probably would furnish unusual material for a sea centerpiece.

FOR SOME CAUSE the magnolias this year seem to be the loveliest Valley gardens ever have produced.

Up to now the Valley has left it to other parts of Texas to publicize the romantic flower of the Old South, but expert gardeners are proving every year that plants once regarded as unsuited to soil or climate may be grown here with success.

And who knows but that magnolias in abundance may be the touch needed to make just perfect warm spring nights?

LOVELY magnolias are in blossoms at 321 E. Lee Street in Harlingen and the anrient tree in the yard of the old Goolsby place, catacorner from the San Benito postoffice, is showing claim to a new lease on life by exceptionally large, waxy blossoms.

SOLUTION OF A problem—how to tell which end of a sweet potato should point skyward to induce growth of a potato vine—has suddenly come to us.

Keep the potato in a dark place until sprouts grow and then put the bald end in the water or earth.

BUENA O'BRIEN, who shares with her husband the nickname of "Pat" authored an editorial in the April issue of Texas Woman, Business and Professional Women's publication, on the use of radio in propaganda.

Pat's hobby is growing Talisman roses of an unbelievably yellow hue in the garden at their San Benito home and how she gets that rich orange tint is something of a secret.

CORRESPONDENCE with relatives in the Nazi-held Scandinavian countries ceased when the Swastika was set up.

At least that's the experience of Paul Hoidale, (Norway), Mrs. Ben T. Ezzell, and others.

Mrs. Ezzell and her brother, formerly Danish consul in St. Louis, have had no replies to letters or cablegrams sent to their three sisters in Denmark since the invasion. Previously letters were exchanged with regularity over a long period of years.

OF ALL THE stirring messages the radio has presented since the European disaster started to unfold, the sincere, commonsense appeal made by Mrs. Dwight Morrow a few nights ago stands out, in our estimation, as the most deserving of unanimous support from folks in this country.

It would help clarify thinking on the part of a great many, women particularly, to read every word of her message because she struck at the sort of evasion of issues that seems to be more rhararteristil of feminine thinking than of men.

In his column on pronunciation Frank Colby is asking for folks to send in a list of ten words considered most beautiful from the standpoint of euphony.

Whip-poor-will is the only word we've put on our list so far.

But the most beautiful of all sounds to our ears is the ringing of church bells in the distance.

Three Sisters Graduate In Month Of June

Three graduating daughters made a busy spring for Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thompson, well-known Harlingen couple, who moved to San Benito the past week to reside. Miss Doris B. During her senior year she was a member of the A. and I. Javelina Band, was Sweetheart of the F. F. A. Club, and became well-known on the campus for her accordion playing.

She is remembered in Valley circles as an artist and was an active member of the Valley Art League. Since taking up residence in California she has been able to further develop her talent in this field.

Trick Heels Now The Rage

Shoes are displacing hats as the craziest thing in a woman's wardrobe. Or aren't they crazy, those new shankless sandals with scooped-out heels that Ginny Simms, NBC singer, is wearing. Bu tcan she walk on them?

Variations on the shankless shoe with fantastic heel were shown in quantity at a New York meeting of shoe manufacturers. They'll be pushed for late summer, early fall wear.

You'll be a strong-minded woman if you don't eventually buy some of the trick-heeled output. New designs live up to their names: Sled, tractor, sleigh, crescent wedge, suspension, pyramid, keg, peg, Dutch boy, pinched wedge.

More conservative are the other three styles, recommended as comfortable travel or go-to-the-fair shoes. They are all lightweight, low-heeled. The hassock heel is the style feature of the feather-stitched shoe at the right.

A visiting shoemaker observed that few wedge soles were worn at the World's Fair. He was surprised, because wedgies sold well this spring. This department is not surprised, and suggests that the shoemaker try wearing wedgies for a few weeks. He'll find the stiff, inflexible arch is uncomfortable and causes an awkward gait.

FURNITURE & HOUSE FURNISHINGS

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS

Sunday, June 9, 1940

We Congratulate You:

The older folks who have 'gone through it all' will caution you: "Don't furnish your home with a lot of 'cheap stuff'. Pay a little more and get the best."

Well, that's good advice—when you're not bothered with budgets and things. And we agree with the 'get the best' part—

But we don't agree with that 'pay a little more' idea. We say: "Deal with firms that have an established reputation for quality, value, and conscientious dealing. They won't ask you to 'pay a little more'." More often, you'll pay less—and GET a lot more.

That's the kind of a firm ours has been for more than a quarter of a Century. Our prices for comparable quality, are never excessive. In our stores you will always find a beautiful selection of home furnishings. Our courteous, helpful sales people know how to be of assistance without importuning.

Our 'Budget Plan' was designed to assist all, whether newlyweds or "old timers" in owning home furnishings of excellent quality, purchased at our reasonable prices, and with the payments conveniently arranged to suit one's income.

Before buying furniture for that Valley home of yours, be it only a two-or-three-room apartment, or a new and modern bungalow, visit our nearest store—conveniently located in Brownsville, Harlingen, and on the corner of South Broadway and Beaumont streets in McAllen. You, and your purse, and your budget, especially, will find happy satisfaction.

Sincerely yours,

Venezuela Topic For Round Table

Miss Sophia Spivey Speaker At Event

BROWNSVILLE—At a table decorated to picture the palm and flower-rimmed lakes and jungles of Venezuela, the Pan American Roun table members and guests met at El Jardin hotel Friday in the usual monthly luncheon session.

Venezuela, the topic for the day in charge of Miss Sophia Spivey, was depicted in varied scenes of the place cards. Special attention was drawn to a silver bracelet lent by Mrs. J. B. Fields, and to a wall map of Venezuela made by Mrs. Kellis G. Buckley.

In opening her discussion of the country, Miss Spivey mentioned that much of her information had been obtained from Edward Tomlinson's book, Road to Riches, and Venezuela, by Erna Ferguson. Venezuela, the speaker said, is the first of the Andean countries, and its capital, Caracas, is one of the old Carribean cities that keeps its old South American atmosphere. Its stores are crammed with luxuries from all over the world, and its markets reflect a people who are attracted to modern things.

Dwellers in suburban homes, Miss Spivey stated, are mostly descendants of Spanish colonial families. Venezuela is a country of great wealth, yielding gold, diamonds, oil, cattle and pearls. It has lakes of asphalt, one of these covering a thousand acres.

Miss Spivey described in detail the pearls from the Isle of Margarita, so named by Columbus, which is about 20 miles from the mainland. Gentle natives, expert divers, were enslaved and forced to dive for pearls during Columbus' time when magnificent pearls went to Isabella. The prize pearl was the size of a dove's egg, perfect in shape, and "as translucent as dawn" Pearl fishing is seasonal, and by law, there is open season once in three years. Margaritas, varying in size, are cream, yellow, white, black and gray.

Venezuela, Miss Spivey said, is contributing her ful share of culture to the World, especially in the field of literature. Many writers paint realistic, living pictures of the actual, tragic Venezuela. Dean of today's writers is Rufino Blanco Fombona, while another is Romulo Gallegos, a writer of the lower classes, born in Caracas.

Miss Spivey sketched interestingly the llaneros, the cowboys of Venezuela, who embody many ancestral Carribean traits. These are a busy people, adept in all that cowboys can do, and have the skill of a water-logged world besides as much of the country which they travel is often under water.

A trip through the Andean states, Miss Spivey went on, will show a vast region teeming with life, commerce and industry. Transportation, progressing nicely has veen a vital factor in developing natural resources, trade and mining. Merida is the conservative, aristocratic and provincial capital. Here is located the University of Los Andes, and here dwells Senor Don Julio Febres Cordero, a real scholar, who has proposed, that in order to avoid confusion concerning the title Americans, that U. S. citizens should be known as Washingtonians.

San Cristobal, another Andean city, is high above a valley, and above the city towers a stone fort built by Gomez, at a strategic point in the trans-Andean highway, against a possible invasion by Colombia. Oil lands in Venezuela have scarcely been tapped, the speaker concluded, and if the oil continues to flow and to be sold, Venezuela will be one of the richest countries in South America.

After the program, the director, Mrs. Ben M. Freudenstein, introduced Miss Faith Hunter Dodge, of Chicago, a writer who has travelled in Venezuela, and who spoke briefly in Spanish, and told an amusing anecdote in English.

The meeting was adjourned with Mrs. Milton West playing the national anthems of the United States, and Venezuela.

Doctor Takes A Wife Is Hilarious Comedy

Loretta Young And Ray Milland Featured In Comedy Roles; '20 Mule Team' Tops New Film Releases

LORETTA YOUNG and Ray Milland share the pleasant distinction of playing their first all-comedy roles together in "The Doctor Takes a Wife," heralded by critics as a worthy addition to the screen's collection of redoubtable films which have included "It Happened One Night," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "The Awful Truth," "Too Many Husbands," "His Girl Friday" and numerous other outstanding hits.

Miss Young is seen as a young author who writes books in praise of spinsterhood; Milland, as a young doctor who thinks women are the closest things to poison a medical mind can find. And, in order to advance their respective careers, this delightfully matched couple are required to pose as man and wife, to bill and coo in public and to save their battlings for the privacy of their "love nest."

The featured supporting cast to Miss Young and Milland in "The Doctor Takes A Wife" includes Reginald Gardiner, Gail Patrick and Edmund Gwenn.

"The Dector Takes A Wife" is booked for current showing Sunday and Monday at the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen; Tuesday and Wednesday at the State Theatre in Mercedes; Thursday and Friday at the Ritz Theatre in Weslaco and at the Rivoli Theatre in San Benito, Friday and Saturday.

Alice Faye as seen in the screen production "Lillian Russell," booked for showing Sunday and Monday at both the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville and the Palace Theatre in McAllen.

ALICE FAYE SEEN AS GLAMOUR QUEEN

AMERICA'S first glamour Queen holds the spotlight again in the screen production of "Lillian Russell," featuring Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Henry Fonda.

The amazing life and loves of the great Lillian Russell were headline news in her day, and the picture, it is claimed, makes it easy to realize why the beautiful actress was so famous and the songs of her day so popular. Some of the songs that are sung in the picture will include: "After The Ball Is Over," "Rosie, You Are My Posie," "The Band Played On," ("Strawberry Blond"), "My Evening Star," "Adored One," and "Blue Love Bird."

Lillian Russell numbered Diamond Jim Brady and Jesse Lewisohn, two of the wealthiest men of her era, among her countless admirers. Women envied her and tried to be like her—men became famous just by being seen with her. No one could take her place, and no one has.

Also featured in "Lillian Russell" are such outstanding screen personalities as Edward Arnold (as Diamond Jim Brady), Warren William, Leo Carrillo, Helen Westley, Dorothy Peterson, Ernest Truex, Nigel Bruce, Claude Allister, Lynn Bari, Weber and Fields, Eddie Foy, Jr., Una O'Connor and Joseph Cawthorn.

"Lillian Russell" is booked for current showing Sunday and Monday at both the Palace Theatre in McAllen and the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville.

'20 MULE TEAM' TO STAR WALLACE BEERY

AFFORDING Wallace Beery his most colorful and convincing characterization since "Viva Villa," his latest picture "20 Mule Team" is a saga of the Death Valley pioneers who dug borax and hauled it to the railroad by mule trains across the blistering desert sands.

Beery outdoes any of his recent roles as Muleskinner Bill Bragg, best driver of the route by his own admission. As the Indian "swamper," Piute Pete, Leo Carrillo is at his dialect peak. And as the hotel and saloon owner, Josie Johnson, who throws out Beery despite the fact that he considers himself virtually engaged to her, Marjorie Rambeau comes nearer to filling the shoes of perfect comedienne than anyone else in the past half dozen years.

Supplying the junior "heart interest" are a young pair of great promise: Noah Beery, Jr., shows himself a chip off the old block in his first role with his uncle, and Anne Baxter, newcomer from the New York stage. Young Noah has easy assurance as the company paymaster, Mitch, while Miss Baxter reveals both charm and fire as Jean, Josie's daughter.

"20 Mule Team" is booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at both the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen and the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville.

ANNA NEAGLE STARS IN MUSICAL COMEDY

ANNE NEAGLE and Ray Milland share co-starring honors in the screen presentation of the famed Broadway musical comedy "Irene," booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre in McAllen.

Running for almost two years on Broadway, and having half a dozen road companies covering the nation at the time it made its appearance, "Irene" scored an unqualified hit with audiences the country over, and the picture promises to be an even greater success. The four tunes that were featured on the stage, "Alice Blue Gown," "Castle of Dreams," "Irene" and "There's Something in the Air," are stressed in the picture, and a brand new number by the same composers, "You've Got Me Out On A Limb," is also woven into the picture.

Such favorites as Roland Young, May Robson, Billie Burke, Arthur Treacher, Isabell Jewell, Marsha Hunt and Doris Nolan also have featured roles in "Irene."

Jack Benny in his latest starring picture "Buck Benny Rides Again," booked for showing Sunday and Monday at both the Rivoli Theatre in San Benito and the Ritz Theatre in Weslaco.

Edward Waller and Douglas Fowley with Wallace Beery in his latest starring picture "20 Mule Team," booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at both the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville and the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen. Other prominent stars featured in "20 Mule Team" include Marjorie Rambeau, Leo Carrillo, Anne Baxter and Noah Berry, Jr.

FRENCH FALL BACK BEFORE NAZI THRUSTS ALONG 60--MILE FRONT

Italy Will Retaliate Five-Fold

ROME —(AP)— A pointed warning that five English cities would be bombed for every Italian city attacked by Allied bombers in the event Italy enters the war was published Saturday by the Rome newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia just while foreign observers were expressing belief Italy would enter the conflict next week.

Il Giornale D'Italia's editor is Virginio Gayda, long recognized as Premier Mussolini's editorial mouthpiece.

Reports have circulated here that the British and French plan to bombard Italian centers if this nation entered the war against them.

London Is Threatened

To these reports, the authoritative newspaper said:

"For every Italian city bombed five English cities would suffer the same treatment."

Bombardment of Rome would be the signal for "similar, but greater, bombardment of London," the newspaper added.

However, Rome was considered here to be fairly safe from attack, with the Italians prepared to make it an open city by removing government offices, troops and aircraft.

Last Neutral Week

Some observers heard that an Italian attack on their first secret objective would come in the early hours Monday but a source considered reliable indicated it probably would be later, possibly Thursday or Friday night.

Although only Mussolini and possibly his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, are supposed to know the date of the expected entry into the war, confidence that Italy has closed her last week as a non-belligerent nation in this war was based on impressions in Italian circles as well as war preparations which appear to be complete.

The imminence of an Italian move was indicated further by foreign reports that Italian ships are being kept in neutral ports.

All Ships Docked

Government - controlled newspapers substantiated the reports by publishing them.

RANGER UNITS GUARD RIVER

Mechanized Groups Watch Border

AUSTIN—(AP)—A modern, mechanized detachment of Texas Rangers was engaged in secret operations along the lower reaches of the Rio Grande Saturday to protect the state against possible flare-ups from across the border.

Split in small groups, the Ranger force, whose numbers have not been disclosed, was under orders calling for swift action in any emergency while an Austin headquarters staff catalogued and classified a deluge of reports on possible "fifth column" operations in Texas.

A state official who would not permit use of his name said the Rangers, mounted in automobiles for fast transit on roads and on horses for work in mesquite thicket backlands were prepared to thrust in any direction.

Possible border disturbances developing out of the national election in Mexico July 7 or any activities of an un-American nature on this side of the border, the official said, would find Rangers ready to strike quickly.

Meanwhile, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's call to citizens to report suspected "fifth column" activities brought voluminous replies which were being filed in a cross-reference card index system at state police headquarters.

Sadler Will Remain In Chief State Race

GATESVILLE —(AP)— Several thousand persons attending the annual rodeo here Saturday heard Jerry Sadler, candidate for governor, tell why he had to remain in the race.

"I have received no reply from Governor O'Daniel to my offer made more than a week ago to withdraw from the race if he would call a special session of the legislature," Sadler said.

JAPAN GROUP SEEKS TRADE

Diplomats Pause In Valley City

BROWNSVILLE—Five Japanese diplomats, reported to have been on a Latin American trade commission, were in Brownsville briefly Saturday night en route from Mexico City to New York.

The group was said to have toured South and Central American countries, and Mexico, seeking the establishment of closer commercial relations between the countries and Japan.

They had no comment to make upon their arrival at the Brownsville airport, however.

Arriving here by Pan American Airways were S. Kato, Japanese minister at large; S. Koshida, Japanese minister to Mexico; and I. Mizune, K. Ohno and M. Harada.

They left for New Orleans by Missouri Pacific Lines, and also plan to visit Washington and New York.

One of the group said they were going to New York to see the World's Fair.

Allies Branch Out In U. S. Purchases

NEW YORK — (AP) — Allied war purchasers, who have heretofore concentrated mostly in aircraft and tools, now are tapping United States industry for an assortment of other weapons and materials.

Wall Street sources said Saturday British and French agents suddenly appeared to have widened their range of orders and inquiries to speed equipment plans and replace losses. Total orders placed since September, are estimated at $1,300,000,000 now, and the figure is expected to grow rapidly.

Reserves Called

Rumanian Army Still Being Enlarged

BUCHAREST — (AP) — Rumania, with more than 1,500,000 men already under arms in the greatest peacetime mobilization in her history, called up five more classes of reserves Saturday in a preparedness measure reported to be connected with Italy's possible entry into the European war.

Although Rumanian dispatches placed the number already under arms at more than 1,500,000, tabulations of previous calls indicated it was probably nearer 2,000,000.

NAZIS CLAIM FRENCH FALL AT MAIN LINE

BERLIN NOT HIT

French Claim Of Air Raid Denied

BERLIN, —(AP)— German military sources declared Saturday night the Nazi steamroller is breaking the Weygand line at will and pushing down the path to Paris just as planned.

Three confident sentences made up the high command communique which for the fourth day of the north France drive reported steady advances without disclosing any details.

But those at home were advised not to fear that this meant a bogdown of the drive by veteran troops and fresh divisions. Instead military sources said, the march to the heart of France continues each day ahead of the peace first set by the high command.

Berlin Not Bombed?

An authorized spokesman called "absolutely" untrue a French announcement that naval bombers dumped explosives onto factory districts in the Berlin suburbs Friday night.

"We have been out with spyglasses looking for damage," the spokesman said. "There have been no air-raid alarms in Berlin and no rumors of such a bombing."

Meanwhile, gains were claimed for four big thrusts, steel shod and supported by plunging stukas.

Objectives Are Listed

Hitler's own newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, lister the drives and their objectives as:

Southwest from Abbeville over the Bresle river toward Le Havre, extending Germany's grip on the northwestern coast of Europe from the Arctic Circle in Norway to south of the mouth of the Somme.

South from Amiens; south from Perrone and south from Oise-Aisne canal—to merge into one smashing punch at Paris.

"Operations south of the Somme and the Oise-Aisne canal are progressing successfully," the German communique said, "and the enemy

Germans Hurl Million Men Into Paris Drive

PARIS—(AP)—The French were falling back Saturday night along nearly 60 miles of the front, but still fighting against the German offensive on Paris—facing the strongest attack of the war and the most massive mechanized onslaught in military history.

The Germans threw 60 infantry divisions and seven armored divisions — more than 1,000,000 men and 3,500 tanks—into the assault south of the Somme.

This mighty push reached its peak in the center of the front, where reserves were brought up in the Oise valleythe route to Paris—and hurled into the battle in the region of Roye and Noyon, in an area 48 miles north of this capital.

In this sector alone the Germans were estimated to have used half a million men. Starting at dawn, after dive bombers, artillery and tanks had opened the way, the Nazi infantry charged, each man holding the shoulder of the men before him.

North of the capital the French withdrew for the second successive day. The general fall-back was called a "retirement maneuver," and a military spokesman declared the main line remained unbroken.

The Nazis also struck a tremendous blow on the French right (east) flank and succeeded in establishing a foothold on the south bank of the Aisne River. In that sector the French were counter-attacking bitterly.

German pressure diminished Saturday might on the extreme left (west) flank, where the Bresle Rvier blocked their infantry. A tank column of 200 to 300 which penetrated south to Forges-Les-Eaux was reported being pounded to bits by French artillery and cannon-firing planes.

The battle raged with varying intensity all along the new, shortened 110-mile front from the sea to the Aisne.

Military authorities not given to exaggeration called the battle frankly "the greatest of all time." The number of tanks used almost doubled those employed in the battle of the Meuse, when the Germans broke through to the sea.

On the central sector of the front—running nearly 60 miles from Aumale on the Bresle to Noyon on the Oise —The Nazis sent wave after wave of machines and men smashing against the French lines.

German losses were reported by the French high command to be "enormous" but—still they came.

The French clung to the support points of the Weygand line on the rolling hills and in the scattered woods of the battlefield, pouring fire into the tanks with their artillery.

The advance guards had fallen back Friday under General Maxime Weygand's orders and the movement continued Saturday night after French frontline positions had been swamped under the attack waves.

But still ahead of the Germans stretching a field of barriers all the way to Paris.

In his night communique, General Weygand singled out two artillery units for special praise for the destruction they wrought among German panzer units.

"The artillery group of Commandant Pouyat destroyed 38 German tanks," he said. "One battery of this group commanded by Captain Vandelle destroyed alone 19.

"Another artillery group commanded by Commandant Gunen, attacked at a distance of 100 meters by tanks, destroyed 17."

The Allied air forces, outnumbered since the start of the campaign, stayed in the battle with one squadron of more than 150 bombers protected by both British and French pursuit planes and raining explosives on the German lines.

Some planes swooped down to an altitude of only 50 feet to bomb and machine-gun enemy tanks and troops.

An air ministry communique announced German pontoon bridges over the Somme were destroyed Friday night and that Reichswehr reinforcements were dispersed.

One pursuit squadron was reported to have attacked a German tank park and to have destroyed a "considerable number" of machines.

The Germans moved in two vast thrusts: from south of Roye in the Oise Valley in the center, and to Forges-Les-Eaux on the west flank.

While the front thus erupted with new week-end violence, the French replied with bombs to the Nazi raid of last Monday which killed and wounded about 1,000 Parisians.

Without giving details, the Admiralty announced that a squadron of naval planes had raided factories in the outskirts of Berlin Friday night, and had returned without losing a ship. Speculation arose that some of the raiders might have been American-made, but the admiralty spokesman said he thought not.

The supreme effort of the Germans had created this general change in the front:

It had fallen back from the Somme to the Bresle in the west, from Aumale to the region of Noyon in the center and from the Ailette to the Aisne in the east.

British Armed Merchant Ship Sunk By Nazi Sub

Popular Cruise Liner Lost In Attack By U-Boat; Many Rescued From Vessel

LONDON—(AP)—The sinking of the armed merchant cruiser Carinthia—a 20,277-ton former Cunard-White Star liner popular with Americans as a world cruise ship before the war—was announced Saturday night by the admiralty.

It was the largest merchant ship yet sunk by enemy action since the war started.

Two officers and two seamen had been killed when the ship, one of 50 merchant cruisers in the British fleet, was torpedoed by a U-boat. Other officers and the crew were saved. In peacetime the crew was 405.

More than 200 of the crew were landed at a British port by a warship Saturday night. Another 100 were expected on a second rescue ship. The crew said the Carinthia remained afloat for some time after being torpedoed but that two warships failed in an attempt to tow her to port.

Location Not Revealed

The admiralty did not say where the Carinthia had been attacked.

The Germans, however, a few hours before, announced a 14,000-ton auxiliary cruiser had been sunk off the northwest coast of Ireland.

The Carinthia was the second British armed merchant cruiser sunk since the war started. The Rawalpindi, 16,697 tons, was lost last November 23 with 280 of her personnel.

Allies Grow Stronger

Earlier an official admiralty statement had obsreved that "the balance of naval strength in favor of the Allies is now far greater than at the outbreak of the war."

PARIS —(AP)— Anti-aircraft guns thundered into action in the Paris area Saturday night for the third successive night but no air raid alarms were sounded and the firing soon died out.

The guns were heard shortly before midnight with the firing much heavier than on the two previous nights.

Bombings were reported near Paris Friday night and the night before, presumably the work of planes at which the anti-aircraft fire was directed.

Capture of Shasi was regarded as a major gain in the drive on Ichang, another port on the Yangtze which is the principal present objective of the campaign in western Hupeh Province.

Refugees Due

American Liners To Dock Today

NEW YORK, —(AP)— Two American liners neared New York Saturday night with 2,634 humans aboard driven by the terrors of modern war from their European abodes to the safety of the United States.

The President Roosevelt was scheeduled to dock at 7 P. M. Sunday with 720 passengers, most of them Americans. They boarded the ship at Galway, Ireland.

The sleek Manhattan radioed she would dock at 2 p. m. (CST) Monday with 1,914 passengers from Italy, half of them aliens who booked passage before the state department ruled that American citizens must be given preference.

It was reported—without confirmation—that American naval vessels and planes would escort the Roosevelt into port.

FORD TO STUDY FAST PLANE FOR PRODUCTION

Many Arms Are Available For Sale To Allies If Needed, FDR States

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army put one of its fastest pursuit planes at Henry Ford's disposal Saturday to let him determine whether his mass production genius can get aerial fighters rolling off assembly lines at the amazing rate of 1,000 a day.

The sudden completion of arrangements to have the pursuit ship delivered to Ford engineers in Detroit Monday momentarily distracted defense program attention from the sharp cleavage of congressional opinion on President Roosevelt's applause for a newspaper editorial urging compulsory military training for the nation.

The unofficial debate on compulsory training, however, was off to a heated start, and there were indications of additional legislative dissension over administration plans which would, in effect, make a large amount of World War equipment available for Allied purchase by turning it back to the manufacturers.

Roosevelt ld his press conference Friday that the arms and munitions stores were deteriorating but that they still had an immediate value. Unofficial military estimates were that enough rifles to supply an army of almost 2,000,000 might be turned in.

Ford Requests Plane

The announcement that a pursuit plane would be sent to Detroit was made by the War Department Friday night. Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson said that Henry Ford had telegraphed a request to see the ship "as soon as possible."

Ford asserted two weeks ago that, given certain conditions, his plants in six months time could turn out 1,000 standard-type planes daily. The statement immediately aroused interest both here and in London, and there was evidence that Britain, anxious to bolster her air force, intended to explore the possibility.

Conditions Set Out

Ford stipulated these conditions: That his company be left to its own supervision; that there be no "meddling by government agencies," and that he have the counsel of such aviation authorities as Charles A. Lindbergh and Edward Rickenbacker.

During the World War Ford turned his great industrial plants to the mass production of munitions, whippet tanks, ambulances and submarine chasers.

The question of compulsory military training was injected into the complicated defense picture Friday at the President's press conference, when Roosevelt was asked to comment on a New York Times editorial.

Many Arms Available

He replied that he had read only the first paragraph and liked it very much. The paragraph called for immediate adoption of a national system of compulsory military training.

Reported available for sale are 500 75-milimeter field guns, 600,000 Lee Enfield rifles, 70,000 machine guns, 100 six-inch guns, 250 eight-inch Howitzers, 25 siege guns and 200 Stokes mortars, with large quantities of ammunition.

One member of the House military affairs committee has estimated that 350,000 of the new Garand semi-automatic rifles being manufactured for the United States would equip an army of 1,000,000 men.

Responsible officials indicated, also, that the administration intended releasing more than 500 planes for re-sale by manufacturers to the Allies—for which trade-in authority already exists.

While indirectly opening warehouses to the Allies, the government looked to the United States' own defenses:

Nazi U-Boat Leaves Men In Sea

LONDON, —(AP)— The British navy press section declared Saturday that a U-boat commander and his crew after torpedoing a British merchant vessel May 27 watched the crew of 36 struggling in the water for half an hour before leaving the helpless seamen to their fate.

The press statement said that all but five perished before a neutral steamer arrived. It described the treatment of the men as "one of the foulest acts ever perpetrated by a U-boat commander and his crew."

The statement said the ship sank in two minutes, leaving no time to get the boats clear. The statement did not identify the merchantman.

The statement added that the German U-boat commander drove his craft among the men struggling in the water "to ask survivors the name of their ship and to give members of his crew an opportunity to take photographs of his unfortunate victims.

"And while they did so, the U-boat commander stationed two men with boat hooks to fend off and jab at the wrecked men who tried to clamber on board, thinking the U-boat had come to pick them up.

"For about half an hour this went on. Then it seemed the Germans were sated with their bestial gloating. The submarine steamed away, leaving helpless British seamen to their fate in the rough sea."

Twenty-four hours later, the statement said, a neutral steamer picked up five men. The other 31 perished.

DEALERS LAUD AUCTION PLAN

Merchandise Is Put On Display Here

HARLINGEN—Merchandise valued at some $700 will be on display at the vacant store building at 212 West Jackson here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the first of three public auctions to be held as trade boosters during Auction Dollar Month, Chairman Jack King said Saturday.

King said the first auction will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. in the downtown section. Another auction will be held June 19, and the final grand auction June 28. He urged local buyers to inspect the merchandise to be auctioned.

Virtually all Harlingen merchants have entered the plan of giving away with merchandise sold an equal amount of Auction Dollars, which buyers will use to bid with on Wednesday. Merchants said Saturday the plan had caught on and the fake money was going in large amounts, and they foresaw spirited bidding for the high quality merchandise.

King suggested buyers come in prior to the auction and exchange small amounts of the Auction Dollars for larger denominations, to speed bidding on Wednesday.

ITALIANS' WAR MOVE EXPECTED

ica was placed on a basis of one round trip each month instead of each week.

Italians took great notice of what newspapers described a "the growing agitation for American intervention" in the war. But Fascists in government circles as well as newspapers continued to scout the idea that the United States would be able to give Britain and France effective aid in time.

Editorial Is Explained

Il Giornale D'Italia sought to explain the declaration of its editor that United States entry into the war would give European powers the right to intervene in American affairs.

The newspaper declared the article was not a "provocation or threat" toward the United States, explaining it meant to say that American intervention in Europe would "create a precedent which would justify the turning of European powers against America either at the present or in possible future conflict."

A Fascist in position to express the government's view volunteered belief that the Germans would crack the Weygand line in France within a few days and then would be ready to attack London.

After the European continent came under the control of Germany and Italy, he said, there would be no place for American troops to land.

In the midst of the war talk, Vatican authorities said Vatican City would be closed to the public as a precaution except for Pope Pius' Wednesday audience.

Those successes, the Germans said, proved the new French "depth defense" had spongy, weak links and is "unstable."

France's experience with the German blitzkrieg machine, it was added, sent to the military graveyard "France's hopes" for fixed-positions warfare.

To Blockade Britain

A German radio review of the week's fighting commented that Britain "will soon get to feel" the results of German control of the coast.

"The blockade Britain wished on Germany turns the other way," the German announcer said. "Britain's eastern ports, especially the important Thames Estuary, and some of the southern ports will soon be blocked for all trade."

It was indicated this would be accomplished by submarines, wave-skimming torpedo launches and bombers based close to the English Channel.

success in the air: an attack on German troop concentrations at Abbeville throughout Friday and Friday night and on "military objectives" in northwest Germany.

The air ministry communique said the Roy l Air Force destroyed 17 German planes Friday while 13 British planes were missing.

Railhead Is Bombed

"Much damage was caused to the railhead at Hirson where woods were set on fire and many explosions caused," the communique said. "Here troop concentrations were machine gunned. At Abbeyville many explosions and fires were caused and extensive damage was done to the airdrome."

Reports of Saturday's operations, it added, indicate "that our medium bombers inflicted heavy damage on the enemy's motorized forces."

The statement on Allies' naval strength said that the navy had been increased since the beginning of the war by the addition of more than 50 armed merchant cruisers and more than 1,500 minor war vessels and auxiliary craft "of which 58 have been lost."

French Navy Powerful

"The French navy is a very powerful and rapidly growing force," the statement said.

"The Allied fleets have been reinforced by active cooperation of Polish, Norwegian and Dutch naval forces.

"During the next few months the royal navy will receive a further large increase in strength comprising every category of warship from battleships to motor torpedoboats and a very large number of auxiliary craft."

The following losses were listed: One of 15 capital ships; one of seven aircraft carriers; two of 62 cruisers; 20 of 185 destroyers; eight of 58 submarines; six of 108 mine sweepers, sloops, patrol vessels and gunboats.

Nearly 1,000,000 tons of warships are being built in British shipyards, the statement said.

Senators May Defer Wagner Bill Action

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate labor committee, said Saturday it would be "virtually impossible" for the Senate to act on House-approved amendments to the Wagner labor relations act if Congress adjourns on June 22 as leaders have planned.

Thomas said he would call the committee into session next week to consider the amendments which would abolish the present three-member board and create a new three-man agency. The legislation also would separate the administrative and prosecution activities of the agency.

House Approves Bill To Tax Low Incomes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House ways and means committee approved Saturday a $1,004,000,000 defense tax bill, boosting individual, corporation and excise taxes and increasing the number of small income tax payers by more than 2,000,000.

At the same time, the committee ordered studies with a view to legislation at the next session of Congress imposing an excess profits tax to prevent "new war millionaires" and also to provide special amortization for national defense industries.

FRENCH ARMY DEFEAT WILL SHOW REASON

If Paris Falls, FD To Ask Billion

WASHINGTON. —(AP)— Reports circulated in informed quarters at the capitol Saturday that an additional $1,000,000,000 appropriation for the army would be asked if the Germans should break through to Paris before adjournment of congress.

Representative Snyder (D-PA), the chairman of the House military appropriations sub-committee, said he thought an additional appropriation would be advisable if the French army should collapse.

Snyder said that on the basis of Hitler's past performances in Poland, Norway, Holland and Belgium, it was felt that if he conquers France, the next objective would be England.

Brazil Next Step

"Then the next step would be toward Brazil, Snyder said.

"Therefore, if we are thinking in terms of western hemisphere defense, we will have to have an additional $1,000,000,000 as soon as it appears the drive toward Paris might succeed.

President Roosevelt already has requested approximately $4,000,000,000 in defense outlays at this session. At the White House, it was emphasized that no request for additional funds was in prospect at present.

Developments Listed

Stephen Early, press secretary, said in a statement that "the President will not at this time ask the congress for additional funds in any amount for the furtherance of the national defense program."

Defense preparations proceeded apace. Developments included:

(1) Approximately 100 heavily-armed attack planes, especially designed to harass enemy troops from low altitudes, were earmarked by the War Department for possible fighting in France, under the administration's "trade in" arrangement for army and navy planes.

The craft are Northrop single-motor attack planes, which the Army Air Corps relegated to non-combatant utility roles last year primarily because of their limited range of action. They will be turned back to the manufacturer who, in turn, will be free to sell them to the Allies.

Tax Bill Discussed

Airmen said the planes were well adapted to the relatively short distances in Europe and expressed confidence they were at least the equal of similar craft employed by the Nazis to "strafe" the Allies in Flanders.

(2) The House ways and means committee, seeking to speed final legislative action on the billion-dollar rearmament tax bill, met in an extraordinary all-day Saturday session to consider the measure drafted by a sub-committee. During a brief recess, members said they had made no change as yet in the bill which would increase personal and corporate income taxes, and most excise taxes. It is designed to raise $1,006,000,000 a year additional revenue.

(3) Plans for extending federal loans to industry for plant expansion under the national defense program were discussed by President Roosevelt and Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator.

After the White House conference Jones said that many inquiries and requests for loans had been received, but none had actually been granted so far. All applications are being routed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(4) The United States Chamber of Commerce said in a statement that the administration's defense program was "well within the capacity of the country without any material interference with normal operations."

The program, the statement said, would bring into utilization capacity that has been idle.

Communications Forbidden

(5) The Federal Communications Commission called attention of ship operators to the fact that the communication act forbids "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" between ship radio stations and other ships or shore stations. It said any violations would be "vigorously prosecuted." The commission already had forbidden amateur radio operators to communicate with foreign countries, and had prohibited amateur use of mobile transmitters capable of sending long distances.

(6) In a statement, General John J. Pershing, who commanded American forces in the World War, urged that the United States send the Allies unlimited quantities of airplanes and arms. He also appealed for contributions to the Red Cross.

(7) Republican Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said in a radio address that elimination of politics in defense matters should be "the resolute purpose of both parties." Republicans in congress, he declared, "can be depended upon to give solid support to all real defense measures."

Martin said, however, that the Republicans "naturally resent efforts to make national defense measures vehicles for granting dictatorial powers to the executive," and wanted defense appropriations "honestly and prudently spent."

American Bombers Here And In France

Producers Told To Observe Law

EDINBURG—Clarification of regulations under the federal agricultural conservation program and parity payment program was offered Saturday by P. T. Moore, Hidalgo county AAA official. He issued the following statement:

Flag's Designer Wanted Wine For His Just Reward

AP Feature Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The designer of the American flag, which will be 163 years old Friday, wanted "a quarter-cask of the public wine" as his reward.

Betsy Ross may have made the first American flag—there is some dispute about that—but the designer, says Capt. Byron McCandless, U.S.N., was Francis Hopkinson, a song writer and a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Government Pay

Captain McCandless, who has been studying flag lore for a quarter of a century, says Hopkinson

The Original Cambridge Flag

wrote the Board of Admiralty in 1779 about his design and added:

"I now submit it to your honours' consideration whether a quarter-cask of the public wine will not be a proper and reasonable reward for these labours of fancy..."

Hopkinson was told, Captain McCandless' researches show, to submit a bill instead. He did, for $2,700, and was rather bluntly informed that anyone already drawing a good government salary should not expect additional fees.

Hopkinson's original design, drawn in 1775, had the British Union Jack in the corner. It often is called the Cambridge flag, since Washington first raised it above his troops at Cambridge.

Change In Order

On June 14, 1777, after the colonies had declared their freedom, Congress replaced the Union Jack with "stars, white on a blue field, representing a constellation."

McCandless believes Hopkinson created the new design, too.

McCandless' researches show that Margaret Manny made the original Cambridge flag.

But Betsy Ross, whose father helped build Independence Hall, got the new government's contract to make insignia. The concession was carried on by her daughter, Mrs. Clarissa Wilson, until 1857.

Texas May Get Air Training Centers

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Air corps training center officials of Randolph Field, headed by Col. A. W. Robins, the commandant, will leave Sunday by plane for Washington to confer with Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Corps, regarding approval of sites for nine extra civilian elementary flying schools and for a sub-base of Kelly Field and a specialized training school to be established under the War Department's expanded training program.

The officials Saturday were making a study of the sites selected by the operators of the nine elementary schools, and of the sites surveyed, in Texas, for the sub-base of Kelly Field, where advanced pilot training will be given, and for the specialized training school to instruct bombardiers and navigators, the latter school to offer a new phase of training not heretofore given.

Air corps training center officials recently conducted survey flights over different sections of Texas in an effort to locate sites for the Kelly field sub-base and the specialized school.

They surveyed a triangular area bounded by Abilene, Midland and San Angelo, another area around Dallas and Fort Worth, and a triangular area bounded by Houston, Galveston and Beaumont. Several sites in each area were inspected.

The training center officials will prepare their recommendations regarding the Texas sites surveyed to General Arnold. They will give their first, second and third choices, but final approval will be made by General Arnold.

Authorities said that the specialized school probably would be located in the Galveston-Beaumont-Houston are and the Kelly Field sub-base in one of the two other areas surveyed.

DALLAS COUNTY MAY GET ONE AIR CENTER

DALLAS—(AP)—The Dallas News says a training base for the United States Army Air Corps may be located in Dallas county if army officers approve one of several sites inspected Saturday.

A survey board sent out by Col. A. W. Robins, air corps training center commander at Randolph Field, spent most of the day viewing sites in the eastern and northern part of the county. A definite decision is expected on the location in a few days.

A tract of 1,200 acres, with a railroad siding, and with public utility services available within reasonable distances, is wanted by the army. Two sites, one near Mesquite, were reported to have impressed the board of flying officers favorably.

Interpreting The War News

New War Lessons

French Defensive Battle Is Teaching All Army Leaders Something To Know

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

France is doing more than fight a desperate battle for her own life and the Allied cause. She is teaching the world new precepts of defensive war.

That French stand, whether it saves France or not, has already riveted the attention of arming America. In contrast to the fundamental German conception of blasting efficiency in attack, France, in her extremity, has fashioned a defensive technique that has wrung words of admiration even from her foe.

In the eyes of military experts, the battle of the Weygand lines must necessarily outweigh in significance all that preceded it as the Nazi war machine rolled swiftly on its triumphant way.

Whatever the weapons on which America relies, they will be for defense. That is a definitely limiting factor. It is one thing, as the war in Europe has grimly proved to map and implement a strategy of attack and achieve the vitally essentiol element of surprise. It is quite another to concede the initiative in advance to a foe.

U. S. Won't Attack

Yet that is the heavy responsibility imposed upon American national defense planners, with the whole western hemisphere to guard. It springs from a fundamental national philosophy which no administration in Washington would dare ignore.

Any American president who moved to attack another nation, even if he acted under the conviction that an attack was immediately impending by that nation upon the United States or upon some Pan-American neighbor, would certainly risk impeachment.

That removes for America the possibility of resort to undeclared war to create opportunity for surprise attack. It also circumscribes the making of national defense policy, and imposes limitations on the organization, training and disposition of the army, navy and airforce.

New Lessons Learned

American rearmament is keyed necessarily to lessons already revealed in the European conflict. German blitzkrieg technique has accented tremendously the vital importance of a huge expansion of air power and the industry to produce and maintain it. Success of Nazi "panzer" armored legions has virtually scrapped all previous theories of how to deal with that menace.

In the Weygand web battle, however, there are looming the elements of new lessons for military experts, lessons certain to be reflected sharply in the American defense set up. Even if that web fails to save France, it has already taught the world much both as to the strength and weakness of tanks and dive bomber attack. These lessons undoubtedly will be visible in construction of new American mechanized units and in the equipment and training the army to meet a tank and air onslaught.

TAKE MEXICO SOLON URGES

Senator Thomas Sees Dangers There

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Senator Thomas (D-Okla) declared Saturday that if Germany forces the British government to flee to Canada and "war comes to the western hemisphere, the United States should take over Mexico and possibly Panama for self protection."

THOMAS

The German army, said Thomas in an interview, would move on the United States from the south if it attacked this nation.

He said Mexico is "a potential menace because it already is German in all but name."

Meanwhile, Thomas said, orders have been placed for airplanes and the nation's plants are turning out new craft at maximum speed.

"We have on order now all the planes the factories can make. make. They are being turned out at the rate of 350 a month. By September, the rate will be 800, by December, 1,200."

Opinion Held Back

In reply to questions concerning the present status of the nation's armed forces, Thomas said "public opinion, heavily pacifistic, would not have permitted military expansion before the invasion of the lowlands.

"It took the invasion to wake us up," he continued. "We're doing all we can to speed up production. Congress is giving the administrational all the money it wants—and it can only spend so fast."

Give F. D. More Power

"If we're going to meet the authorization power halfway," the senior Oklahoma senator continued, "we have got to prepare to act on the same basis as they act. We're going to give the president more power.

"Whatever he asks for, Congress will give him.

"We're doing the same thing now as if we had declared war, but not with the idea that we're going to get into the war.

"It is to prevent that."

Fish Conservation In Valley Urged

McALLEN—Directors of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce have been asked by the Brownsville chamber to endorse a resolution asking the United States Bureau of Fisheries and the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission to conduct a scientific survey of coastal fishing waters with a view of protecting game fish.

The Brownsville resolution declared that the supply of edible game fish on the Texas coast in the southern area has decreased considerably.

AIRPORT SITE IS PURCHASED AT EDINBURG

51-Acre Tract Starts Development

EDINBURG — Land which may soon become an airport near Edinburg has been purchased and deeded to the city under a trust agreement, Mayor A. A. Aldrich announced Saturday.

The acreage is in two tracts totalling about 51 acres. It is located east of the city.

Aldrich and Harry Wilcox, county engineer, purchased the land recently and signed a deed of trust conveying it to the city under a transaction whereby the city may exercise an option within five years' time and purchase the tract at a price of $5,000.

More Acreage Available

Additional acreage is available to the 51-acre site for possible expansions into a larger field, although money is not now available for its purchase, Mayor Aldrich explained.

The 51-acre section is intended principally to give the city the nucleus of a flying field, which can be developed from time to time and which in its primary stages can be utilized for the Civil Aeronautics Authority's current student and civilian pilot-training program. A number of Edinburg junior college students last year participated in such work, although all their training had to take place at the McAllen airport. The CAA program is continuing here this summer.

Hangar Franchise Seen

Almost all other cities of any size in the Valley now have air fields, Aldrich said, and demands for such facilities in Edinburg have been heard from time to time.

Already one Harlingen aviation man has conferred with city officials on a franchise to construct a hangar at the field and to install facilities for servicing local planes.

JOE HATCHITT TO RUN AGAIN

District Attorney Is Citing Record

HARLINGEN—District Attorney Joe P. Hatchitt announced Saturday that in asking the voters to return him to office for another term he would stand on his record in office and on his program of law enforcement and prosecution of law violators.

"I would like to thank those who elected me before and ask that all voters examine my record," Hatchitt said, "and satisfy themselves that I have fulfilled all campaign promises in trying to enforce the law in a common sense manner."

Against Racketeering

He added: "I have maintained firm stand against all racketeering in belief such is costly to communities and leads to graft and corruption of law enforcement agencies.

"I have co-operated with local officers and municipal authorities and all agencies connected with law enforcement. My assistant, Arthur Klein of Harlingen, and I have made ourselves available at all times to assist enforcement officers. My re-election will mean continuation of this policy which I believe is one calculated to reduce crime."

Economy Is Cited

Hatchitt pointed to his vigorous endeavors to prosecute worthless check writers, which has resulted in savings to and protection for farmers and business men over the district. His policy of economy without loss of efficiency, in preparation of cases, was also brought out by Hatchitt. He said:

"Those interested will find by investigation that my office has thoroughly investigated every case brought to its attention, but has not put the state to expense of trial where there was no hope of conviction."

Italian Ship Seeks Refuge In Mexican Port After Orders

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— The Italian tanker Fede, took refuge Saturday in this harbor where four German ships have been tied up since the start of the European conflict.

Port authorities said two other Italian cargo boats, the Dora and Alabama, were also reported steaming for the security of Tampico harbor from "somewhere in the Atlantic."

TOMATO PRICES DROP LOWER IN THIS AREA

ARLINGEN — Tomatoes were bringing growers only about $1.00 to $1.25 per hundred pounds, field run, Saturday, shippers said, as the East Texas area outshipped the Valley.

The Valley loaded 84 cars Friday, Yoakum 12 and East Texas 91, making a total of 187 from Texas loaded Friday and forwarded Saturday, according to the final report of the season issued by the Texas-Federal market news service at Weslaco.

Florida shipped a total of 75 cars Saturday, California 14, Georgia seven, Louisiana four and South Carolina two. It is seldom that so many areas are shipping tomatoes at the same time.

The day's total of 289 cars compared to 338 as of the same date last season while track holdings were down to 356 cars.

A number of Valley tomato shippers who habitually follow the deal as the season progresses, have already gone to Jacksonville, Texas. It is there that R. E. Winfrey, local representative of the market news service in Weslaco, went from the Valley.

Oil Interest Centers On Four Important Wildcat Holes For Valley

Two Wells Testing In 8,000 Foot Depth

McALLEN—Wildcat oil interest was centered Saturday on four important tests in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where a total of 10 holes are now drilling ahead or making production tests. Two of the wells are testing in sands below 8,000 feet. Hidalgo, Cameron and Starr Counties were the main scenes of operations.

In Cameron County, testing of a sand at 8,500 feet continued at the important Pure Oil Company's No. 1 Garcia Land and Cattle Company, six miles south of Port Isabel. The test has 9 5-8 inch o.d. cashing cemented at 8,126 feet, and below this a 500-foot section of liner has been cemente dto past 8,600 feet for the 8,500-foot sand tests. No reports from the production or drill stem tests are available.

In central Hidalgo county, The Gulf States Oil Company's No. 2 J. Cardenas, Share 156, San Salvador del Tule Grant, is still testing in sands at 7,315-20 feet and 7,322-30 feet, where on 1-4 inch chokes gas and distillate shows have been reported under pressures of 2,600 pounds (working) and 3,150 pounds (closed-in). The wildcat has also tested gas and distillate in sand at 8,174-82 feet under pressures of 3,600 pounds (closed-in)

Testing For Production

In Starr County, the Sun Oil Company's No. 1 W. G. Lehr, Survey 513, several miles west and slightly north of the Sun field, is still testing for production in sand at 4,127-37 feet, where original perforations were squeezed. The flow has showed some oil thus far but tests will continue for several days.

The Sun's No. 1 Claude King, Survey 511, one and one-half miles south of the Lehr wildcat, is coring at 3,900 feet but has reported no shows.

North of the Zimm field in Starr county, the Denzil Oil Company's No. 1 Margaret Seabury, Share 46, Porcion 60, Camargo Jurisdiction, is still testing for production as a pumper or jetted well in sand at 1,341-46 feet and is showing for oil.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 3 Guerra estate, Share 25-B, Santa Cruz Grant, in northeastern Starr, is reported drilling ahead at 6,300 feet.

No Locations Staked

No new locations have yet been staked for the new wildcat area opened last week by the George R. Boyle et al No. 1 E. B. At Rincon, the W. E. Davis Company's Inc.'s No. B-25 T. B. Slick estate, Survey 268, on the west edge of the field, flowed 290 barrels of oil per day on quarter-inch tubing choke in sand at 4,197-4,212 feet. Pressures were 390 pounds, working on tubing and 925 pounds on casing, closed-in.

Two tests are on the sand in the Colorado field, southwestern Jim Hogg County.

The Sun No. 1 N. R. Thaxton, Survey 670, on the northeast edge of the field, cored the sand at 3,001-3,012 feet and has set 5½-inch o.d. casing on top of the sand.

Allred And Retinue Return To Houston

Short Session Of Court In Brownsville Closed; Several Are Sentenced

BROWNSVILLE — Judge James V. Allred and his retinue of court attaches have returned to Houston following a short session of federal district court in Brownsville where two murder trials were held and four AAA cotton cases disposed of.

Next term of federal court is in December but the grand jury is subject to call at any time.

At the short session just concluded Felipe Solis and Guillermo Venecia were acquitted of the murder of William Leslie Sills, U. S. border patrolman slain near La Grulla when federal officers approached a group smuggling goats across the Rio Grande. Evidence indicated that Moises Alvarado, also killed in the shooting, fired the shot which killed Sills. Two others indicted for the slaying are still at large. Solis and Venecia were convicted of smugging in connection with the same incident.

Emeterio Chasco Corona received a life sentence in the fatal shooting of J. T. Brown, U. S. customs patrolman, near Sebastian. Isidoro Cruz, indicted in the same incident, was freed on an instructed verdict.

Two San Benito gin men, Bryan W. Long and Lloyd F. (Jack) Elliott San Benito ginners, were fined $10,000 each on charges of having violated regulations under the cotton program of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1938. Judge Allred suspended $9,000 of each fine. W. R. Wardlow, cotton farmer, and William C. Nycum, -in bookkeeper, were fined $2,000 and $1,000 respectively and their fines suspended.

EXTRA RADIO MESSAGES HIT

Stations Are Warned By Commission

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Federal Communications Commission issued Saturday what it described as "a sharp warning" against "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" from ship radio stations to other ships or to shore stations.

Earlier this week, the commission issued orders forbidding the country's 55,000 amateur operators to communicate with foreign countries and prohibiting the use of mobile transmitter sets by amateur operators except for very short distances.

The order Saturday was directed to all ship radio operators and ship station licenses. The commission said 'superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" would "not be tolerated", and violations would be "vigorously prosecuted."

Radio treaties to which this government is a party, as well as the federal communication act, the commission said, prohibit unnecessary or unidentified communications. It added that it would "hold ship station licensees, masters of ships and radio operators on board fully responsible for any violations."

Labor Board Changes Seen Never To Reach Law Stage After Votes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Despite 2-to-1 House approval, sweeping Wagner Act amendments around creation of a new Labor Relations Board were said by informed senators Saturday to be headed directly for a Senate committee pigeonhole.

Appealing for Senate action in the face of an adjournment drive, Representative Smith (D-Va), chairman of the NLRB investigating committee which drafted the original revisions, declared that the House vote Friday demonstrated the country's demand for immediate amendments "as an essential part of the defense program."

"Don't fool yourself," said Representative Hook (D-Mich), as House debate ended, "this bill will never be law."

Nevertheless, 116 Democrats and 142 Republicans voted for the Smith amendments; 13 Republicans, 113 Democrats and three others against.

Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the House labor committee, preferring less drastic amendments, bitterly assailed President William Green of the American Federation of Labor for endorsing the Smith proposals, with revisions which were made, after having said formerly that they would destroy the act.

The principal Smith amendment would abolish the present labor board and create a new three-man agency, but permit the president to reappoint the present members—Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin S. Smith, and William Leiserson.

BROWNSVILLE PORT LOADS CRUDE SOON

First Cargo Is Slated June 16

BROWNSVILLE—The first loading of crude oil at the Port of Brownsville is scheduled Sunday June 16, F. W. Hoimokel, port director, announced Saturday.

The black gold is to be loaded at the W. R. Davis and Company's new tank farm, and is being pumped here from the Rincon field.

Further Expansion

The vessel is to load between 70,000 and 100,000 barrels, presumably for a foreign port.

Meanwhile, further plans for expansion of the Davis and Company tank farm were being rushed to completion Saturday.

The tank farm, which already has three 55,000 barrel tanks, and one 85,000 barrel tank, is having foundations laid for two 80,000 barrel ones. The steel for the two additional tanks is due Monday.

Four 10,000 barrel tanks are also to be erected, and there is also the possibility of constructing two or three more 80,000 barrel ones.

Other Bookings

Joe Stead is head of the Davis and Company tank farm.

While foreign trade was in the offing, two coastwise vessels are due at the Port of Brownsville this week, the SS Henry R. Mallory of the Clyde Mallory Lines, on Sunday, and the SS Dorothy of the Bull Line on Wednesday.

The vessels are to load general cargo for Atlantic seaboard ports.

Exchange To Start Paying Reserves On Fresh Fruit Assets During Week

Valley Citrus Unit Said In Best Shape That It Has Ever Been

HARLINGEN—The Rio Grande Valley Citrus Exchange will begin paying back reserves on its fresh fruit assets next week in the same way that some of the member associations have been paying back packing plant reserves, Manager R. B. McLeaish announced at the annual membership meeting of the Stuart Place Citrus Association Friday night. The exchange expects to begin paying back by-products plant reserves within a few seasons.

The reserves consist of money paid into a revolving fund returned to growers when a property is paid for.

McLeaish said that he announced to the La Feria association Thursday night that only 29,000 cases of grapefruit juice remained unsold, but that by time of the Stuart Place meeting only 25,000 cases were unsold. He predicted a gopd demand for juice from start of the next canning season.

Earl Pike, exchange auditor, told the Stuart Place members that the exchange was in the best condition that it has ever been. He said that the cost of producing and selling grapefruit juice will be 15 to 20 cents a case below last season in spite of a smaller volume.

Those who sponsored the minimum price agreement last fall thought it would hurt the exchange and when they found it was getting more than the minimum they promptly scuttled the program, William A. Brunton, sales manager, charged.

Brunton said many growers were stampeded into giving away their fruit at juice prices after the freeze and let someone else make the profit. With the co-operation of association managers and member growers, the exchange was able to hold back much fruit until the market rose, increasing the exchange average considerably.

Manager Sid Berly of the Adams Gardens property told how his organization netted more money by packing and marketing its fruit through the Stuart Place association and the exchange. "I am pleased with the returns this year, and am definitely certain the set-up is right," he said. "It is not what a grower can get for a few boxes at a given time but the average he gets for all of his fruit," he added.

Harold F. Looney described the successful turn being taken by the dehydrated feed business with the production of a better dried citrus peel at less cost. The exchange sold all old stock on hand and its small production of 692 tons produced this season at a good price, he said.

Ben F. Barnes, exchange director, said "the exchange directors have dug in more than in any year before and we have seen results from it."

G. E. Vance pointed out the need for producing more fruit per tree as one way of increasing exchange tonnage. He said that it would be possible to increase production up to 30 per cent "by using all our resources and opportunities." He said Valley Production Credit Association loans were available at 4½ per cent interest to improve production and quality.

James Harter, auditor, and J. H. Welch, editor of Texas Citriculture, were among the speakers.

The association re-elected A. T. Potts, B. F. Barnes, V. Gustafson and W. E. Carey, directors whose terms expire. J. B. Challes, Joe L. Penry, Jr., and J. B. Chambers, Sr., are holdover directors. The board met immediately after the membership meeting and re-elected all the old officers including Potts, president; Penry, vice president; Challes, secretary-treasurer; and Ben F. Barnes, member of the executive committee.

He also advocated repeal of the truck load limit on perishable produce and livestock; called for proper cooperation with all agricultural agencies, associations and organizations; pledged to stop the financial loss to farmers and the general public due to short weights and measures; and promised an impartial administration and a substantial reduction in departmental charges for inspections, tests, grading and license fees.

BASCOM GILES ASKS RETURN

Commissioner Points To Record

AUSTIN —(AP)— New land laws which he advocated, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles said in a radio address Saturday, had resulted in abolition of vacancy racketeering, clouding of land titles, gambling with school funds and possible favoritism in leasing state lands.

Giles, a candidate for re-election, asserted he had urged, in his previous campaign, creation of a three-man school land board, supplanting the commissioner alone, to administer important school land matters.

The new laws, he said, also had made it possible for occupants to establish priority rights for the purchase of vacancies found in their holdings and eliminated complex logarithmic bids for school and state acreage.

Fifteen hundred applications to purchase excess lands had been filed and the commissioner estimated the permanent school fund would be enriched by possibly $3,000,000 under the new procedure.

Giles said he mailed the first statements of delinquent land accounts in the history of the office and collected $125,000.

She had to raise her boy to be a soldier

In many lands today, mothers are forced to give up their children—even the youngest. Dictators demand them—and dictators are all-powerful. In peace as in war, they control business and industry, capital and labor, life itself. Men and women are told what work they must do. There is no prize for ambition, no hope for the man who would like to choose his own career.

How different it is in the United States! Here is a republic, governed under law by men responsible to the people. In this free nation, we choose our life-work for ourselves. This system of free enterprise, more than anything else, makes the United States the world's greatest nation. Because men are free to dream and work as they see fit, scores of industries have grown great in America: the automobile, radio, telephone and electrical industries are just a few.

As typical Americans, the employees of Central Power and Light Company are devoted to the American principle of working together, producing more of the good things of life and making them available to more people. Through their efforts electric service steadily improves; at the same time, its price steadily comes down.

What inspires the people of Central Power and Light Company? They are paid for what they do, of course. But the best answer is this: the employees of CPL are proud of their part in building a great territory, a great nation. They work as free men to bring better service and value to other free men. They are glad to create wealth in peace instead of destroying it in war.

CPL has been built by free Americans. It is built to serve other free Americans, its customers. It is free from political dictation. Like all industry, like the nation itself, it will succeed as long as there are free Americans to work for it and free Americans for it to work for.

Industries Will Continue To Hum War Or Peace Noted Expert Says

Not For Me

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said Saturday he had no aspirations to become president of the United States in turning down a Tennessee delegation's offer of support.

HULL IS OUT OF POLITICS

Secretary Of State Not To Run

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has, on several occasions, disclaimed interest in the presidency, declared in a letter made public Saturday he considers himself "out of politics."

W. T. Kennerly, Knox county Democratic leader, wrote the secretary advising him the Knox county (Knoxville) Democratic convention had strongly endorsed him should President Roosevelt decline a third term.

Hull replied: "I can only repeat what I have said in all candor during the past twelve months, in letters and in the press, and that is that I am out of politics, that I have no aspirations in any sense for any office."

Ship Turns Back

Clipper Plane Hits Bad Weather

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pan American Airways' Atlantic Clipper which took off for Europe Friday afternoon turned around when a third of the way across the Atlantic and landed back here early Saturday morning.

The line's tentative explanation was that the reversal apparently was due to bad weather.

The Clipper had 21 passengers, including Rear Admiral David Le Breton, who was going to take command of the U. S. naval squadron at Lisbon, Portugal; and General Stefano Cagne, director of civil aviation in Italy.

Valley Men Named Honorary Officers

McALLEN—Ten Valley men have been named honorary officers of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, officials of the organization announced Saturday.

A. Wayne Wood of Brownsville was named a vice president and the following were chosen as directors: William T. Burnett, Brownsville; George Bell, Donna; W. C. Brumley, Edinburg; W. P. Briscoe, Harlingen; Joe Pate, Hidalgo; M. C. Brown, McAllen; John Shary, Mission; E. H. Downs, San Benito; and E. C. Christensen, Weslaco.

McAllen Church's Laymen Will Meet

McALLEN—Members of the men's brotherhood of the First Baptist church here will meet at 7 p. m. Monday at the church dining room for the monthly meeting. Harold Mulkey, new assistant to the pastor, Rev. Henry W. Shirley, who is on a trip to Mississippi at present, will lead the program and start the organization of a men's chorus for the church.

Florida Will Send Three Men To Area

HARLINGEN — Florida is planning to send a three-man committee to the Valley, California and Arizona to check the situation of the citrus industry in those areas, according to information reaching here.

One of the things which influenced the Florida Citrus Commission to send a delegation on a tour of the citrus areas was the fact that California kept a representative in Florida for 89 days following the January freeze.

WATSON TO HOUSTON

McALLEN—Jess Watson was to leave Sunday for Houston to attend the state fireman's convention. He will continue to Cameron to visit his mother during a vacation trip.

BABSON SEES SUDDEN TURN HERE TO STAY

By ROGER W. BABSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Despite the violent news from Europe, American business has held its ground over the past month. A sensational surge in steel and other heavy industries has cancelled out losses in textiles, building, foreign trade, and automobile sales. Business has also absorbed violent shocks in security and commodity prices without throwing the upward trend (which started in mid-April) into reverse.

This is a remarkable situation. Ordinarily when the stock market is hit with a 30 per cent shakeout over a fourteen-day period, it is as sure a sign of a business slump as is a rapidly-falling barometer of a storm. Added to the panic in the security markets is the drastic break in farm product prices. Wheat, for instance, is off twenty cents a bushel. Naturally, this sharp drop is having its effect on retail trade in rural areas. Sales are already off 10 to 20 per cent in such territories as Kansas City, Dallas, Minneapolis.

Textiles And Building Off

Textile mills have felt the shock, too. Their schedules dipped 10 to 15 per cent as raw cotton prices were slashed two cents a pound. An incessant barrage of war news, twenty-four hours a day, does not help real estate salesmen close their deals. Consequently, the gains in home buildings, which were running along smoothly up to May 1, are now being cut down. Latest figures for the country, nevertheless, show 1940 is still topping the level of a year ago. The slowing down in building is reflected in a tapering off of activity in the lumber camps as well.

Automobile sales are beginning to take it on the chin. After listening to a fifteen-minute broadcast of war news, or a quick perusal of the War Extra, the average buyer has the starch taken right out of him. Moreover, loss of the North European markets is a big blow to our exports of automobiles. Motor output in the first half of 1940 has been at a very high level. Now, with big field stocks, with sales slowing down, and with the export markets disrupted, manufacturers are cutting down production. The same situation is true in certain appliance and furniture lines.

Arms Industries Booming

These unfavorable trends, however, are all being erased by the tremendous impetus given armament industries. Current appropriations cover the largest peace-time funds ever set aside for our army and navy. New factories, training camps, shipyards, machine shops, foundries, will be needed to gear America up to war-time needs. I say war-time needs purposely because it seems inevitable to most well-informed people that we will tangle with Germany or Japan somewhere, sometime! Terrific stock-piles of copper, iron, rubber, lumber, tin, aluminum, will be needed to produce this vast defense machine.

So much for what has already happened. Gloomy as the war news has been—far more shocking than that which swept across the nation in 1914—our markets and business have absorbed the jolts relatively well. Back in 1914 the market collapsed, then closed, and business dropped sharply. It was six months before we had a rally. This time, as I have predicted right along, the war should give American industry a tremendous lift. Hundreds of thousands of the unemployed should find their way back to jobs (either in industry or in the army) in the next twelve months.

Foreign Trade Disclocated

America will, for awhile, become the World's Number One manufacturer, farmer, shipper, and banker. The wiping out of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium has temporarily given our foreign trade a rough time of it. Those countries, for instance, took over 30 per cent of our wheat exports. The loss of our markets in the neutral countries should soon be made up, however, by our taking over of their trade with South America and with England. We will supply the Allies, for example, with steel which they formerly purchased from Belgium or produced in Northern France, with paper which they purchased from Scandinavia, and with foodstuffs which they purchased from Denmark and Holland.

Hence, I believe that, war or peace, our industries will continue to hum. A German victory should mean a far greater defense program than that now contemplated; while an Allied victory should mean billions for reconstruction. To the extent that the world continues its expenditures for luxuries, style goods, and amusements, these armament and reconstruction costs will result in an exhaustion of capital and world wealth. Then a lower standard of living throughout the world will follow unless unnecessary luxury expenditures are curtailed.

Repeal Wages and Hours

There is one other possibility. If the Wage and Hour Act could be repealed and if labor unions would be reasonable, we might be able to increase our armament expenditures and still maintain our present standard of living. As long, however, as short-sighted politicians and selfish labor leaders remain in control, I see no hope for this change. The people of the United States—I fear—still fail to realize that only integrity, hard work, intelligence, self-control, and sacrifice will save them!

Relaxing

M. L. Annenbarg, above, is shown in a thoughtful mood as he relaxes during a recess in his federal court hearing at Chicago.

ITALY BOOSTS STEEL BUYING

Munitions Industry Is Hard To Feed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—To feed its munitions industry Italy has increased its monthly purchasec of United States scrap steel more than ten-fold since the second month of the European war, while Japan's buying has sloughed off markedly.

From a low point in October, 1939, when Italy bought only 7,000 tons, purchases have gained month by month to 74,000 tons in April—last month for which commerce department figures are available.

The United States has no restrictions on export of scrap steel, although many proposals for embargoes have been made in Congress.

Despite gains to Italy, Great Britain and Canada, however, United States exports of scrap steel in the first four months of 1940 totaled only 850,000 tons, as compared with 1,005,000 tons in the same months of 1939.

AUSTIN LEGION POST SEEKS TO BAR COMMUNISTS IN VOTE

Group Will Hold To Minimum Influence By Subversive Group; Reply To Protest Due To Be Given Monday

AUSTIN—(AP)—A move to bar Communist party candidates' names from the state general election ballot was launched Saturday by Travis post No. 76 of the American Legion in Austin.

Asserting its intention to "hold to a minimum" any influence wielded by any subversive group, the Legion post, in a letter to Secretary of State M. O. Flowers protested inclusion of Communist party names on the ballot, contending the candidates would be ineligible to hold public office.

In years past, Communist candidates for state offices were listed with Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist and other party nominees.

Flowers, studying the protest with his legal staff, said he probably would reply to the Legion post's letter Monday.

Communist candidates in the last state election included Homer Brooks, who received 424 votes for governor; Cecil Robinett, 1,023 votes for lieutenant-governor; Nathan Kleban, 163 votes for attorney general, and James Sagar, 204 votes for commissioner of the general land office.

In the 1936 general election, Communist Earl Browder received 253 Texas votes for the presidency and Brooks 283 for governor.

On instructions of the Legion post membership, Adjutant J. E. McClain asked Flowers to deny a place on the ballot to Communists because:

"First: The Communist party is not a major political party.

"Second: Any avowed member of the Communist party running for public office on the Communist ticket would be ineligible to hold such office because, when becoming a member of the Communist party, such person is required to swear allegiance to a foreign government, and thus every act would be as an agent of such foreign power.

"The second reason given is amply and conclusively proved by sworn testimony given by Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party of America, and others, before the Dies un-American activities committee and other government agencies in recent years.

"Also, this is proved by articles appearing constantly in the newspaper 'Daily Worker,' published in New York, the official organ of the Communist party in America."

SOUTH TEXAS JOB PLACING SHOWS DROP

Tomato Canning May Bring Employment

BROWNSVILLE — Temporary farm placements fell off considerably throughout South Texas in May, compared with the same month a year ago, W. B. MacFarland, district supervisor of the Texas State Employment Service, Brownsville, announced Saturday.

There were only 8,211 farm placements during the month, compared with 14,613 of May, 1939, in the 16 South Texas counties comprising District No. 3 of the TSES, Mr. MacFarland reported.

Late Tomato Deal

The late maturity of the tomato deal as a result of the freeze earlier in the year, bore the brunt of the decline.

With the tomato canning season expected to start about June 20, and a good season in the offing, the employment of figures are expected to pick up considerably.

Public and private placements throughout South Texas also suffered a set-oack during May. The placements totaled 1,452 compared to 2,122 of May, 1939.

Private Jobs Fewer

There were 1,223 private placements and 229 public ones in May compared to 1,388 and 734, respectively for the same month a year ago.

The May report of the TSES showed further that there were 1,697 new applications for employment filed in May, compared with 1,913 a year ago.

Total applications in the active file as of May 31 were 15,436, compared to 13,115 of May 31, 1939.

Claim Filed

Initial compensation claims filed in May totaled 1,690, and secondary claims, 4,872. Field visits totaled 2,282.

J. G. Starck is manager of Area A of the TSES which includes Brownsville, Harlingen and San Benito.

Nazis See Stronger Spain With New Land

BERLIN, —(AP)— The authoriative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland predicted Saturday that Gibialtar would become Spanish as it was before Britain made it a Mediterranean stronghold.

The commentary said that areas opposite Spain on the African coast—apparently meaning some in addition to Spanish Morocco—"must be in Spanish hands."

"Spain in this position will have the function of an independent trustee for all nations living on the Mediterranean or doing business there."

16 CANNERIES JOIN HIDALGO TOMATO DEAL

Four Firms To Work On Pineapples

McALLEN — Although the Rio Grande Valley's tomato canning deal this summer may equal only 25 to 50 per cent of the pack last season, at least 16 processing plants will go into operation in Hidalgo county in the near future, R. N (Bob) Hancock of McAllen, county sanitarian, announced Saturday.

Hancock checked all of the plants late in the week as they rushed preparations to start work about June 17.

Season Is Late

The canning season is more than a month late this season. Last year such operations began May 7. The January freeze was blamed for most of the delay which reduced both quantity and equality of the 1940 spring tomato crop.

Almost all canning will be finished by July 4, the processors told Hancock.

Four of the 16 plants will also can juice from the crop of Mexican pineapples now coming into bearing.

Companies Are Listed

At Mission the Bohannon Canning Company and Smith canning plant will work the tomato deal McAllen will have the Reagan Canning Company, McAllen Canning Company and St. Clair Foods Company in the tomato deal, with the Christensen Products Company plant handling both tomatoes and pineapples and the Southwest Products Company processing pineapples only. Young Bullfighter To Appear In Lisbon

Rangel To Fly Across The Sea

BROWNSVILLE—Braving a peril more formidable than bulls, Antonio Rangel, 25, ace Mexican bullfighter, Saturday was en route to Lisbon, Portugal, to fulfill a bull fighting contract despite possible spread of the European war.

The veteran of six years of bullfighting, despite his youth, arrived here Friday afternoon from Mexico City by Pan American Airways and left by Eastern Air Lines for New York.

He is to leave New York for Lisbon via PAA Clipper plane June 9.

Wounded Twice

During his six years in the ring, Rangel has participated in about 144 fights, but he has only been wounded twice by bulls.

His interest in bullfighting was acquired by just "hanging around" the matadors when he was a youth he said. He later studied under Rodolfo Gaona, the champion bullfighter of Mexico, who has taught many famed matadors the art.

Rangel was reared in Leon, Guanajuato, the home of Gaona, and it is no wonder he became enthused.

Likes Capework

Capework gives him the greatest thrill. The use of the cape is an art in itself, he said while changing planes here.

The most dangerous part of bullfighting, however, is making the final thrust with the sword while "working" in close quarters with the bull. That is because the fighter can't see the horns of the bull due to the cape, Rangel explained.

ANTONIO RANGEL

"What does a bullfighter do in his spare time?" Rangel was asked.

They don't sip tea, if Rangel is a typical example. The youthful matador's hobby is "jai alai," a more vigorous form of American handball, a sport that is very fast, and exhausting.

When Rangel gets to Portugal, he won't be faced with the necessity of killing the bulls, but the danger will be there just the same. They don't kill the bulls over there, he said. Fighting the bull, however, is carried out in all its perfection.

Rangel is contracted for six Portugal fights, and there is the possibility he might fight 10. He expects to be away from Mexico about three months.

TICKER TAPE BARELY HITS TRADE LEVEL

Stocks Finish Week On Downside

NEW YORK— (AP) —In dealings that barely kept the ticker tape alive, the stock market Saturday finished a war-hesitant week pointing slightly downward.

Leading stocks started out with minor advances, but the majority fell away a trifle at the close.

Transfers of 199,270 shares for the two hours were the smallest for any session since July 8, 1939. They compared with 273,445 last Saturday. The week's turnover of around 2,500,000 shares also was a bottom figure for this period in about a year.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .1 of a point at 28.2 and on the week was down .3.

Willys - Overland common and preferred were a bit ahead following announcement the company, with a subsidiary, would enter the munitions field. Chrysler and General Motors were resistant.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown, up for a while on forecasts of a brisk upturn in next week's mill operations, ended under water. Other losers were Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Texas Corporation and International Paper Preferred.

Up a shade were Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Standard Oil of N. J., National Biscuit and General Electric.

In a ragged and sluggish curb modest advances were posted for American Gas Standard Oil of Ohio and Technicolor. On the offside were American Cyanamid "B," Brewster Aero and Jones and Laughlin. Sales of about 44,000 shares were the same as a week ago.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

America's Industry Shifts From Peaceful Gadgets To Fighting Units

Expansion Of Plants Set On Large Scale As Needs Of War To Be Turned Out

Hundreds Of Millions Will Be Spent For Construction Of New Plants

NEW YORK—(AP)—Shifting from the manufacture of peaceful gadgets to fighting machines, America's industry has embarked on large-scale plant expansion and adaptation of factories to war needs, a nation-wide survey showed Saturday.

Projects under construction and in prospect to handle home defense and increased Allied purchases will result in expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for materials, workers and machines, the survey indicated.

Prodded by Allied buying, actual war industry expansion has been most spectacular in airplane and motor manufacturing. Some plants have tripled capacity in the past year or so. Others are pushing new expansion, either started or on the drafting boards.

Gathering momentum to the cadence of the Nazi blitzkrieg tempo war orders are spilling into munitions, textiles, tanks, automotive equipment, guns, explosives, chemicals and have forced a start on the greatest war plant expansion in the United States since 1914-18.

Heavy Spending Seen

Considering the administration's $5,000,000,000 defense program and the race to lend material aid to the Allies, financial circles regard the current expansion as merely in the opening stage.

Waldo G. Bowman, editor of the "Engineering News-Record," estimated Washington's defense plans alone would call for construction outlay of about $500,000,000, including air bases.

Much more may be spent, he said, for industrial plants, either with private capital or government loans. Investment bankers insist there is plenty of private capital available for factory expansion, providing arrangements is made for rapid charge-offs of war facilities. President Roosevelt has indicated public funds would be available, too.

Many Contracts Issued

Aircraft, tool and chemical industries were major contributors to increased industrial construction under way. Contracts for factories and other industrial structures in the first five months of this year totaled $171,000,000 compared with $73,000,000 in the like 1939 period, according to "Engineering News-Record."

The shift to war industry was accompanied this week by a further rise in leading production barometers, notably steel. A fifth consecutive weekly advance lifted the Associated Press index to industrial activity to the highest level since February. This index has regained about half its loss in the winter and early spring slump.

Wall Street speculative markets, however, remained cautious despite the climb in the business curve and the preparations for heavy plant expenditures to equip war industry. Brokers ascribed the apathy of the markets partly to anticipation of individual and corporate income tax boosts to meet the soaring arms bills.

The new German thrust into France and the Italian threat of war in the Mediterranean likewise kept speculators on the sidelines waiting the outcome, brokers said.

FINE TOTALS RISE IN MAY

Fewer Cases Produce More Revenue

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville lower courts assessed fewer fines in May than in April, but the fines were heavier, checks at Brownsville corporation court and in both the Precinct Two justice court indicated Friday.

Eighty-eight fines assessed in May were for a total of $1,367.35 as compared to 107 fines in April for a total of $1,258.67.

Justice of the Peace Fred Recio, place one in Precinct Two, during May assessed 26 fines for a total of $630.80 as compared to 29 fines for $600.42 in April.

Justice of the Peace George Krausse, place two in Precinct Two, during May assessed 22 fines for a total of $368.55, compared with 26 fines for $290.25 in April.

In city corporation court, Judge John Dutro assessed 40 fines for a total of $368 in May, as compared to 52 fines for $366 in April.

A breakdown of the city court fines in May reveals that of 40 fines for $368, eight were worked out for $80; at least something was paid on 11 fines, for $54; and a balance is due on 26, for $234. No fines were suspended.

In addition to collection of $54 on current fines, $14.25 on old fines was collected in May, bringing city court collections to $68.25 for that month. During May also, 12 old fines were worked out, for $94.50.

VALLEY ASKS GUARDS POST

Edinburg Seeks New Border Unit

EDINBURG — Although Hidalgo county officials have been advised that no national guard unit is available for the Upper Valley, members of Edinburg's newest civic organization, the 20-30 club, have petitioned State Adjutant General J. Watt Page at Austin to seek establishment of such a unit in Edinburg.

Scott Toothacker, chairman of the board of the club, said Saturday the petition was signed by local leaders the past week and was taken to Austin by State Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, who conferred with General Page and with Governor W. Lee O'Daniel on the possibility of securing the guard establishment. Only one unit of the Texas National Guard is now operating in the Valley, that at San Benito.

Bonner Wootten, president of the 20-30's, also announced the club has dispatched a telegram to Congressman Milton H. West at Washington urging the sale of araments and other war supplies to the Allies. "We also seek your support of border fortifications, including a national guard unit for Edinburg," the club informed the congressman.

The club, meantime, is completing arrangements for its next regular meeting here, scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Palm Cafe, when Wayne Wood, president of the San Antonio 20-30 club, is scheduled to be present as a guest of honor.

The Edinburg club now has a membership of about 50 young business and professional men.

Tax Sales Made

Edinburg Gets $5,500 On Property

EDINBURG—Sales of city property through tax foreclosures have yielded $5,500 in new revenue to the city of Edinburg since January of the year, Mayor A. A. Aldrich said Saturday.

Delinquent taxes against the property totalled about twice that amount, he said, and the city settled on a pro-rata basis with the county and the school district, both of which had back tax claims against the land.

Tax collections here, meanwhile, are running about average, with some 70 per cent of all assessments paid up to the last accounting, the mayor added.

Communists Protest Jailing Of Members

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—The Communist party protested Saturday to President Cardenas against the detention of six members by the police in connection with the investigation into the machine-gun attempt to assassinate Leon Trotsky.

In a message to the chief executive, as well as to the attorney general and the secretary of the interior, the party declared that such detentions would "disorient public opinion with regard to the party's activities."

Study Is Approved

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed into law Saturday legislation directing the Bureau of Labor Statistics to study labor and production costs in manufacturing, mining, transportation, distribution and other industries.

The bureau estimated that between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 men were unemployed because of labor saving devices put into use since 1929.

The governor takes office in January in every state except Louisiana, where the governor's term begins in May.

CITY PUSHES PAVING WORK

Edinburg Uses 'Pay As You Go' Plan

EDINBURG—Edinburg has completed the paving of 11 blocks of streets in its new pay-as-you-go improvement program at a cost of about $300 per block, Mayor A. A. Aldrich revealed Saturday.

"We found we were able to do the work with city laborers at a cost approximately that under the WPA program," the mayor said, "so that is why we have undertaken the project."

Work and materials on all save four of the blocks have been paid for already.

The city puts up $100 and the property owners $200 per block of pavement, he explains. Thus far the city has spent exactly $1,100 and the lot owners have provided the remainder of the $3,000 cost.

The mayor said the program has proved attractive to property owners because no debts against the property, such as paving liens, are left "hanging fire." The work is not undertaken unless both city and property owners' funds are on hand or are in sight for a given block.

"This work will continue indefinitely," Mayor Aldrich asserted. "We are hampered somewhat right now by lack of equipment, but I plan to ask the city commissioners to allow the inspection of and purchase of a piece of machinery in the near future which will help us a great deal."

Dr. Millikan, giving his annual report of institute progress at the commencement exercises, said:

"The cancer research program has had a remarkable chemical development—the further purification of a substance which, on injection into a tumor in an experimental animal, causes the tumor in many cases to shrivel up and disappear."

At Gettysburg, bloodiest battle of the Civil War, about 7,000 men were slain.

Additional Funds For War Refugees Will Be Discussed By Harlingen Men

HARLINGEN—Executive committee of the local Red Cross Chapter will meet at 4 p.m. Monday at the First National Bank to discuss the appeal of the national organization for additional funds with which to assist refugees of the war in Europe, according to Roscoe Pryor, local chairman.

A telegram was received a day or so ago asking for additional funds with the spread of the war and the resulting increase in refugees, Pryor said.

The San Benito Chapter with which the Harlingen group is affiliated, recently was given a quota of $1,860, according to Joe A. Sloan, chapter chairman. This has since been doubled and efforts are being made to raise this sum, he told The Star.

There now are 5,000,000 refugees very much in need of help and the American Red Cross is seeking to raise $20,000,000 or double the original $10,000,000 that was asked, in order to be able to extend needed assistance.

Fishing Rules

With tens of thousands of fishermen on lakes and streams in Texas, the executive secretary of the State Game Department has outlined a few simple rules for the protection of the angler from accidents, and at the same time outlined practices in the handling and treatment of fish and minnows that should be followed if Texas waters are to be as productive of these species as every angler expects them to be.

For your own safety and for the producing of better fishing, check these rules and see if you're living up to them:

At a glance one can usually tell whether or not he has caught a fish that must be returned to the water. Catch the fish i nthe lower lip with your thumb and fore finger, remove the hook and release him easily to the water. If it is necessary to catch the fish with your hands, wet your hand first to prevent disturbance of the protective slime that covers the fish. Be sure you have a legal fish before it goes on the string. This oversight might make a fishing trip an unhappy one. Check your tackle box for a ruler before you leave home or mark off the lengths on your boat or tackle box. Remember bass must be eleven inches long and crappie seven inches. DON'T WASTE FISH. TAKE ONLY THOSE THAT CAN BE USED, AND USE THOSE THAT YOU TAKE.

Seining bait may prove to be more expensive than buying it from a bait dealer, if care is not taken. Be sure that you do not sein minnows over three inches long, small bass, crappie and perch are not minnows. All species other than minnows must be released to the water immediately. Minnows that are too small for bait should be likewise returned to the water. They may be large enough for bait next time you go fishing. They are also valuable fish food. It is illegal to injure small fish or leave them on the bank to die.

Never use a boat that is unsafe and always have life preservers for every member of the crew. Boats with rotten boards should never be used. In case your boat does turn over, never get excited. Most wooden boats will support three or four people even if turned over or filled with water. Wait for help and never try to swim a great distance to shore. Many a good swimmer has lost his life trying this stunt. If it is necessary to swim, never try to swim with your clothes on. Remove your shoes first and then other clothes. It is better to lose your clothes than your life. Never wade unknown waters with hip boots, because if you go into water over your head with hip boots on, it is nearly impossible to remove them. Holes or rock jump-offs will cause one to lose balance and here is where the trouble comes.

Every fisherman should have some first-aid equipment in his fishing outfit. Scratches and bruises should be treated immediately to prevent infection. Never try to get a complete sun tan on a single fishing trip. The pain from sun burn is a poor trade for a sun tan. Every fisherman should have a kit to threat poison snake bites.

Practice safety first and maybe you will not have to use first-aid.

About Show Dogs

That dog fanciers are fully aware of the importance of good inheritance in the breeding of pure-bred show dogs is attested by some 1,350,000 names and pedigrees in the stud book of The American Kennel Club. And yet, the mating of representatives of notable dog-families does not, necessarily, produce dogs of championship caliber.

Quality seldom can be produced unless there is some quality with which to make a start. But even potentially great quality can be ruined by improper raising. The most successful dog breeders realize that their work merely has started when a litter is whelped—regardless of how many champions are found on both sides of the pedigree.

Proper nutrition, particularly in the early life of a puppy, is one of the most important factors in the making of a future winner. The youngster that comes of a line noted for sturdy bone may wind up as a spindly-legged "cripple" unless it receives the correct, bone-building foods. The coat, feet, and ears are other points that may go completely wrong.

Many dog judges place great emphasis upon soundness of structure. Inheritance has a great deal to do with soundness, but the dog raised in the best environment and always kept in splendid condition can best preserve that soundness.

There are many cases on record of excellently-bred dogs that lost their quality under poor care, and many other cases of apparently poor specimens that were made into noted champions by good treatment. One of the greatest show winners of modern times was a dog that at one period in his career seemed fit only to be put to sleep. Of a good line, and structurally correct, he was permitted to lapse into such poor health that few wanted him—even as a pet. Bought by a man who knew the secrets of conditioning, this dog became famous. (From The American Kennel Club Press Bureau).

Playoff Set To Start At 8:30 Today

By GAYLE TALBOT

CANTERBURY GOLF COURSE, CLEVELAND—(AP)—Gene Sarazen the dark, fast-striding little golf veteran from Connecticut, came out of nowhere late Saturday through the rain and mud to tie Lawson Little for the National Open championship at 287 strokes and carry the former amateur king into a playoff for the title Sunday.

Winner of his first Open championship in 1922 and a repeater in 1932, Sarazen struck for his third title so unexpectedly that it wasn't until the last three holes that the huge gallery swarmed around him.

Sensational Finish

His finish was nearly as sensational as that of '32 when he scored a final record-breaking round of 66 at Fresh Meadow to snatch the title from Bobby Cruickshank and Phil Perkins.

Little, winner of the British and Amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, was in with what looked like the payoff score. Sarazen had "blown" on the out nine, going two over par, and he needed an impossible 34 coming back to tie. The course was muddy and heavy from a soaking rain.

While Little sat in the press tent and watched the scoreboard with anguished eyes, Sarazen did it. The little guy not only picked up the two birdies he needed, but on the final hole, he nearly curled in a 45-foot putt that would have won him the title

Oliver Disqualified

There was a terrific hullabaloo because Ed Oliver, of Hornell, N Y., had been disqualified along with five other players for having made an unorthodox start on his closing round.

Oliver had a total of 287, too, but it never was posted. His 71 in the afternoon was thrown out because the committee decided the 23-year-old star had broken one of golf's most sacred rules by teeing off some 30 minutes before his scheduled starting time and without having reported to the official starter.

None of the other five disqualified mattered particularly, because they were out of the running anyway, but Oliver was mad in every one of his 240 pounds and he had plenty of support. There was a strong movement afoot to force the U.S.G.A. to admit him to Sunday's play-off. Both Sarazen and Little were willing

But Hal Pierce, of Boston, president of the golf body, said flatly "the matter is closed. We will not consider it further."

He complimented Little for having made a "sporting gesture" in asking that Oliver be included in the playoff. Sarazen had said: "Shucks, let him play. I can beat both of them." The little man with the fighting heart was in fine fettle.

To Meet This Morning

The two man battle between Little, 30, and Sarazen, 38, is scheduled for 8:30 a. m. (CST) Sunday. If they tie again, they will go at it for another 18 holes in the afternoon. Both are impatient. Oliver was crying in the clubhouse Saturday night.

Little's four rounds were 72-69-73-73—287.

Sarazen had rounds of 71-74-70-72—287. He started the final two rounds a stroke behind Little and Sam Snead. He was two shots behind the veteran Frank Walsh, who led the field at the end of 54 holes with 213. But while Walsh and Snead were falling apart in the final crucial 18 holes, Sarazen got tougher hole by hole until he pushed through to his favorite place in front.

New Orleans Track Is Up For Sale

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— A "For Sale" sign was hung Saturday on the Fair Grounds race track here where once the best horses ran for some of the country's richest stakes.

General Manager R. E. Eddy, Jr., of the Louisiana Jockey Club turned the 125-acre tract over to a real estate broker after he had appeared before a Louisiana house ways and means committee and unsuccessfully opposed a bill which would set up a state racing commission and outlaw bookmaking.

"It will be impossible to race unless we can include the morning line," Eddy said after his appearance before the committee. "As the new bill forbids bookmaking of any kind either inside or outside the track, there is nothing to do but bow to the inevitable."

To Settle Fuss Today

LAWSON LITTLE

GENE SARAZEN

Staging one of the most brilliant late rallies in recent play in the National Open, Gene Sarazen, above at the right, will fight it out with Lawson Little today for the championship. Sarazen came from behind to startle a large gallery by tieing Little Saturday after the former National and British amateur champ appeared to have the big tourney in the bag. Sarazen won the Open in 1922 and 1932 and just missed winning again Saturday when he missed a 45-foot putt by inches. The playoff match will go 18 holes and will get under way this morning. Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., had the same total score posted by Little and Sarazen, 287, but was disqualified for having started his last round ahead of time and without reporting to the official starter.

Class D Evangeline Loop Is Club Owner's Dream

Associated Press Feature Service

LAFAYETTE, La.—Nearly half a million persons saw the eight clubs of the Class D Evangeline League in action last baseball season.

That's a pretty impressive attendance figure. It's even more impressive when you learn that cities forming the league total only a little more than 100,000 in population. It gets more impressive when you figure that represents an average of four or more games seen by every man, woman and child in league towns.

If that doesn't mean much to you figure it this way:

With that percentage of attendance in the big leagues they couldn't build a stadium large enough to hold the crowds!

Judge W. G. Branham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, calls the attendance record "remarkable." Officials say success of the loop can be attributed to a combination of a sports-loving population, geographical advantages and the application of good principles of salesmanship.

Evangeline League cities are concentrated in Southwest Louisiana, except for Port Arthur just over the border in Texas. Easy traveling distances make it possible to work out schedules which will allow maximum drawing power at all games. In smaller towns, for instance, a team will not play at home two nights in succession. Most of the crowd is drawn from the same group and officials have found that the fans would rather not stay up late two nights in a row.

Knothole gangs and other popular devices are used to attract youngsters—and they flock to the parks.

Worthington Meets Coffey For T. G. A. Crown Today

SAN ANGELO, Tex.—(AP)—Hezzie Carson, San Angelo's golfing man of steel, finally broke down.

Worn by 62 holes of tournament strife in two days, the San Angeloan fell before Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth ace and state Open champion, 3 to 2, Saturday in the semi-final match of the Texas Golf Association's titular meet on Carson's home course.

The Fort Worth shotmaker, Coffey, was off his game, but Carson was too fatigued to take advantage of it. Coffey made the turn one above par and four up on the West Texan, but was four strokes above par over the six hole back stretch.

Joe Worthington of Kingsville, the Rio Grande Valley links king, engages Coffey in the 36-hole championship final Sunday.

Worthington, pumping even par, but Joe Moore, Jr., of San Antonio, the state junior champion, out of the proceedings, 4 and 3, in the semi-final match.

Coffey was a murderous gunner in his quarter-final, 7 and 6, massacre of E. B. Lovvorn, Sweetwater, shelling the course for seven birdies in the 12 holes played. The Fort Worth sensation clicked five birdies, two bogies and two pars on the first nine to come in under the wire at the turn with a 32, three below par.

Carson was caught on the 18th by Tom Miller, Jr., of Austin, in the quarter-final tilt, then barged on into the extra hole to win as he had done twice before. Carson cracked a par 4 on the 19th while Miller three-putted and came up with a bogey five.

Moore and Worthington had the honor of taking out the tournament medalist and defending champion during the morning round.

Moore eliminated Reynolds Smith of Dallas, medalist, 1 up.

Worthington turned back Don Schumacher of Dallas, deefnding champion, 1 up in 19 holes, shooting a par 4 on the 19th while Schumacher bogeyed.

Bill Stark of Orange plays L. M. Montgomery Sunday in the first flight championship final.

Dees McDermott of Waco, and Lindsay Telford of Lubbock battle for the second flight laurels.

Allan Barnard of Lamesa takes on ePnrose Metcalfe of San Angelo for the third flight crown.

REBELS RELEASE TWO

DALLAS —(AP)— Pitcher Frank Lamanske and Infielder Jimmy Adair were released outright Saturday by president George Schepps as the Dallas Rebels cut down to the Texas League eighteen player limit.

La Feria Girls, Edcouch In Lead

McALLEN—What looks like a horse race is shaping up in the Rio Grande Valley girls soft ball league with La Feria and the Whamerettes from Edcouch-Elsa tied for top honors closely pursued by McAllen and Raymondville with San Perlita and the rejuvinated Mercedes team likely to cause trouble for the championship hopes of any of the ball clubs.

Two new girl teams are entering the league warfare. Mission and Donna will get under way soon and the reports are that both teams are strong.

Edcouch-Elsa whammed out a 14 to 11 victory Thursday night over the fast-stepping McAllen Masterettes with a barrage of doubles, triples, and home runs that kept the Masterettes outfielders hunting for the ball most of the time. Lee Watson's pitching was just to the liking of the twin city girls. They also gave the La Feria lassies a scare last Tuesday night by whamming out nine runs in the first three innings. La Feria showed their rating as one of the top teams of the Valley by coming from behind to nose out the Edcouch girls 10 to 9.

McAllen fell from grace and the top rating by their miserable showing against the Mission girls Wednesday night and Edcouch Thursday night. Several new players will probably put Masterettes back in their winning stride. Raymondville and San Perlita have been bumping into the top teams and splitting a pair of games on their home grounds. They will have an opportunity to improve their standing during the coming week. Sebastian and Mercedes are in the process of reorganization. Additional playing talent has been secured to bolster both teams.

The league schedule will be divided into thirds with a champion declared at the end of each round and a final playoff at the end of the season for the season championship.

League standings to Friday shows:

Edcouch-Elsa	3	1	.750
La Feria	3	1	.750
Raymondville	2	1	.667
McAllen	2	1	.667
San Perlita	1	2	.333
Mercedes	1	2	.333
Sebastian	0	1	.000
Edinburg	0	3	.000

Schedule for this week includes:

Tuesday

Mission at Raymondville.
San Perlita at Mercedes.
Sebastian at La Feria.

Wednesday

Raymondville at McAllen.

Thursday

McAllen at San Perlita.
Donna at Edcouch.
Edinburg at Mission.

Sharyland TCX Club Is Upset By Whalen Ten

Tiff Halts McAllen Edinburg Tilt

McALLEN—Old Man Upset again took his weekly kick at the dope bucket in the Hidalgo County Softball League when the last place Whalen ten clubbed out a 10-inning, 9 to 7, win over the second-place Sharyland T.C.A. club.

The Friday night tilt, played at Edinburg, was one of the best and most exciting games played in the league to date. Pitcher Kenneth Fox led the tenth inning assault on the T.C.X. aggregation by smashing a line single to left field. Heins singled with Fox taking third and both scored when the center fielder dropped Ruppert's long fly. Cunningham flied out to right with Rupert taking third after the catch. Salters walked but Walters provided the winning blow with a smash to shortstop that Robinson booted, allowing the winning tallies to trickle over the plate. Wallace, on the mound for the Sharyland club, allowed 11 hits while Fox allowed a like number for the Whalen entry.

Tuesday night at Edinburg, the Edinburg Stars loafed through an easy 3 to 0 win over the McAllen All Stars. The McAllen team started off with a bang by getting three hits and a walk in the first inning and still not scoring. They had 18 men stranded on the bases during the tilt as the county seat team played heads up ball.

Thursday night at McAllen, the Edinburg club ran up against tougher competition than was expected. The McAllen Stars put up a game battle all the way and fans were seeing a well-played ball game when trouble broke loose. The Edinburg partisans, and there were many of them, had worked themselves up in a huff over several decisions called by Umpire Luther Harper.

Mike McKinney was fired when several pitches were called balls and when the Edinburg infield converged upon Harper, he climaxed the occasion by ordering the Edinburg shortstop, Jerry Stephens, out of the game. He gave as his reason "that Stephens was very sarcastic in his remarks." Manager Abe Bloomfield refused to jerk his player and after a minute and a half, the umpire called the game off and gave it to the McAllen club. Edinburg was leading 4 to 1 when the affair started. It was the last half of the eighth inning. Manager Bloomfield planned to protest Harper's decision, but by noon Saturday, league officials had not received the protest. If allowed to stand as is, McAllen will be awarded the game 9 to 0. If not allowed to stand, Edinburg will take the field with the score 4 to 1 in their favor and a runner on first base. There will be two out when the game starts.

Friday night, at Engelman Gardens, the McAllen All Stars dropped a 7 to 3 game to the Won-Up club although they had defeated the Won-Up club at McAllen last Friday night.

Travis Wallace pitched a 7 to 0 shutout over the Whalen club Monday night at McAllen.

Standings

Edinburg	12	4	.750
Engelman's	12	7	.631
Sharyland	11	7	.611
McAllen	9	10	.473
Whalen's	4	14	.222

San Antonio Man Is Skeet Winner

HOUSTON—(AP)—H. L. Brown of San Antonio won the state 20 gauge skeet title here Saturday after a 75 bird shoot off with Landrum Cullum of Wichita Falls.

Brown and Cullum tied in the 100 bird race with 99, then Brown won the overtime match when Cullum only placed a single shell in his gun and lost a double when his firing pin fell on an empty chamber.

Brown came back in the first 100 targets of the championship race to post a perfect score of 100. Other shooters who registered perfect scores were young Jimmy Cullum, Sol Freundlich and Frank Wood of Wichita Falls, and Roy Cherry of Dallas.

F. S. Hawkins of Dallas, C. J. Colby of Corpus Christi, Gilbert Gardiner of Houston, all amateurs, were tied for second place with 99.

The second 100 targets of the all bore race will be shot Sunday morning. This event will decide the women and junior titles.

Saints To Play Merchants Today

SAN BENITO—Rio Grande Valley baseball fans are certain to welcome the reorganization of the San Benito Saints, a name long associated with Valley baseball.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the new Saints will meet the Brownsville Merchants at Kiwanis Park here in their first game of the season.

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

SWEETWATER, Tex.—(AP)—Pardner, meet up with Slingin' Sam Baugh—an old cowhand 350 miles from the Rio Grande.

Slingin Samuel, the gentleman rancher with football's finest forward passing arm, is roundin' up the dogies in rodeo corrals.

The sun-broiled Texan has put hemp burns on every critter within reach of his slingshot lariat to date. Old-timers who nearly gulped down their quids when Sammy roped, tied and spanked a calf in 11 seconds out on his ranch, say he has the touch.

In Formal Debut

The Slinger made his formal debut at the Floydada rodeo two two weeks ago. He met up with an unruly calf and used up 19 seconds, which was slightly out of the money.

"Shucks, out here on the ranch I've cut that time in half," apologized Sam. "But it was different in that arena."

Other than football, of which he knows plenty after terrific careers with Texas Christian University and the professional Washington Redskins, calf roping is the best sport, allows Cownand Baugh.

Recently Sam bought 25 head of Brahma calves on which to practice. But he had to sell 11 of them.

"They just got too derned big to handle," he admitted.

To offset the remote possibility that Mr. George (Wet Wash) Marshall, the rather easily excited owner of the Washington football, club, should become alarmed over Sam's innocent hobby of wrestling with bawling calves, the Slinger insists that he will not branch out into other rodeo pastimes—such as bulldogging steers mounting unbroken broncs and riding wild steers with a surcingle.

May Join Jenkins

Incidentally, one of Sam's illustrious fellow townsmen, Mr. Larrupin' Lew Jenkins, the generally recognized lightweight boxing champion, has a hankering along the same general lines.

Sam owns some thoroughbred brood mares which the past spring bore thoroughbred colts.

Jenkins, a ranch boy who quit riding herd to win a boxing title, has been conversing with Sam about going into the thoroughbred business. The deal is practically closed—all they need is a thoroughbred stallion!

And, of course, all Lew needs is a ranch. But he promises his thunderous right hand, the one that jellied Lou Ambers' face, will take care of that, effective with his July engagement against Henry Armstrong.

Sam plans to go right along with his rodeoing having entered the famed Stamford rodeo July 2, 3 and 4. He will warm up at Spur June 14 and 15. He trains his own cow ponies and herds them around in a trailer he rigged up.

Right now you can go out any day to Sam's corrals and find a dozen or more dogies with their tongues hanging out.

And Sam's, too.

Texas All-Star Voting To Begin

DALLAS—(AP)—Fans of the Texas baseball league can start casting their votes Monday for their favorite players in the annual All-Star game scheduled for Fort Worth July 11.

Voting will continue through midnight, June 27, and the results announced Sunday, June 30.

Southern division fans can vote on members of the Beaumont, San Antonio, Houston and Shreveport clubs while the Northern division group consists of Dallas, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Tulsa.

Each team will carry six pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders, plus a manager. Players must be voted for at their regular positions, including the outfield.

The manager must be voted on as the manager, but playing managers can be named at their positions. Not more than five men from any one club can be named in the fan's ballot.

The Southern division, until last season, had won the first three games of the annual contest. But, in San Antonio, the North cracked the streak.

Ballots may be mailed to sports editors of league newspapers or to the Texas League office at Dallas.

Texas Athletes Grab Honors In Princeton Meet

By WHITNEY MARTIN

PRINCETON, N. J. — (AP) — The eyes of track fans were on the state of Texas Saturday as athletes from the Longhorn country won three of the seven events in the Seventh Annual Princeton Invitation track meet, with Fred Wolcott of Rice accounting for two of the victories, one with a world record bettering performance.

Wolcott skimmed the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, bettering the recognized world record of 22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935. He also was timed in 22.3 at the 200 meter mark, surpassing Owen's 22.6 record.

In the 120-nighs, he was timed in :13.9. This bettered the meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in 1935, and also the recognized American record of 14 seconds flat established by R. D. Osgood of Michigan in 1937.

As the select field of performers scattered old meet marks right and left in most events, the feature event of past programs—the mile run, went in the good but not sensational time of 4:11. It was won by a dark horse, "Lonesome John" Munski of the University of Missouri.

The University of Texas shuttle hurdle relay team of Douglas Jacques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett and Boyce Gatewood turned in a grand performance in that event to make the Texans' day a smashing success. Matched against a classy Yale team, the Texans were timed in :58.6, which bettered any known time for the event. The best previous record was :59.8 set by USC in 1935.

Summaries included:

120-yard hurdles, second, Boyce Gatewood, Texas; third, Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C.

Two mile run, third, Wayne Rideout, Shore A. C.

220-yard low hurdles, second, Edward Dugger, Tufts; third, Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C.

Mile run, fifth, Blaine Rideout, Shore A. C.

Hornsby Signs To Manage Oklahoma City

Will Pilot Tribe Today In Twin Bill

Replaces Keesey In Drivers Seat

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the "Old Rajah" of major league baseball fame, has been signed to manage the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League, owner John Holland announced Saturday.

Hornsby is expected to take charge of the faltering Indians, now in the league cellar, for a doubleheader with the Dallas Rebels Sunday afternoon.

Hornsby replaces Jim Keesey, who declined an offer to stay and play first base. Holland asked waivers and named Al Fisher, nominally a pitcher, as the regular first sacker pending Hornsby's approval.

"RAJAH" HORNSBY

Hornsby is the second "big name" baseball figure to join the Texas League this week.

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean signed to pitch for the Tulsa Oilers Thursday and will hurl his first game there Sunday against Fort Worth.

Hornsby's long career in organized baseball started back in 1914 when he joined the Hugo club of the old Texas-Oklahoma League.

He went into the majors in 1915, signed to play first base with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, remaining with the squad until 1926.

In 1926 he went to the New York Giants, to the Boston Bees in 1928 to the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and back to the Cardinals in 1933.

That same year he joined the St. Louis Browns of the American League, remaining through 1937.

In 1938 he managed the Baltimore club in the International League part of the season and handled Chattanooga in the Southern Association for the remainder of the year.

Last year, he was back with the Baltimore squad as non-playing manager.

He now lives in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, packing to leave for his new job as manager of the Oklahoma City club of the Texas League, said Saturday night he had made no plans for the team and knew nothing about it except that it was in the cellar.

"All baseball managers' jobs are tough," Hornsby said.

The "Rajah" said his success with the Indians would depend on the kind of material he found.

Moody Still Big Question In Texas Politics; First Primary Is Near

Site Will Be Chosen For Convention

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN —(AP)— With the first Democratic primary only 49 days distant, the number one political question in Texas Saturday continued to be:

Will red-headed, dynamic Dan Moody, twice governor but for the last 10 years engaged in the private practice of law in Austin, once more campaign for the office which none has ever held three times.

A meeting of the state Democratic executive committee here Monday, for the triple purpose of selecting a site for the fall state convention, certifying candidates for the primary ballot and passing on any requests for referenda on controversial matters, was of secondary interest.

Statement Due Monday

Moody said he would have no statement before Monday. His name was filed by friends, which met legal requirements regarding filing, but the committee would not certify it if Moody requested it not to do so.

Mineral Wells, Houston and San Antonio have asked for the September convention, and Amarillo and Dallas may make bids Monday, E. B. Germany of Dallas, chairman of the executive committee, reported.

The convention will declare the nominees of the party, draw a platform for them to run on against the representatives of other parties and select a new executive committee.

No Petitions Received

Germany said he had received no formal petitions for referenda, but expected one on the subject of a tax on gasoline at the refinery in lieu of the present tax at the filling station. Requests for referenda on prohibition and the sales tax also might be presented, he added.

There has been little agitation recently for referenda and capital opinion generally is that there probably will be none.

The executive committee will certify to county committees for printing on the primary ballot the names of 50-odd candidates for state offices. It might have to make a decision or two on whether late filers complied with specifications.

18 In One Race

The deadline for candidates for state office to file was midnight last Tuesday. The same hour also was the deadline for candidates for district offices in districts of more than one county.

The closing for district office candidates in districts of only one county, and also for precinct and county candidates, is June 15, next Saturday.

If Moody's name is finally included, there will be nine on the ballot in the gubernatorial bracket, compared with 13 two years ago.

The most entries, 18, will be in the contest for the railroad commission seat of Lon A. Smith, who is retiring.

Reply to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, if any to questions of Ernest O. Thompson concerning O'Daniel's "record of patriotism" in the World war period is being awaited.

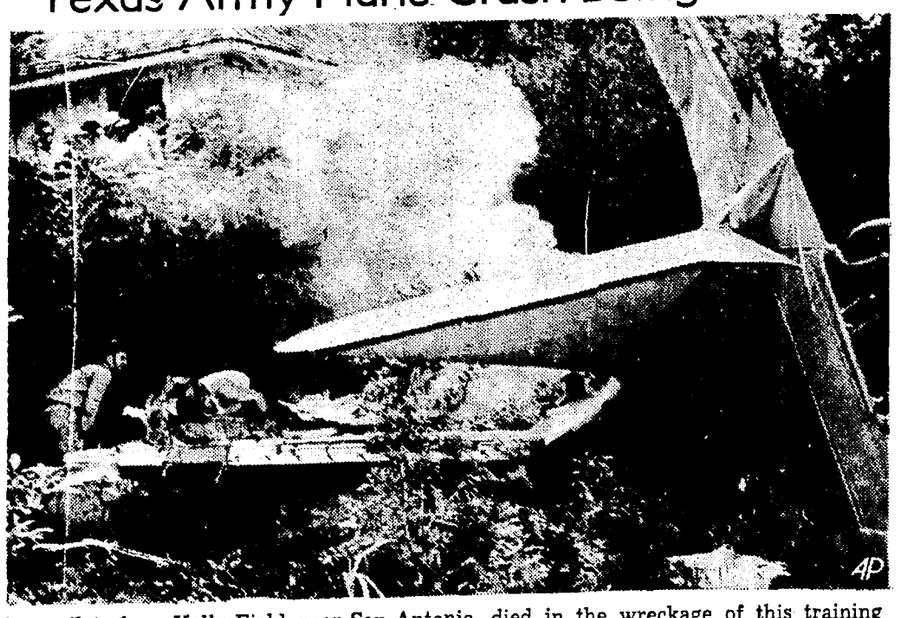
Texas Army Plane Crash Being Probed



Two pilots from Kelly Field, near San Antonio, died in the wreckage of this training plane when it crashed in the back yard of a Houston, Tex., home. Officials from Kelly Field investigated the crash. The two killed were: James K. Boyd and Private Daniel G. Butler, both of Maxwell Field, Ala.

Provisional Leader Forecast In Mexico

Border 'Gold Shirt' Source Claims Neither Avila Camacho Nor Almazan Will Win

REYNOSA, Mexico—Neither Manuel Avila Camacho nor Juan Andreu Almazan will be the next president of Mexico, a person closely identified with the "Gold Shirts" declared here Saturday.

To prevent a rebellion or possible loss of control by the administration, President Lazaro Cardenas will declare a state of "national emergency" and appoint a provisional president to succeed himself, this source said.

"That has been the plan for some time and both candidates know but they can do nothing," he continued.

"Just who the provisional president will be is unimportant, because the Cardenas administration will still be in power."

A national news weekly magazine recently reported that President Cardenas would appoint Sanchez Tapia in his stead. Sanchez Tapia, former military commander in the Federal District, withdrew several months ago from the presidential race.

The election is scheduled for Sunday, July 7. The new president is to take office in December for a six-year term.

An extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress is expected to be called this month, and the Gold Shirt sympathizer said Cardenas may declare an emergency at that time.

The Gold Shirt organization, headed by the exiled Nicolas Rodriguez, claim conservative policies and are vigorously opposed to the Cardenas administration.

WATER MAIN PLAN OKEHED

WPA $25,000 Project Will Start Soon

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville City Manager Robert Runyon said Saturday he has received word a water main project the city is seeking has been approved by the district WPA office at Laredo.

The proposed project will be sent on to the state office and then to Washington for final approval.

Total cost of the proposed project he said is a little under $25,000. About 4,000 feet of 14-inch pipe, now located near the river and not in use since a change in the river bed, is to be dug up and installed on Levee street.

It will replace eight-inch and four-inch mains there, and will afford better fire protection along that street, Mr. Runyon said. The pipe removed along Levee street will be located in other parts of the city, and some new pipe will be purchased and laid in different locations.

Water mains to serve the Brownsville Housing Authority will be included in the project, the city manager said.

He estimated that the city's share of expense in the project will amount only to about $2,000 in cash, after credit is allowed on city equipment that will be used.

Alcohol On Breath Easy To Find Now

NEW YORK —(AP)— A new and simplified apparatus for the chemical determination of alcohol in breath was described Saturday to the American Society of Clinical Pathologists by a Boston doctor, who said it was "compact enough to be carried in a traffic policeman's hip pocket."

The invention of Dr. Walter W. Jetter, of Taunton (Mass.) state hospital, weighs only four ounces.

NAZI RAIDER CHASED AWAY

Lone Plane Attacks English Town

A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH TOWN —(AP)—A lone German raiding plane and a British ground crew engaged in a spectacular duel in the glare of searchlights late Saturday night while thousands of townspeople looked on.

Searchlights picked out the Nazi craft which roared in at an altitude of only 500 feet. Then the ground defenses blazed away.

Machine gun bullets spurted skyward. The German answered with a stream of tracer bullets directed at the searchlights.

High Court Rules Oil Company Wrong

NEW YORK—(AP)—State Supreme Court Justice Samuel Rosenman ruled Saturday that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and five individuals had interfereed unfairly with the competitive business of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company, and ordered them to pay damages—which the plaintiff originally set at $50,000,000.

The amount of damages to be paid was not specified in the decision, being dependent on an accounting of profits since April, 1933

M'ALLEN SET FOR FOURTH

Annual Celebration Plans Pushed

McALLEN—The 1940 edition of the McAllen Fourth of July celebration, one of the oldest festivities in the Valley, is rapidly being whipped into shape, General Chairman George Chapapaas announced Saturday.

The various chairmen this week met with their committees, and announced generally that "all the preliminaries are out of the way."

19 Flyers Entered

Al Weir, chairman of the Air Show committee, said 19 Valley and out-of-Valley flyers would participate in the air carnival. Also, he said, Braniff Airways has been invited to send from Brownsville one of its new 21-passenger Douglas DC-e transport planes.

Four Class AA Valley high school bands will participate in the celebration, in addition to the Pan American Airways drum and bugle corps, Chairman John Gregory of the bands music committee announced.

Fireworks Display Set

Chairman Bob Miller of the Bathing Beauty Revue committee said several new and novel acts were being planned for this year's show.

An orchestra and a floor show will be secured for the dance at the Club Royale, Dance Committee Chairman O P. Martin said.

Large quantities of fireworks have been ordered for the gala display the night of the Fourth, according to Dr. F. G. Sigrist, chairman of the fireworks committee.

Poor Americans May Be Left Behind As Rescue Ship Leaves

DUBLIN—(AP)—At least a hundred homebound Americans, faced the prospect Saturday of being left behind because they lack money for passage to the United States on the liner Washington.

The ship arrived at Bordeaux Friday night and is scheduled to sail for Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday night, and from there to Ireland sometime next week. It may call either at Galway on the west coast, or at Cobh in the south.

The men and women and their families, likely to be left behind unless something is done, are poor working class people whose families have grown so rapidly that they can hardly think in terms of $200 each for the minimum fare.

TRAIL OF STOLEN CARS LEADS TOWARD MEXICO

McALLEN—Investigation of rumors concerning the whereabouts of the 21 stolen Hidalgo county autos consumes most of the police officials' time these days, Chief of Police Noah Cannon said Saturday.

Almost daily someone approaches the police with what he believes is a "hot tip," leading the law to further investigations. Ordinarily most of the informants are residents of Mexico, bearing unfounded rumors. Frequently, however, the reports have given the police a clue which defies their pursuit once it goes across the Rio Grande.

Cannon said state and county police from other Valley counties are cooperative with the local division and the sheriff's department in trying to apprehend the car thieves whom they are certain drive the cars across the border.

Recently, it was understood that state police from Tamaulipas proffered their assistance in trying to stop the current wave of thefts by apprehension of the auto thieves across the border with the cars. It is their opinion that the cars are taken some place and reconditioned and repainted before being driven to the interior.

Chief Cannon pointed out the fact that after a car is in Mexico for 72 hours without being properly bonded, it is subject to seizure by the customs. Only one such instance has been reported, causing local officials to believe the cars have a distributing agency working with them in Mexico.

Recently two county officers went to Monterrey in search of information concerning the thefts. Their mission was fruitless, however, since nothing could be learned from police officials there.

STATE LISTS CASH BALANCE

Deficits Shown For Three Funds

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State of Texas had an overall cash balance of nearly $21,252,000 in its treasury at the end of May despite deficits in three funds amounting to $24,613,000, the treasurer's office reported Saturday.

Unpaid warrants totaled $29,390,000 as against a cash account of $50,642,000 on deposit with banks.

Funds containing deficits were general revenue with $22,059,000; confederate pension with $1,833,000 and state old age pensions with $720,000.

Among accounts with large balances were the available school fund with $1,765,000; state highway, $10,352,000; permanent school fund, $8,143,000; county and district highway indebtedness, $7,639,000; highway investment, $1,261,000; highway motor fuel tax, $3,906,000; road bonds, $1,083,000; series two of relief bond sinking funds, $1,219,000, and teacher retirement savings, $1,127,000.

SUNDAY, JUNE 9, 1940

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Chapman of Birmingham, Ala., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Martha Frances, to John Franklin Sanders Jr. of Birmingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sanders of Harlingen. The wedding will take place July 6 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening in the West End Baptist Church in Birmingham. The bride, who is a graduate of Birmingham Southern College of Birmingham, is to be complimented with a lengthy series of prenuptial affairs. Mr. Sanders received his B. B. A. degree in 1935 from the University of Texas and is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. He is the grandson of Mrs. Ora Goolsby and the late Joseph F. Goolsby, early day settlers in San Benito. The couple will establish a home in Birmingham.

Miss Betty Burkhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Burkhart of Alamo, received her bachelor of music degree from Baylor University Monday. She is a member of "Who's Who" in American Universities and Colleges, a member of the national music sorority, Mu Phi Epsilon, of the Little Theatre, and of Alpha Omaga, an organization based upon high scholarship; and was active in other campus organizations as well as popular in social affairs. Probably the highest honor conferred by the student body each year, selection as queen for the annual Homecoming at Baylor University, went to Miss Burkhart for the year 1939-40. She is also a favorite among the younger social set of the Valley.

Reading the service was Dr. Millard A. Jenkens, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Abilene.

Organ music by Alfred Alexander preceded the nuptial ceremony. The nuptial solo, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," was sung by Mrs. James K. Polk of Colorado City, daughter of Dr. Jenkens.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding dress was white marquisette over satin, an Empire model, styled with gored skirt. A lace yoke was fitted to the shirred bodice which was finished with square neckline and puffed sleeves. The exquisite imported Italian point d'esprit lace veil was worn over two layers of tulle and was held in place with a halo turban of satin. Her shower bouquet was made of white roses.

Mrs. Thomas H. Sweeney, Jr., of Brownsville, was matron of honor. Other attendants to the bride were Mrs. H. B. McGrady of Bonham, Miss Harriet Godwin of Abilene, and Mrs. Edwin E. Middleton of Abilene. Their frocks were identical, being made of delphinium blue mraquisette with lace bodices which followed the long torso silhouette. Sleeves were puffed and ended above the elbow and skirts were wide and full. The beautiful garden setting emphasized the beauty of the fan-shaped trellis, overlaid with gladiolas and fern, where the couple spoke their vows. The bridal party entered along a garden aisle outlined with single rows of gladiolas.

Guests for the wedding included a hundred guests, only young friends of the couple and relatives.

Two hundred other friends were guests for the reception that followed the ceremony. Cake and punch were served from decorated tables on the south lawn. The elaborate tiered wedding cake was topped with flowers in bridal design.

The bride's father is publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News and is connected with newspapers at a number of other Texas points. She is a granddaughter of two pioneer West Texans, the late R. T. Hanks, Baptist minister, and the late Dr. L. W. Hollis, physician and surgeon.

JUST BETWEEN US WOMEN . . .

"I Took The Knots Out Of Father's Day"

As Told to Me By a Woman Who Knows That the Tie That Binds Isn't the One That Blinds.

. . . All I said to him was "George, you'll be thrilled with the six ties Junior and I bought for you for Father's Day" . . . and what does he do? He stands on his head, (I never knew he was acrobatically inclined) and shouts "I don't want ties," and in the same breath, "No man wants ties . . . we're sick and tired . . . " and then abruptly says, "Yes, that's it. What we men want is something to take the load off our feet. Something to give us peace and quiet for 365 days of the year."

The smile of enthusiasm was no longer on my face. Suddenly I became apprehensive. The shock of getting six ties was too much for George; he was sitting on the floor with a vague grin below his wide staring eyes . . .

I had forgotten my resentment of his outburst. But such ingratitude! Last Father's Day, Junior and I bought two lovely ties—one with big wide stripes (he must of liked it . . . he said it looked like a rainbow), and another with a garden of colors almost like my print dress.

This year we thought we'd surprise him. It took three trips to town to buy those ties. Now, on top of that, I must humor him. So, patronizingly, I said "George, dear, what would take the load off your feet? What would give you peace and quiet for 365 days of the year?"

He looked at me shyly and answered, "well, ... a good comfortable mattress" and then he vigorously said, "And I don't care how much you spend."

And so . . . thanks to Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores . . . George has another surprise coming to him. Junior and I bought him one of the $29.50 custom-built "Valley Ace" inner-spring matresses and a $29.50 custom-built "Valley Ace" box spring to match, all for only $39.50 . . . and Edelstein's gave us a $1.95 quilted mattress protector free. Their salesman said we could pay only 95 cents a week on their Budget Plan, if I wanted to.

I'm so thrilled! Just imagine saving $21.45. I'm going to put it in an envelope and give it to George on Father's Day. When he asks "How come?" I'll tell him that "being a good homemaker is a tie that binds" and that "Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores sell all the home ties that make for gracious living."

What's more, I've found out that George wants comfortable things for his home . . . and that I can buy all these at Edelstein's Better Furniture Stores. And . . . just between us . . . that's what I'm going to do.

This 'N' That

By Minnie Gilbert

THE MORE brides the more weddings, or vice versa.

Whether it's the power of suggestion or because most girls have always sort of planned June weddings, it's difficult to say and of little moment after all.

But, more than a few guests at every church wedding are eying

bridal finery coming down the aisle with a view of deciding which style veil, dress, or bridesmaid is most flattering to her particular type.

A BRIDAL custom, evidently observed by hundreds of brides over a long period, came to our attention just the other day.

The bride wears a coin, usually a dime, but sometimes a penny in her shoe on the important day.

A penny sent to Helen Sumners McCall (Mrs. Lanier McCall) off Corpus Christi to wear at her wedding in the early spring had served as luck piece for three other brides.

LOOKING for something new in table centerpieces that suggests coolness and maybe the ocean?

Borrow a leaf from the book of a New York career woman who has made a successful business of her hobby of collecting shells and coral.

She sticks big branches of coral into conch shells and builds centerpieces that get photographed in Vogue and such magazines.

A trip to Padre Island or Del Mar probably would furnish unusual material for a sea centerpiece.

FOR SOME CAUSE the magnolias this year seem to be the loveliest Valley gardens ever have produced.

Up to now the Valley has left it to other parts of Texas to publicize the romantic flower of the Old South, but expert gardeners are proving every year that plants once regarded as unsuited to soil or climate may be grown here with success.

And who knows but that magnolias in abundance may be the touch needed to make just perfect warm spring nights?

LOVELY magnolias are in blossoms at 321 E. Lee Street in Harlingen and the anrient tree in the yard of the old Goolsby place, catacorner from the San Benito postoffice, is showing claim to a new lease on life by exceptionally large, waxy blossoms.

SOLUTION OF A problem—how to tell which end of a sweet potato should point skyward to induce growth of a potato vine—has suddenly come to us.

Keep the potato in a dark place until sprouts grow and then put the bald end in the water or earth.

BUENA O'BRIEN, who shares with her husband the nickname of "Pat" authored an editorial in the April issue of Texas Woman, Business and Professional Women's publication, on the use of radio in propaganda.

Pat's hobby is growing Talisman roses of an unbelievably yellow hue in the garden at their San Benito home and how she gets that rich orange tint is something of a secret.

CORRESPONDENCE with relatives in the Nazi-held Scandinavian countries ceased when the Swastika was set up.

At least that's the experience of Paul Hoidale, (Norway), Mrs. Ben T. Ezzell, and others.

Mrs. Ezzell and her brother, formerly Danish consul in St. Louis, have had no replies to letters or cablegrams sent to their three sisters in Denmark since the invasion. Previously letters were exchanged with regularity over a long period of years.

OF ALL THE stirring messages the radio has presented since the European disaster started to unfold, the sincere, commonsense appeal made by Mrs. Dwight Morrow a few nights ago stands out, in our estimation, as the most deserving of unanimous support from folks in this country.

It would help clarify thinking on the part of a great many, women particularly, to read every word of her message because she struck at the sort of evasion of issues that seems to be more rhararteristil of feminine thinking than of men.

In his column on pronunciation Frank Colby is asking for folks to send in a list of ten words considered most beautiful from the standpoint of euphony.

Whip-poor-will is the only word we've put on our list so far.

But the most beautiful of all sounds to our ears is the ringing of church bells in the distance.

Trick Heels Now The Rage

Shoes are displacing hats as the craziest thing in a woman's wardrobe. Or aren't they crazy, those new shankless sandals with scooped-out heels that Ginny Simms, NBC singer, is wearing. Bu tcan she walk on them?

Variations on the shankless shoe with fantastic heel were shown in quantity at a New York meeting of shoe manufacturers. They'll be pushed for late summer, early fall wear.

You'll be a strong-minded woman if you don't eventually buy some of the trick-heeled output. New designs live up to their names: Sled, tractor, sleigh, crescent wedge, suspension, pyramid, keg, peg, Dutch boy, pinched wedge.

More conservative are the other three styles. recommended as comfortable travel or go-to-the-fair shoes. They are all lightweight, low-heeled. The hassock heel is the style feature of the feather-stitched shoe at the right.

A visiting shoemaker observed that few wedge soles were worn at the World's Fair. He was surprised, because wedgies sold well this spring. This department is not surprised, and suggests that the shoemaker try wearing wedgies for a few weeks. He'll find the stiff, inflexible arch is uncomfortable and causes an awkward gait.

FURNITURE & HOUSE FURNISHINGS

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS

Sunday, June 9, 1940

We Congratulate You:

The older folks who have 'gone through it all' will caution you: "Don't furnish your home with a lot of 'cheap stuff'. Pay a little more and get the best."

Well, that's good advice—when you're not bothered with budgets and things. And we agree with the 'get the best' part—

But we don't agree with that 'pay a little more' idea. We say: "Deal with firms that have an established reputation for quality, value, and conscientious dealing. They won't ask you to 'pay a little more'." More often, you'll pay less—and GET a lot more.

That's the kind of a firm ours has been for more than a quarter of a Century. Our prices for comparable quality, are never excessive. In our stores you will always find a beautiful selection of home furnishings. Our courteous, helpful sales people know how to be of assistance without importuning.

Our 'Budget Plan' was designed to assist all, whether newlyweds or "old timers" in owning home furnishings of excellent quality, purchased at our reasonable prices, and with the payments conveniently arranged to suit one's income.

Before buying furniture for that Valley home of yours, be it only a two-or-three-room apartment, or a new and modern bungalow, visit our nearest store—conveniently located in Brownsville, Harlingen, and on the corner of South Broadway and Beaumont streets in McAllen. You, and your purse, and your budget, especially, will find happy satisfaction.

Sincerely yours,

Edelstein's BETTER FURNITURE

Venezuela Topic For Round Table

Miss Sophia Spivey Speaker At Event

BROWNSVILLE—At a table decorated to picture the palm and flower-rimmed lakes and jungles of Venezuela, the Pan American Round table members and guests met at El Jardin hotel Friday in the usual monthly luncheon session.

Venezuela, the topic for the day in charge of Miss Sophia Spivey, was depicted in varied scenes of the place cards. Special attention was drawn to a silver bracelet lent by Mrs. J. B. Fields, and to a wall map of Venezuela made by Mrs. Kellis G. Buckley.

In opening her discussion of the country, Miss Spivey mentioned that much of her information had been obtained from Edward Tomlinson's book, Road to Riches, and Venezuela, by Erna Ferguson. Venezuela, the speaker said, is the first of the Andean countries, and its capital, Caracas, is one of the old Carribean cities that keeps its old South American atmosphere. Its stores are crammed with luxuries from all over the world, and its markets reflect a people who are attracted to modern things.

Dwellers in suburban homes, Miss Spivey stated, are mostly descendants of Spanish colonial families. Venezuela is a country of great wealth, yielding gold, diamonds, oil, cattle and pearls. It has lakes of asphalt, one of these covering a thousand acres.

Miss Spivey described in detail the pearls from the Isle of Margarita, so named by Columbus, which is about 20 miles from the mainland. Gentle natives, expert divers, were enslaved and forced to dive for pearls during Columbus' time when magnificent pearls went to Isabella. The prize pearl was the size of a dove's egg, perfect in shape, and "as translucent as dawn" Pearl fishing is seasonal, and by law, there is open season once in three years. Margaritas, varying in size, are cream, yellow, white, black and gray.

Venezuela, Miss Spivey said, is contributing her ful share of culture to the World, especially in the field of literature. Many writers paint realistic, living pictures of the actual, tragic Venezuela. Dean of today's writers is Rufino Blanco Fombona, while another is Romulo Gallegos, a writer of the lower classes, born in Caracas.

Miss Spivey sketched interestingly the llaneros, the cowboys of Venezuela, who embody many ancestral Carribean traits. These are a busy people, adept in all that cowboys can do, and have the skill of a water-logged world besides as much of the country which they travel is often under water.

A trip through the Andean states, Miss Spivey went on, will show a vast region teeming with life, commerce and industry. Transportation, progressing nicely has veen a vital factor in developing natural resources, trade and mining. Merida is the conservative, aristocratic and provincial capital. Here is located the University of Los Andes, and here dwells Senor Don Julio Febres Cordero, a real scholar, who has proposed, that in order to avoid confusion concerning the title Americans, that U. S. citizens should be known as Washingtonians.

San Cristobal, another Andean city, is high above a valley, and above the city towers a stone fort built by Gomez, at a strategic point in the trans-Andean highway, against a possible invasion by Colombia. Oil lands in Venezuela have scarcely been tapped, the speaker concluded, and if the oil continues to flow and to be sold, Venezuela will be one of the richest countries in South America.

After the program, the director, Mrs. Ben M. Freudenstein, introduced Miss Faith Hunter Dodge, of Chicago, a writer who has travelled in Venezuela, and who spoke briefly in Spanish, and told an amusing anecdote in English.

The meeting was adjourned with Mrs. Milton West playing the national anthems of the United States, and Venezuela.

Doctor Takes A Wife Is Hilarious Comedy

Loretta Young And Ray Milland Featured In Comedy Roles; '20 Mule Team' Tops New Film Releases

LORETTA YOUNG and Ray Milland share the pleasant distinction of playing their first all-comedy roles together in "The Doctor Takes a Wife," heralded by critics as a worthy addition to the screen's collection of redoubtable films which have included "It Happened One Night," "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," "The Awful Truth," "Too Many Husbands," "His Girl Friday" and numerous other outstanding hits.

Miss Young is seen as a young author who writes books in praise of spinsterhood; Milland, as a young doctor who thinks women are the closest things to poison a medical mind can find. And, in order to advance their respective careers, this delightfully matched couple are required to pose as man and wife, to bill and coo in public and to save their battlings for the privacy of their "love nest."

The featured supporting cast to Miss Young and Milland in "The Doctor Takes A Wife" includes Reginald Gardiner, Gail Patrick and Edmund Gwenn.

"The Doctor Takes A Wife" is booked for current showing Sunday and Monday at the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen; Tuesday and Wednesday at the State Theatre in Mercedes; Thursday and Friday at the Ritz Theatre in Weslaco and at the Rivoli Theatre in San Benito, Friday and Saturday.

ALICE FAYE SEEN AS GLAMOUR QUEEN

AMERICA'S first glamour Queen holds the spotlight again in the screen production of "Lillian Russell," featuring Alice Faye, Don Ameche and Henry Fonda.

The amazing life and loves of the great Lillian Russell were headline news in her day, and the picture, it is claimed, makes it easy to realize why the beautiful actress was so famous and the songs of her day so popular. Some of the songs that are sung in the picture will include: "After The Ball Is Over," "Rosie, You Are My Posie," "The Band Played On," ("Strawberry Blond"), "My Evening Star," "Adored One," and "Blue Love Bird."

Lillian Russell numbered Diamond Jim Brady and Jesse Lewisohn, two of the wealthiest men of her era, among her countless admirers. Women envied her and tried to be like her—men became famous just by being seen with her. No one could take her place, and no one has.

Also featured in "Lillian Russell" are such outstanding screen personalities as Edward Arnold (as Diamond Jim Brady), Warren William, Leo Carrillo, Helen Westley, Dorothy Peterson, Ernest Truex, Nigel Bruce, Claude Allister, Lynn Bari, Weber and Fields, Eddie Foy, Jr., Una O'Connor and Joseph Cawthorn.

"Lillian Russell" is booked for current showing Sunday and Monday at both the Palace Theatre in McAllen and the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville.

'20 MULE TEAM' TO STAR WALLACE BEERY

AFFORDING Wallace Beery his most colorful and convincing characterization since "Viva Villa," his latest picture "20 Mule Team" is a saga of the Death Valley pioneers who dug borax and hauled it to the railroad by mule trains across the blistering desert sands.

Beery outdoes any of his recent roles as Muleskinner Bill Bragg, best driver of the route by his own admission. As the Indian "swamper," Piute Pete, Leo Carrillo is at his dialect peak. And as the hotel and saloon owner, Josie Johnson, who throws out Beery despite the fact that he considers himself virtually engaged to her, Marjorie Rambeau comes nearer to filling the shoes of perfect comedienne than anyone else in the past half dozen years.

Supplying the junior "heart interest" are a young pair of great promise: Noah Beery, Jr., shows himself a chip off the old block in his first role with his uncle, and Anne Baxter, newcomer from the New York stage. Young Noah has easy assurance as the company paymaster, Mitch, while Miss Baxter reveals both charm and fire as Jean, Josie's daughter.

"20 Mule Team" is booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at both the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen and the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville.

ANNA NEAGLE STARS IN MUSICAL COMEDY

ANNE NEAGLE and Ray Milland share co-starring honors in the screen presentation of the famed Broadway musical comedy "Irene," booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre in McAllen.

Running for almost two years on Broadway, and having half a dozen road companies covering the nation at the time it made its appearance, "Irene" scored an unqualified hit with audiences the country over, and the picture promises to be an even greater success. The four tunes that were featured on the stage, "Alice Blue Gown," "Castle of Dreams," "Irene" and "There's Something in the Air," are stressed in the picture, and a brand new number by the same composers, "You've Got Me Out On A Limb," is also woven into the picture.

Such favorites as Roland Young, May Robson, Billie Burke, Arthur Treacher, Isabell Jewell, Marsha Hunt and Doris Nolan also have featured roles in "Irene."

Alice Faye as seen in the screen production "Lillian Russell," booked for showing Sunday and Monday at both the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville and the Palace Theatre in McAllen.

Jack Benny in his latest starring picture "Buck Benny Rides Again," booked for showing Sunday and Monday at both the Rivoli Theatre in San Benito and the Ritz Theatre in Weslaco.

Edward Waller and Douglas Fowley with Wallace Beery in his latest starring picture "20 Mule Team," booked for showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday at both the Capitol Theatre in Brownsville and the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen. Other prominent stars featured in "20 Mule Team" include Marjorie Rambeau, Leo Carrillo, Anne Baxter and Noah Berry, Jr.

Ray Milland and Loretta Young co-starred in the hilarious comedy romance "The Doctor Takes a Wife," booked for current showing Sunday and Monday at the Arcadia Theatre in Harlingen; Tuesday and Wednesday at the State Theatre in Mercedes; Thursday and Friday at the Ritz Theatre in Weslaco and at the Rivoli Theatre in San Benito.

FRENCH FALL BACK BEFORE NAZI THRUSTS ALONG 60-MILE FRONT

Italy Will Retaliate Five-Fold

ROME —(AP)— A pointed warning that five English cities would be bombed for every Italian city attacked by Allied bombers in the event Italy enters the war was published Saturday by the Rome newspaper Il Giornale D'Italia just while foreign observers were expressing belief Italy would enter the conflict next week.

Il Giornale D'Italia's editor is Virginio Gayda, long recognized as Premier Mussolini's editorial mouthpiece.

Reports have circulated here that the British and French plan to bombard Italian centers if this nation entered the war against them.

London Is Threatened

To these reports, the authoritative newspaper said:

"For every Italian city bombed five English cities would suffer the same treatment."

Bombardment of Rome would be the signal for "similar, but greater, bombardment of London," the newspaper added.

However, Rome was considered here to be fairly safe from attack, with the Italians prepared to make it an open city by removing government offices, troops and aircraft.

Last Neutral Week

Some observers heard that an Italian attack on their first secret objective would come in the early hours Monday but a source considered reliable indicated it probably would be later, possibly Thursday or Friday night.

Although only Mussolini and possibly his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, are supposed to know the date of the expected entry into the war, confidence that Italy has closed her last week as a non-belligerent nation in this war was based on impressions in Italian circles as well as war preparations which appear to be complete.

The imminence of an Italian move was indicated further by foreign reports that Italian ships are being kept in neutral ports.

All Ships Docked

Government - controlled newspapers substantiated the reports by publishing them.

RANGER UNITS GUARD RIVER

Mechanized Groups Watch Border

AUSTIN—(AP)—A modern, mechanized detachment of Texas Rangers was engaged in secret operations along the lower reaches of the Rio Grande Saturday to protect the state against possible flare-ups from across the border.

Split in small groups, the Ranger force, whose numbers have not been disclosed, was under orders calling for swift action in any emergency while an Austin headquarters staff catalogued and classified a deluge of reports on possible "fifth column" operations in Texas.

A state official who would not permit use of his name said the Rangers, mounted in automobiles for fast transit on roads and on horses for work in mesquite thicket backlands were prepared to thrust in any direction.

Possible border disturbances developing out of the national election in Mexico July 7 or any activities of an un-American nature on this side of the border, the official said, would find Rangers ready to strike quickly.

Meanwhile, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel's call to citizens to report suspected "fifth column" activities brought voluminous replies which were being filed in a cross-reference card index system at state police headquarters.

Sadler Will Remain In Chief State Race

GATESVILLE —(AP)— Several thousand persons attending the annual rodeo here Saturday heard Jerry Sadler, candidate for governor, tell why he had to remain in the race.

"I have received no reply from Governor O'Daniel to my offer made more than a week ago to withdraw from the race if he would call a special session of the legislature," Sadler said.

JAPAN GROUP SEEKS TRADE

Diplomats Pause In Valley City

BROWNSVILLE—Five Japanese diplomats, reported to have been on a Latin American trade commission, were in Brownsville briefly Saturday night en route from Mexico City to New York.

The group was said to have toured South and Central American countries, and Mexico, seeking the establishment of closer commercial relations between the countries and Japan.

They had no comment to make upon their arrival at the Brownsville airport, however.

Arriving here by Pan American Airways were S. Kato, Japanese minister at large; S. Koshida, Japanese minister to Mexico; and I. Mizune, K. Ohno and M. Harada.

They left for New Orleans by Missouri Pacific Lines, and also plan to visit Washington and New York.

One of the group said they were going to New York to see the World's Fair.

Allies Branch Out In U. S. Purchases

NEW YORK — (AP) — Allied war purchasers, who have heretofore concentrated mostly in aircraft and tools, now are tapping United States industry for an assortment of other weapons and materials.

Wall Street sources said Saturday. British and French agents suddenly appeared to have widened their range of orders and inquiries to speed equipment plans and replace losses. Total orders placed since September, are estimated at $1,300,000,000 now, and the figure is expected to grow rapidly.

Reserves Called

Rumanian Army Still Being Enlarged

BUCHAREST — (AP) — Rumania, with more than 1,500,000 men already under arms in the greatest peacetime mobilization in her history, called up five more classes of reserves Saturday in a preparedness measure reported to be connected with Italy's possible entry into the European war.

Although Rumanian dispatches placed the number already under arms at more than 1,500,000, tabulations of previous calls indicated it was probably nearer 2,000,000.

NAZIS CLAIM FRENCH FALL AT MAIN LINE

Weygand Line Gives At German Will

BERLIN NOT HIT

French Claim Of Air Raid Denied

BERLIN, —(AP)— German military sources declared Saturday night the Nazi steamroller is breaking the Weygand line at will and pushing down the path to Paris just as planned.

Three confident sentences made up the high command communique which for the fourth day of the north France drive reported steady advances without disclosing any details.

But those at home were advised not to fear that this meant a bogdown of the drive by veteran troops and fresh divisions. Instead military sources said, the march to the heart of France continues each day ahead of the peace first set by the high command.

Berlin Not Bombed?

An authorized spokesman called "absolutely" untrue a French announcement that naval bombers dumped explosives onto factory districts in the Berlin suburbs Friday night.

"We have been out with spyglasses looking for damage," the spokesman said. "There have been no air-raid alarms in Berlin and no rumors of such a bombing."

Meanwhile, gains were claimed for four big thrusts, steel shod and supported by plunging stukas.

Objectives Are Listed

Hitler's own newspaper, Volkischer Beobachter, lister the drives and their objectives as:

Southwest from Abbeville over the Bresle river toward Le Havre, extending Germany's grip on the northwestern coast of Europe from the Arctic Circle in Norway to south of the mouth of the Somme.

South from Amiens; south from Perrone and south from Oise-Aisne canal—to merge into one smashing punch at Paris.

"Operations south of the Somme and the Oise-Aisne canal are progressing successfully," the German communique said, "and the enemy

Germans Hurl Million Men Into Paris Drive

PARIS—(AP)—The French were falling back Saturday night along nearly 60 miles of the front, but still fighting against the German offensive on Paris—facing the strongest attack of the war and the most massive mechanized onslaught in military history.

The Germans threw 60 infantry divisions and seven armored divisions — more than 1,000,000 men and 3,500 tanks—into the assault south of the Somme.

This mighty push reached its peak in the center of the front, where reserves were brought up in the Oise valleythe route to Paris—and hurled into the battle in the region of Roye and Noyon, in an area 48 miles north of this capital.

In this sector alone the Germans were estimated to have used half a million men. Starting at dawn, after dive bombers, artillery and tanks had opened the way, the Nazi infantry charged, each man holding the shoulder of the men before him.

North of the capital the French withdrew for the second successive day. The general fall-back was called a "retirement maneuver," and a military spokesman declared the main line remained unbroken.

The Nazis also struck a tremendous blow on the French right (east) flank and succeeded in establishing a foothold on the south bank of the Aisne River. In that sector the French were counter-attacking bitterly.

German pressure diminished Saturday might on the extreme left (west) flank, where the Bresle Rvier blocked their infantry. A tank column of 200 to 300 which penetrated south to Forges-Les-Eaux was reported being pounded to bits by French artillery and cannon-firing planes.

The battle raged with varying intensity all along the new, shortened 110-mile front from the sea to the Aisne.

Military authorities not given to exaggeration called the battle frankly "the greatest of all time." The number of tanks used almost doubled those employed in the battle of the Meuse, when the Germans broke through to the sea.

On the central sector of the front—running nearly 60 miles from Aumale on the Bresle to Noyon on the Oise —The Nazis sent wave after wave of machines and men smashing against the French lines.

German losses were reported by the French high command to be "enormous" but—still they came.

The French clung to the support points of the Weygand line on the rolling hills and in the scattered woods of the battlefield, pouring fire into the tanks with their artillery.

The advance guards had fallen back Friday under General Maxime Weygand's orders and the movement continued Saturday night after French frontline positions had been swamped under the attack waves.

But still ahead of the Germans stretching a field of barriers all the way to Paris.

In his night communique, General Weygand singled out two artillery units for special praise for the destruction they wrought among German panzer units.

"The artillery group of Commandant Pouyat destroyed 38 German tanks," he said. "One battery of this group commanded by Captain Vandelle destroyed alone 19.

"Another artillery group commanded by Commandant Gunen, attacked at a distance of 100 meters by tanks, destroyed 17."

The Allied air forces, outnumbered since the start of the campaign, stayed in the battle with one squadron of more than 150 bombers protected by both British and French pursuit planes and raining explosives on the German lines.

Some planes swooped down to an altitude of only 50 feet to bomb and machine-gun enemy tanks and troops.

An air ministry communique announced German pontoon bridges over the Somme were destroyed Friday night and that Reichswehr reinforcements were dispersed.

One pursuit squadron was reported to have attacked a German tank park and to have destroyed a "considerable number" of machines.

The Germans moved in two vast thrusts: from south of Roye in the Oise Valley in the center, and to Forges-Les-Eaux on the west flank.

While the front thus erupted with new week-end violence, the French replied with bombs to the Nazi raid of last Monday which killed and wounded about 1,000 Parisians.

Without giving details, the Admiralty announced that a squadron of naval planes had raided factories in the outskirts of Berlin Friday night, and had returned without losing a ship. Speculation arose that some of the raiders might have been American-made, but the admiralty spokesman said he thought not.

The supreme effort of the Germans had created this general change in the front:

It had fallen back from the Somme to the Bresle in the west, from Ham to the region of Noyon in the center and from the Ailette to the Aisne in the east.

British Armed Merchant Ship Sunk By Nazi Sub

Popular Cruise Liner Lost In Attack By U-Boat; Many Rescued From Vessel

LONDON—(AP)—The sinking of the armed merchant cruiser Carinthia—a 20,277-ton former Cunard-White Star liner popular with Americans as a world cruise ship before the war—was announced Saturday night by the admiralty.

It was the largest merchant ship yet sunk by enemy action since the war started.

Two officers and two seamen had been killed when the ship, one of 50 merchant cruisers in the British fleet, was torpedoed by a U-boat. Other officers and the crew were saved. In peacetime the crew was 405.

More than 200 of the crew were landed at a British port by a warship Saturday night. Another 100 were expected on a second rescue ship. The crew said the Carinthia remained afloat for some time after being torpedoed but that two warships failed in an attempt to tow her to port.

Location Not Revealed

The admiralty did not say where the Carinthia had been attacked.

The Germans, however, a few hours before, announced a 14,000-ton auxiliary cruiser had been sunk off the northwest coast of Ireland.

The Carinthia was the second British armed merchant cruiser sunk since the war started. The Rawalpindi, 16,697 tons, was lost last November 23 with 280 of her personnel.

Allies Grow Stronger

Earlier an official admiralty statement had obsreved that "the balance of naval strength in favor of the Allies is now far greater than at the outbreak of the war."

Refugees Due

American Liners To Dock Today

NEW YORK. —(AP)— Two American liners neared New York Saturday night with 2,634 humans aboard driven by the terrors of modern war from their European abodes to the safety of the United States.

The President Roosevelt was scheeduled to dock at 7 P. M. Sunday with 720 passengers, most of them Americans. They boarded the ship at Galway, Ireland.

The sleek Manhattan radioed she would dock at 2 p. m. (CST) Monday with 1,914 passengers from Italy, half of them aliens who booked passage before the state department ruled that American citizens must be given preference.

It was reported—without confirmation—that American naval vessels and planes would escort the Roosevelt into port.

FORD TO STUDY FAST PLANE FOR PRODUCTION

Many Arms Are Available For Sale To Allies If Needed, FDR States

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The army put one of its fastest pursuit planes at Henry Ford's disposal Saturday to let him determine whether his mass production genius can get aerial fighters rolling off assembly lines at the amazing rate of 1,000 a day.

The sudden completion of arrangements to have the pursuit ship delivered to Ford engineers in Detroit Monday momentarily distracted defense program attention from the sharp cleavage of congressional opinion on President Roosevelt's applause for a newspaper editorial urging compulsory military training for the nation.

The unofficial debate on compulsory training, however, was off to a heated start, and there were indications of additional legislative dissension over administration plans which would, in effect, make a large amount of World War equipment available for Allied purchase by turning it back to the manufacturers.

Roosevelt told his press conference Friday that the arms and munitions stores were deteriorating but that they still had an immediate value. Unofficial military estimates were that enough rifles to supply an army of almost 2,000,000 might be turned in.

Ford Requests Plane

The announcement that a pursuit plane would be sent to Detroit was made by the War Department Friday night. Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson said that Henry Ford had telegraphed a request to see the ship "as soon as possible."

Ford asserted two weeks ago that, given certain conditions, his plants in six months time could turn out 1,000 standard-type planes daily. The statement immediately aroused interest both here and in London, and there was evidence that Britain, anxious to bolster her air force, intended to explore the possibility.

Conditions Set Out

Ford stipulated these conditions: That his company be left to its own supervision; that there be no "meddling by government agencies," and that he have the counsel of such aviation authorities as Charles A. Lindbergh and Edward Rickenbacker.

During the World War Ford turned his great industrial plants to the mass production of munitions, whippet tanks, ambulances and submarine chasers.

The question of compulsory military training was injected into the complicated defense picture Friday at the President's press conference, when Roosevelt was asked to comment on a New York Times editorial.

Many Arms Available

He replied that he had read only the first paragraph and liked it very much. The paragraph called for immediate adoption of a national system of compulsory military training.

Reported available for sale are 500 75-milimeter field guns, 600,000 Lee Enfield rifles, 70,000 machine guns, 100 six-inch guns, 250 eight-inch Howitzers, 25 siege guns and 200 Stokes mortars, with large quantities of ammunition.

One member of the House military affairs committee has estimated that 350,000 of the new Garand semi-automatic rifles being manufactured for the United States would equip an army of 1,000,000 men.

Responsible officials indicated, also, that the administration intended releasing more than 500 planes for re-sale by manufacturers to the Allies—for which trade-in authority already exists.

While indirectly opening the warehouses to the Allies, the government looked to the United States' own defenses:

Arms arsenals, it was disclosed, have been ordered to begin 24-hour operations wherever practicable.

Nazi U-Boat Leaves Men In Sea

LONDON, —(AP)— The British navy press section declared Saturday that a U-boat commander and his crew after torpedoing a British merchant vessel May 27 watched the crew of 36 struggling in the water for half an hour before leaving the helpless seamen to their fate.

The press statement said that all but five perished before a neutral steamer arrived. It described the treatment of the men as "one of the foulest acts ever perpetrated by a U-boat commander and his crew."

The statement said the ship sank in two minutes, leaving no time to get the boats clear. The statement did not identify the merchantman.

The statement added that the German U-boat commander drove his craft among the men struggling in the water "to ask survivors the name of their ship and to give members of his crew an opportunity to take photographs of his unfortunate victims.

"And while they did so, the U-boat commander stationed two men with boat hooks to fend off and jab at the wrecked men who tried to clamber on board, thinking the U-boat had come to pick them up.

"For about half an hour this went on. Then it seemed the Germans were sated with their bestial gloating. The submarine steamed away, leaving helpless British seamen to their fate in the rough sea."

Twenty-four hours later, the statement said, a neutral steamer picked up five men. The other 31 perished.

DEALERS LAUD AUCTION PLAN

Merchandise Is Put On Display Here

HARLINGEN—Merchandise valued at some $700 will be on display at the vacant store building at 212 West Jackson here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday preceding the first of three public auctions to be held as trade boosters during Auction Dollar Month, Chairman Jack King said Saturday.

King said the first auction will be held Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. in the downtown section. Another auction will be held June 19, and the final grand auction June 28. He urged local buyers to inspect the merchandise to be auctioned.

Virtually all Harlingen merchants have entered the plan of giving away with merchandise sold an equal amount of Auction Dollars, which buyers will use to bid with on Wednesday. Merchants said Saturday the plan had caught on and the fake money was going in large amounts, and they foresaw spirited bidding for the high quality merchandise.

King suggested buyers come in prior to the auction and exchange small amounts of the Auction Dollars for larger denominations, to speed bidding on Wednesday.

ITALIANS' WAR MOVE EXPECTED

ica was placed on a basis of one round trip each month instead of each week.

Italians took great notice of what newspapers described as "the growing agitation for American intervention" in the war. But Fascists in government circles as well as newspapers continued to scout the idea that the United States would be able to give Britain and France effective aid in time.

Editorial Is Explained

Il Giornale D'Italia sought to explain the declaration of its editor that United States entry into the war would give European powers the right to intervene in American affairs.

The newspaper declared the article was not a "provocation or threat" toward the United States, explaining it meant to say that American intervention in Europe would "create a precedent which would justify the turning of European powers against America either at the present or in possible future conflict."

A Fascist in position to express the government's view volunteered belief that the Germans would crack the Weygand line in France within a few days and then would be ready to attack London.

After the European continent came under the control of Germany and Italy, he said, there would be no place for American troops to land.

In the midst of the war talk, Vatican authorities said Vatican City would be closed to the public as a precaution except for Pope Pius' Wednesday audience.

is being thrown back south of the lower Somme."

To Blockade Britain

A German radio review of the week's fighting commented that Britain "will soon get to feel" the results of German control of the coast.

"The blockade Britain wished on Germany turns the other way," the German announcer said. "Britain's eastern ports, especially the important Thames Estuary, and some of the southern ports will soon be blocked for all trade."

It was indicated this would be accomplished by submarines, wave-skimming torpedo launches and bombers based close to the English Channel.

success in the air: an attack on German troop concentrations at Abbeville throughout Friday and Friday night and on "military objectives" in northwest Germany.

The air ministry communique said the Roy ' Air Force destroyed 17 German planes Friday while 13 British planes were missing.

Railhead Is Bombed

"Much damage was caused to the railhead at Hirson where woods were set on fire and many explosions caused," the communique said. "Here troop concentrations were machine gunned. At Abbeyville many explosions and fires were caused and extensive damage was done to the airdrome."

Reports of Saturday's operations, it added, indicate "that our medium bombers inflicted heavy damage on the enemy's motorized forces."

The statement on Allies' naval strength said that the navy had been increased since the beginning of the war by the addition of more than 50 armed merchant cruisers and more than 1,500 minor war vessels and auxiliary craft "of which 58 have been lost."

French Navy Powerful

"The French navy is a very powerful and rapidly growing force," the statement said.

"The Allied fleets have been reinforced by active cooperation of Polish, Norwegian and Dutch naval forces.

"During the next few months the royal navy will receive a further large increase in strength comprising every category of warship from battleships to motor torpedoboats and a very large number of auxiliary craft."

The following losses were listed:

One of 15 capital ships; one of seven aircraft carriers; two of 62 cruisers; 20 of 185 destroyers; eight of 58 submarines; six of 108 mine sweepers, sloops, patrol vessels and gunboats.

Nearly 1,000,000 tons of warships are being built in British shipyards, the statement said.

Senators May Defer Wagner Bill Action

WASHINGTON— (AP) —Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate labor committee, said Saturday it would be "virtually impossible" for the Senate to act on House-approved amendments to the Wagner labor relations act if Congress adjourns on June 22 as leaders have planned.

Thomas said he would call the committee into session next week to consider the amendments which would abolish the present three-member board and create a new three-man agency. The legislation also would separate the administrative and prosecution activities of the agency.

House Approves Bill To Tax Low Incomes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House ways and means committee approved Saturday a $1,004,000,000 defense tax bill, boosting individual, corporation and excise taxes and increasing the number of small income tax payers by more than 2,000,000.

At the same time, the committee ordered studies with a view to legislation at the next session of Congress imposing an excess profits tax to prevent "new war millionaires" and also to provide special amortization for national defense industries.

FRENCH ARMY DEFEAT WILL SHOW REASON

If Paris Falls, FD To Ask Billion

WASHINGTON. —(AP)— Reports circulated in informed quarters at the capitol Saturday that an additional $1,000,000,000 appropriation for the army would be asked if the Germans should break through to Paris before adjournment of congress.

Representative Snyder (D-PA), the chairman of the House military appropriations sub-committee, said he thought an additional appropriation would be advisable if the French army should collapse.

Snyder said that on the basis of Hitler's past performances in Poland, Norway, Holland and Belgium, it was felt that if he conquers France, the next objective would be England.

Brazil Next Step

"Then the next step would be toward Brazil, Snyder said.

"Therefore, if we are thinking in terms of western hemisphere defense, we will have to have an additional $1,000,000,000 as soon as it appears the drive toward Paris might succeed.

President Roosevelt already has requested approximately $4,000,000,000 in defense outlays at this session. At the White House, it was emphasized that no request for additional funds was in prospect at present.

Developments Listed

Stephen Early, press secretary, said in a statement that "the President will not at this time ask the congress for additional funds in any amount for the furtherance of the national defense program."

Defense preparations proceeded apace. Developments included:

(1) Approximately 100 heavily-armed attack planes, especially designed to harass enemy troops from low altitudes, were earmarked by the War Department for possible fighting in France, under the administration's "trade in" arrangement for army and navy planes.

The craft are Northrop single-motor attack planes, which the Army Air Corps relegated to non-combatant utility roles last year primarily because of their limited range of action. They will be turned back to the manufacturer who, in turn, will be free to sell them to the Allies.

Tax Bill Discussed

Airmen said the planes were well adapted to the relatively short distances in Europe and expressed confidence they were at least the equal of similar craft employed by the Nazis to "strafe" the Allies in Flanders.

(2) The House ways and means committee, seeking to speed final legislative action on the billion-dollar rearmament tax bill, met in an extraordinary all-day Saturday session to consider the measure drafted by a sub-committee. During a brief recess, members said they had made no change as yet in the bill which would increase personal and corporate income taxes, and most excise taxes. It is designed to raise $1,006,000,000 a year additional revenue.

(3) Plans for extending federal loans to industry for plant expansion under the national defense program were discussed by President Roosevelt and Jesse H. Jones, federal loan administrator.

After the White House conference Jones said that many inquiries and requests for loans had been received, but none had actually been granted so far. All applications are being routed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

(4) The United States Chamber of Commerce said in a statement that the administration's defense program was "well within the capacity of the country without any material interference with normal operations."

The program, the statement said, would bring into utilization capacity that has been idle.

Communications Forbidden

(5) The Federal Communications Commission called attention of ship operators to the fact that the communication act forbids "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" between ship radio stations and other ships or shore stations. It said any violations would be "vigorously prosecuted." The commission already had forbidden amateur radio operators to communicate with foreign countries, and had prohibited amateur use of mobile transmitters capable of sending long distances.

(6) In a statement, General John J. Pershing, who commanded American forces in the World War, urged that the United States send the Allies unlimited quantities of airplanes and arms. He also appealed for contributions to the Red Cross.

(7) Republican Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, said in a radio address that elimination of politics in defense matters should be "the resolute purpose of both parties." Republicans in congress, he declared, "can be depended upon to give solid support to all real defense measures."

Martin said, however, that the Republicans "naturally resent efforts to make national defense measures vehicles for granting dictatorial powers to the executive," and wanted defense appropriations "honestly and prudently spent."

American Bombers Here And In France

FARM PARITY PAYING RULE IS CLARIFIED

Producers Told To Observe Law

EDINBURG—Clarification of regulations under the federal agricultural conservation program and parity payment program was offered Saturday by P. T. Moore, Hidalgo county AAA official. He issued the following statement:

"Any change in the relationship between the landlord and the tenants or sharecroppers, with respect to any farm, that would increase over the previous year, the amount of payments that would otherwise be made to any landlord shall not operate to increase such payments to such landlord.

Limitations Not Apply

"Any reduction in the number of tenants below the average number of tenants on any farm during the preceding three years that would increase the payments that would otherwise be made to the landlord shall not hereafter operate to increase any such payment to such landlord.

"Such limitations shall not apply if on investigation the local committee finds that the change is justified and approves such change in relationship or reduction. Such action of local committees shall be subject to approval or disapproval by state committees.

Explanation Given

"If a tenant in settling his obligations under a rental contract or agreement, or an agreement supplemental or collateral thereto, pays or renders cash, standing rent, or fixed rent, or a share of the crops, or any service or thing of value, aggregation in value in excess of the rental customarily paid in the community for similar land and use, thereby diverting to the landlord the whole or any part of any payment which the tenant is entitled to receive, there shall be withheld from or required to be refunded by the tenant the whole of any payment with respect to the farm made, or to be made, to him under an agricultural conservation program or a parity program for 1940 or any subsequent year, and there shall be withheld from or required to be refunded by the landlord the whole of the payment with respect to all of his farms under the program involved; provided, however, that where the tenant is renting for a share of the crops only and the tenant's is 60 per cent or less, only the landlord's payments shall be os withheld or recovered."

Nazi Dive Bombers Attack Huge Tanks

BERLIN —(AP)— German dive bombers attacked and destroyed four 32 ton enemy tanks at one point in the German drive on Paris, it was announced officially Saturday.

The bombers are assisting land troops in many instances, it was said.

The White House was first occupied by President John Adams.

Flag's Designer Wanted Wine For His Just Reward

AP Feature Service

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—The designer of the American flag, which will be 163 years old Friday, wanted "a quarter-cask of the public wine" as his reward.

Betsy Ross may have made the first American flag—there is some dispute about that—but the designer, says Capt. Byron McCandless, U.S.N., was Francis Hopkinson, a song writer and a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

Government Pay

Captain McCandless, who has been studying flag lore for a quarter of a century, says Hopkinson

The Original Cambridge Flag

wrote the Board of Admiralty in 1779 about his design and added: "I now submit it to your honours' consideration whether a quarter-cask of the public wine will not be a proper and reasonable reward for these labours of fancy..."

Hopkinson was told, Captain McCandless' researches show, to submit a bill instead. He did, for $2,700, and was rather bluntly informed that anyone already drawing a good government salary should not expect additional fees.

Hopkinson's original design, drawn in 1775, had the British Union Jack in the corner. It often is called the Cambridge flag, since Washington first raised it above his troops at Cambridge.

Change In Order

On June 14, 1777, after the colonies had declared their freedom, Congress replaced the Union Jack with "stars, white on a blue field, representing a constellation."

McCandless believes Hopkinson created the new design, too.

McCandless' researches show that Margaret Manny made the original Cambridge flag.

But Betsy Ross, whose father helped build Independence Hall, got the new government's contract to make insignia. The concession was carried on by her daughter, Mrs. Clarissa Wilson, until 1857.

Texas May Get Air Training Centers

SAN ANTONIO—(AP)—Air corps training center officials of Randolph Field, headed by Col. A. W. Robins, the commandant, will leave Sunday by plane for Washington to confer with Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Corps, regarding approval of sites for nine extra civilian elementary flying schools and for a sub-base of Kelly Field and a specialized training school to be established under the War Department's expanded training program.

The officials Saturday were making a study of the sites selected by the operators of the nine elementary schools, and of the sites surveyed, in Texas, for the sub-base of Kelly Field, where advanced pilot training will be given, and for the specialized training school to instruct bombardiers and navigators, the latter school to offer a new phase of training not heretofore given.

Air corps training center officials recently conducted survey flights over different sections of Texas in an effort to locate sites for the Kelly field sub-base and the specialized school.

They surveyed a triangular area bounded by Abilene, Midland and San Angelo, another area around Dallas and Fort Worth, and a triangular area bounded by Houston, Galveston and Beaumont. Several sites in each area were inspected.

The training center officials will prepare their recommendations regarding the Texas sites surveyed to General Arnold. They will give their first, second and third choices, but final approval will be made by General Arnold.

Authorities said that the specialized school probably would be located in the Galveston-Beaumont-Houston are and the Kelly Field sub-base in one of the two other areas surveyed.

DALLAS COUNTY MAY GET ONE AIR CENTER

DALLAS—(AP)—The Dallas News says a training base for the United States Army Air Corps may be located in Dallas county if army officers approve one of several sites inspected Saturday.

A survey board sent out by Col. A. W. Robins, air corps training center commander at Randolph Field, spent most of the day viewing sites in the eastern and northern part of the county. A definite decision is expected on the location in a few days.

A tract of 1,200 acres, with a railroad siding, and with public utility services available within reasonable distances, is wanted by the army. Two sites, one near Mesquite, were reported to have impressed the board of flying officers favorably.

Interpreting The War News

New War Lessons

French Defensive Battle Is Teaching All Army Leaders Something To Know

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

France is doing more than fight a desperate battle for her own life and the Allied cause. She is teaching the world new precepts of defensive war.

That French stand, whether it saves France or not, has already riveted the attention of arming America. In contrast to the fundamental German conception of blasting efficiency in attack, France, in her extremity, has fashioned a defensive technique that has wrung words of admiration even from her foe.

In the eyes of military experts, the battle of the Weygand lines must necessarily outweigh in significance all that preceded it as the Nazi war machine rolled swift... on its triumphant way.

Whatever the weapons on which America relies, they will be for defense. That is a definitely limiting factor. It is one thing, as the war in Europe has grimly proved to map and implement a strategy of attack and achieve the vitally essentiol element of surprise. It is quite another to concede the initiative in advance to a foe.

U. S. Won't Attack

Yet that is the heavy responsibility imposed upon American national defense planners, with the whole western hemisphere to guard. It springs from a fundamental national philosophy which no administration in Washington would dare ignore.

Any American president who moved to attack another nation, even if he acted under the conviction that an attack was immediately impending by that nation upon the United States or upon some Pan-American neighbor, would certainly risk impeachment.

That removes for America the possibility of resort to undeclared war to create opportunity for surprise attack. It also circumscribes the making of national defense policy, and imposes limitations on the organization, training and disposition of the army, navy and airforce.

New Lessons Learned

American rearmament is keyed necessarily to lessons already revealed in the European conflict. German blitzkrieg technique has accented tremendously the vital importance of a huge expansion of air power and the industry to produce and maintain it. Success of Nazi "panzer" armored legions has virtually scrapped all previous theories of how to deal with that menace.

In the Weygand web battle, however, there are looming the elements of new lessons for military experts, lessons certain to be reflected sharply in the American defense set up. Even if that web fails to save France, it has already taught the world much both as to the strength and weakness of tanks and dive bomber attack. These lessons undoubtedly will be visible in construction of new American mechanized units and in the equipment and training the army to meet a tank and air onslaught.

TAKE MEXICO SOLON URGES

Senator Thomas Sees Dangers There

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Senator Thomas (D-Okla) declared Saturday that if Germany forces the British government to flee to Canada and "war comes to the western hemisphere, the United States should take over Mexico and possibly Panama for self protection."

THOMAS

The German army, said Thomas in an interview, would move on the United States from the south if it attacked this nation.

He said Mexico is "a potential menace because it already is German in all but name."

Meanwhile, Thomas said, orders have been placed for airplanes and the nation's plants are turning out new craft at maximum speed.

"We have on order now all the planes the factories can make, make. They are being turned out at the rate of 350 a month. By September, the rate will be 800, by December, 1,200."

Opinion Held Back

In reply to questions concerning the present status of the nation's armed forces, Thomas said "public opinion, heavily pacifistic, would not have permitted military expansion before the invasion of the lowlands.

"It took the invasion to wake us up," he continued. "We're doing all we can to speed up production. Congress is giving the administrational all the money it wants—and it can only spend so fast."

Give F. D. More Power

"If we're going to meet the authorization power halfway," the senior Oklahoma senator continued, "we have got to prepare to act on the same basis as they act. We're going to give the president more power.

"Whatever he asks for, Congress will give him.

"We're doing the same thing now as if we had declared war, but not with the idea that we're going to get into the war.

"It is to prevent that."

The McAllen directors are expected to act upon the resolution at their next regular meeting.

AIRPORT SITE IS PURCHASED AT EDINBURG

51-Acre Tract Starts Development

EDINBURG — Land which may soon become an airport near Edinburg has been purchased and deeded to the city under a trust agreement, Mayor A. A. Aldrich announced Saturday.

The acreage is in two tracts totalling about 51 acres. It is located east of the city.

Aldrich and Harry Wilcox, county engineer, purchased the land recently and signed a deed of trust conveying it to the city under a transaction whereby the city may exeroise an option within five years' time and purchase the tract at a price of $5,000.

More Acreage Available

Additional acreage is available to the 51-acre site for possible expansions into a larger field, although money is not now available for its purchase, Mayor Aldrich explained.

The 51-acre section is intended principally to give the city the nucleus of a flying field, which can be developed from time to time and which in its primary stages can be utilized for the Civil Aeronautics Authority's current student and civilian pilot-training program. A number of Edinburg junior college students last year participated in such work, although all their training had to take place at the McAllen airport. The CAA program is continuing here this summer.

Hangar Franchise Seen

Almost all other cities of any size in the Valley now have air fields, Aldrich said, and demands for such facilities in Edinburg have been heard from time to time.

Already one Harlingen aviation man has conferred with city officials on a franchise to construct a hangar at the field and to install facilities for servicing local planes.

Flood Waters Again Hit Nebraska Town

District Attorney Is Citing Record

HARLINGEN—District Attorney Joe P. Hatchitt announced Saturday that in asking the voters to return him to office for another term he would stand on his record in office and on his program of law enforcement and prosecution of law violators.

"I would like to thank those who elected me before and ask that all voters examine my record," Hatchitt said, "and satisfy themselves that I have fulfilled all campaign promises in trying to enforce the law in a common sense manner."

Against Racketeering

He added: "I have maintained firm stand against all racketeering in belief such is costly to communities and leads to graft and corruption of law enforcement agencies.

"I have co-operated with local officers and municipal authorities and all agencies connected with law enforcement. My assistant, Arthur Klein of Harlingen, and I have made ourselves available at all times to assist enforcement officers. My re-election will mean continuation of this policy which I believe is one calculated to reduce crime."

Economy Is Cited

Hatchitt pointed to his vigorous endeavors to prosecute worthless check writers, which has resulted in savings to and protection for farmers and business men over the district. His policy of economy without loss of efficiency, in preparation of cases, was also brought out by Hatchitt. He said:

"Those interested will find by investigation that my office has thoroughly investigated every case brought to its attention, but has not put the state to expense of trial where there was no hope of conviction."

TOMATO PRICES DROP LOWER IN THIS AREA

ARLINGEN — Tomatoes were bringing growers only about $1.00 to $1.25 per hundred pounds, field run, Saturday, shippers said, as the East Texas area outshipped the Valley.

The Valley loaded 84 cars Friday, Yoakum 12 and East Texas 91, making a total of 187 from Texas loaded Friday and forwarded Saturday, according to the final report of the season issued by the Texas-Federal market news service at Weslaco.

Florida shipped a total of 75 cars Saturday, California 14, Georgia seven, Louisiana four and South Carolina two. It is seldom that so many areas are shipping tomatoes at the same time.

The day's total of 289 cars compared to 338 as of the same date last season while track holdings were down to 356 cars.

A number of Valley tomato shippers who habitually follow the deal as the season progresses, have already gone to Jacksonville, Texas. It is there that R. E. Winfrey, local representative of the market news service in Weslaco, went from the Valley.

Oil Interest Centers On Four Important Wildcat Holes For Valley

Two Wells Testing In 8,000 Foot Depth

McALLEN—Wildcat oil interest was centered Saturday on four important tests in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where a total of 10 holes are now drilling ahead or making production tests. Two of the wells are testing in sands below 8,000 feet. Hidalgo, Cameron and Starr Counties were the main scenes of operations.

In Cameron County, testing of a sand at 8,500 feet continued at the important Pure Oil Company's No. 1 Garcia Land and Cattle Company, six miles south of Port Isabel. The test has 9 5-8 inch o.d. cashing cemented at 8,126 feet, and below this a 500-foot section of liner has been cemente dto past 8,600 feet for the 8,500-foot sand tests. No reports from the production or drill stem tests are available.

In central Hidalgo county, The Gulf States Oil Company's No. 2 J. Cardenas, Share 156, San Salvador del Tule Grant, is still testing in sands at 7,315-20 feet and 7,322-30 feet, where on 1-4 inch chokes gas and distillate shows have been reported under pressures of 2,600 pounds (working) and 3,150 pounds (closed-in). The wildcat has also tested gas and distillate in sand at 8,174-82 feet under pressures of 3,600 pounds (closed-in)

Testing For Production

In Starr County, the Sun Oil Company's No. 1 W. G. Lehr, Survey 513, several miles west and slightly north of the Sun field, is still testing for production in sand at 4,127-37 feet, where original perforations were squeezed. The flow has showed some oil thus far but tests will continue for several days.

The Sun's No. 1 Claude King, Survey 511, one and one-half miles south of the Lehr wildcat, is coring at 3,900 feet but has reported no shows.

North of the Zimm field in Starr county, the Denzil Oil Company's No. 1 Margaret Seabury, Share 46, Porcion 60, Camargo Jurisdiction, is still testing for production as a pumper or jetted well in sand at 1,341-46 feet and is showing for oil.

The Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 3 Guerra estate, Share 25-B, Santa Cruz Grant, in northeastern Starr, is reported drilling ahead at 6,300 feet.

No Locations Staked

No new locations have yet been staked for the new wildcat area opened last week by the George R. Boyle et al No. 1 E. B. Carruth et al, which was completed for more than 100 barrels per day (45 gravity crude) in sand at 3,491-97 feet on location five miles southeast of the deep Barbacoas field. About 2,000 acres are under lease on all sides of the producer. A tentative location on the 20 acers immediately west of discovery has not been confirmed.

T. E. Stephens et al's No. 1 H. P. Guerra, Tract 269, Porcion 69, is coring for sand at 2,224 feet in westermn Starr county.

The Homer P. Lee No. 2-A Yturria Town and Improvement Company, Porcion 42, Reynosa Jurisdicion, western Hidalgo County, is drilling at 2,750 feet.

Brooks County's new 10,000-foot wildcat test, the West Production Co.'s No. 1 J. D. Cage, Section 31, G. C. and S. F. Survey, seven miles south of Falfurrias, is rigging up.

SIX NEW PRODUCERS SEEN NEAR IN VALLEY FIELDS

McALLEN — Six new producers will be added soon in two fields in the Rio Grande Valley, where operations continued Saturday to be highlighted by an exceptionally heavy drilling program in the Rincon deep field of Starr County.

Four tests are on the sand in that field, with one completed the past week, and two new oilers are scheduled for the Colorado field of Jim Hogg County.

At Rincon, the W. R. Davis Company's Inc.'s No. B-25 T. B. Slick estate, Survey 268, on the west edge of the field, flowed 290 barrels of oil per day on quarter-inch tubing choke in sand at 4,197-4,212 feet. Pressures were 390 pounds, working on tubing and 925 pounds on casing, closed-in.

The Davis No. A-8 Slick, Survey 231, on the north edge of production, is testing for production in sand at 4,111-27 feet.

Field Sand Is Cored

The Davis No. A-9 Slick, Survey 231, 660 feet north of present production limits in the field, has cored the field sand at 4,082-97 feet and has cemented 7-inch o.d. casing at total depth of 4,259 feet.

The Davis No. A-10 Slick, Survey 231, also on the north edge, is coring for the sand at 4,060 feet.

The Davis No. B-27 Slick, Survey 266, on the west side of the field, is testing for production through perforations (50 shots) at 4,070-91 feet.

The Davis No. A-2 F. (Dee) Davenport, Survey 944, on the southwest edge of production, is testing for production through perforations (40 shots) in sand at 4,070-91 feet.

The Davis No. A-11 Slick, Survey 231, on the north edge, is preparing to drill out plugs in surface casing at 320 feet.

Six Locations Staked

Six new locations have been staked for the field, some of which will be spudded during the coming week. They are the Davis No. 3-A F. (Dee) Davenport, Survey 944, 660 feet north of the No. A-2 Davenport; the Davis No. 31-B Slick, 660 feet north of the No. 27-B in Survey 266; and the Davis No. 28-B Slick, No. 29-B Slick, and No. 30-B Slick, all in Survey 266 on the west edge of production.

Two tests are on the sand in the Colorado field, southwestern Jim Hogg County.

The Sun No. 1 N. R. Thaxton, Survey 670, on the northeast edge of the field, cored the sand at 3,001-3,012 feet and has set 5½-inch o.d. casing on top of the sand.

Allred And Retinue Return To Houston

Short Session Of Court In Brownsville Closed; Several Are Sentenced

BROWNSVILLE — Judge James V. Allred and his retinue of court attaches have returned to Houston following a short session of federal district court in Brownsville where two murder trials were held and four AAA cotton cases disposed of.

Next term of federal court is in December but the grand jury is subject to call at any time.

At the short session just concluded Felipe Solis and Guillermo Venecia were acquitted of the murder of William Leslie Sills, U. S. border patrolman slain near La Grulla when federal officers approached a group smuggling goats across the Rio Grande. Evidence indicated that Moises Alvarado, also killed in the shooting, fired the shot which killed Sills. Two others indicted for the slaying are still at large. Solis and Venecia were convicted of smugging in connection with the same incident.

Emeterio Chasco Corona received a life sentence in the fatal shooting of J. T. Brown, U. S. customs patrolman, near Sebastian. Isidoro Cruz, indicted in the same incident, was freed on an instructed verdict.

Two San Benito gin men, Bryan W. Long and Lloyd F. (Jack) Elliott San Benito ginners, were fined $10,000 each on charges of having violated regulations under the cotton program of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1938. Judge Allred suspended $9,000 of each fine. W. R. Wardlow, cotton farmer, and William C. Nycum, gin bookkeeper, were fined $2,000 and $1,000 respectively and their fines suspended.

Chitwood Enrols At Annapolis

BROWNSVILLE—A former Valley youth, Walter N. Chitwood, Jr., enrolled recently at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis Md., through a competitive naval examination.

Young Chitwood, who enlisted in the navy at Harlingen in 1934, and attained the rank of yeoman, second class, won the academy appointment with a perfect score.

He is the brother of Mrs. R. D. Ross of Brownsville, and is a graduate of El Jardin school, and also attended St. Joseph's Academy. He played football at both schools.

His father was a former resident of the El Jardin community, and now lives in Roswell, N. M.

Chitwood was a crew member of the USS Augusta when it was bombed in Oriental waters a few years ago. He served for years on the USS Augusta in the Far East, and spent the other two years in Pacific, Gulf of Mexico and Atlantic waters.

EXTRA RADIO MESSAGES HIT

Stations Are Warned By Commission

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Federal Communications Commission issued Saturday what it described as "a sharp warning" against "superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" from ship radio stations to other ships or to shore stations.

Earlier this week, the commission issued orders forbidding the country's 55,000 amateur operators to communicate with foreign countries and prohibiting the use of mobile transmitter sets by amateur operators except for very short distances.

The order Saturday was directed to all ship radio operators and ship station licenses. The commission said 'superfluous, unnecessary or unidentified communications" would "not be tolerated" and violations would be "vigorously prosecuted."

Radio treaties to which this government is a party, as well as the federal communication act, the commission said, prohibit unnecessary or unidentified communications. It added that it would "hold ship station licensees, masters of ships and radio operators on board fully responsible for any violations."

El Jardin School Is Donated Books

BROWNSVILLE—Three valuable gifts of books and magazines have been received recently at El Jardin high school library, according to Superintendent R. Bruce Underwood.

Miss Marjorie Triplett, ex-student of the school, gave an extensive file of popular current picture magazines, and Mrs. W. S. Callaway donated several non-fiction books.

F. A. Durlacher, who had already donated many books to the school, gave a third collection of rare fiction volumes.

Labor Board Changes Seen Never To Reach Law Stage After Votes

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Despite 2-to-1 House approval, sweeping Wagner Act amendments around creation of a new Labor Relations Board were said by informed senators Saturday to be headed directly for a Senate committee pigeonhole.

Appealing for Senate action in the face of an adjournment drive, Representative Smith (D-Va), chairman of the NLRB investigating committee which drafted the original revisions, declared that the House vote Friday demonstrated the country's demand for immediate amendments "as an essential part of the defense program."

"Don't fool yourself," said Representative Hook (D-Mich), as House debate ended, "this bill will never be law."

Nevertheless, 116 Democrats and 142 Republicans voted for the Smith amendments; 13 Republicans, 113 Democrats and three others against.

Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the House labor committee, preferring less drastic amendments, bitterly assailed President William Green of the American Federation of Labor for endorsing the Smith proposals, with revisions which were made, after having said formerly that they would destroy the act.

The principal Smith amendment would abolish the present labor board and create a new three-man agency, but permit the president to reappoint the present members—Chairman J. Warren Madden, Edwin S. Smith, and William Leiserson.

Japanese Arriving In The Philippines

MANILA—(AP)—While the National Assembly was considering the immigration quota bill, 980 Japanese entered the Philippines in the first four months of this year, official figures disclosed Saturday.

The bill, vigorously protested by Tokyo, was passed April 12, but still awaits action by President Roosevelt. It slashes annual quotas from 1,000 to 500.

Mail Gets Through

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Kindness to dogs is reducing the bites inflicted on mail carriers, says Homer Hobbs, chairman of the mailmen's committee on the dog problem. So far this year when 15 mailmen have been bitten, far below the rate for previous years.

Hobbs said one carrier had made friends with a vicious dog by bringing it a bone. Investigation showed that the dog's aversion to mail carriers dated from the time a postman had sprayed it with an ammonia gun.

Minor Tragedy

CRESTLINE, O.—(AP)—A set of false teeth delayed a Big Four freight 15 minutes. Trainmen said the conductor lost the set while leaning over the caboose platform. He stopped the train for a futile search. A telegram operator found the teeth next day.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—(AP)—Mrs. Millie L. Gordon went to Kansas City recently and saw some hard boiled eggs on display.

That reminded her that she had forgotten to turn off the fire under eggs she had been

First Cargo Is Slated June 16

BROWNSVILLE—The first loading of crude oil at the Port of Brownsville is scheduled Sunday June 16, F. W. Hoimokel, port director, announced Saturday.

The black gold is to be loaded at the W. R. Davis and Company's new tank farm, and is being pumped here from the Rincon field.

Further Expansion

The vessel is to load between 70,000 and 100,000 barrels, presumably for a foreign port.

Meanwhile, further plans for expansion of the Davis and Company tank farm were being rushed to completion Saturday.

The tank farm, which already has three 55,000 barrel tanks, and one 85,000 barrel tank, is having foundations laid for two 80,000 barrel ones. The steel for the two additional tanks is due Monday.

Four 10,000 barrel tanks are also to be erected, and there is also the possibility of constructing two or three more 80,000 barrel ones.

Other Bookings

Joe Stead is head of the Davis and Company tank farm.

While foreign trade was in the offing, two coastwise vessels are due at the Port of Brownsville this week, the SS Henry R. Mallory of the Clyde Mallory Lines, on Sunday, and the SS Dorothy of the Bull Line on Wednesday.

The vessels are to load general cargo for Atlantic seaboard ports.

'Witnesses' Active In Brownsville

BROWNSVILLE—Members of a religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses were numerous in Brownsville Saturday distributing magazines and pamphlets.

It was the second consecutive Saturday the group has been active here.

Charged with refusing to salute the American flag, the religious sect has been the target of criticism, and in some instances of violence, in the Valley, state and nation recently.

Dewey Urges Arming For Americans Now

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—Saying that the task of strengthening America's defenses should not be "blindly" left to our "existing national bureaucracy," Thomas E. Dewey, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination urged Saturday that "we must see to it that America does not miss the bus."

In an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting of district young Republicans, Dewey said that "all of us must be ready to accept, as citizens, some of the responsibility to see that the job (of rearming America) is done."

Exchange To Start Paying Reserves On Fresh Fruit Assets During Week

Valley Citrus Unit Said In Best Shape That It Has Ever Been

HARLINGEN—The Rio Grande Valley Citrus Exchange will begin paying back reserves on its fresh fruit assets next week in the same way that some of the member associations have been paying back packing plant reserves, Manager R. B. McLeaish announced at the annual membership meeting of the Stuart Place Citrus Association Friday night. The exchange expects to begin paying back by-products plant reserves within a few seasons.

The reserves consist of money paid into a revolving fund returned to growers when a property is paid for.

McLeaish said that he announced to the La Feria association Thursday night that only 29,000 cases of grapefruit juice remained unsold, but that by time of the Stuart Place meeting only 25,000 cases were unsold. He predicted a good demand for juice from start of the next canning season.

Earl Pike, exchange auditor, told the Stuart Place members that the exchange was in the best condition that it has ever been. He said that the cost of producing and selling grapefruit juice will be 15 to 20 cents a case below last season in spite of a smaller volume.

Those who sponsored the minimum price agreement last fall thought it would hurt the exchange and when they found it was getting more than the minimum they promptly scuttled the program, William A. Brunton, sales manager, charged.

Brunton said many growers were stampeded into giving away their fruit at juice prices after the freeze and let someone else make the profit. With the co-operation of association managers and member growers, the exchange was able to hold back much fruit until the market rose, increasing the exchange average considerably.

Manager Sid Berly of the Adams Gardens property told how his organization netted more money by packing and marketing its fruit through the Stuart Place association and the exchange. "I am pleased with the returns this year and am definitely certain the set-up is right," he said. "It is not what a grower can get for a few boxes at a given time but the average he gets for all of his fruit," he added.

Harold F. Looney described the successful turn being taken by the dehydrated feed business with the production of a better dried citrus peel at less cost. The exchange sold all old stock on hand and its small production of 692 tons produced this season at a good price, he said.

Ben F. Barnes, exchange director, said "the exchange directors have dug in more than in any year before and we have seen results from it."

G. E. Vance pointed out the need for producing more fruit per tree as one way of increasing exchange tonnage. He said that it would be possible to increase production up to 30 per cent "by using all our resources and opportunities." He said Valley Production Credit Association loans were available at 4½ per cent interest to improve production and quality.

James Harter, auditor, and J. H. Welch, editor of Texas Citriculture, were among the speakers.

The association re-elected A. T. Potts, B. F. Barnes, V. Gustafson and W. E. Carey, directors whose terms expire. J. B. Challes, Joe L. Penry, Jr., and J. B. Chambers, Sr., are holdover directors. The board met immediately after the membership meeting and re-elected all the old officers including Potts, president; Penry, vice president; Challes, secretary-treasurer; and Ben F. Barnes, member of the executive committee.

CORRY TELLS OF PLATFORM

Truck Load Limit's Repeal Asked

DENTON—(AP)—William N. Corry, candidate for state commissioner of agriculture, laid down his 12 point platform program in an address here Saturday.

The former state representative of Keller, Tarrant county, advanced:

The immediate export of cotton under naval convoy; ad valorem taxes only on an equity owned in farm, ranch and homestead property; state assumption of the cost of soil conservation structures; full capacity production and drafting of a state-wide program to "double the annual farm income" in every community."

He also advocated repeal of the truck load limit on perishable produce and livestock; called for proper cooperation with all agricultural agencies, associations and organizations; pledged to stop the financial loss to farmers and the general public due to short weights and measures; and promised an impartial administration and a substantial reduction in departmental charges for inspections, tests, grading and license fees.

BASCOM GILES ASKS RETURN

Commissioner Points To Record

AUSTIN —(AP)— New land laws which he advocated, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles said in a radio address Saturday, had resulted in abolition of vacancy racketeering, clouding of land titles, gambling with school funds and possible favoritism in leasing state lands.

Giles, a candidate for re-election, asserted he had urged, in his previous campaign, creation of a three-man school land board, supplanting the commissioner alone, to administer important school land matters.

The new laws, he said, also had made it possible for occupants to establish priority rights for the purchase of vacancies found in their holdings and eliminated complex logarithmic bids for school and state acreage.

Fifteen hundred applications to purchase excess lands had been filed and the commissioner estimated the permanent school fund would be enriched by possibly $3,000,000 under the new procedure.

Giles said he mailed the first statements of delinquent land accounts in the history of the office and collected $125,000.

She had to raise her boy to be a soldier

In many lands today, mothers are forced to give up their children—even the youngest. Dictators demand them—and dictators are all-powerful. In peace as in war, they control business and industry, capital and labor, life itself. Men and women are told what work they must do. There is no prize for ambition, no hope for the man who would like to choose his own career.

How different it is in the United States! Here is a republic, governed under law by men responsible to the people. In this free nation, we choose our life-work for ourselves. This system of free enterprise, more than anything else, makes the United States the world's greatest nation. Because men are free to dream and work as they see fit, scores of industries have grown great in America: the automobile, radio, telephone and electrical industries are just a few.

As typical Americans, the employees of Central Power and Light Company are devoted to the American principle of working together, producing more of the good things of life and making them available to more people. Through their efforts electric service steadily improves; at the same time, its price steadily comes down.

What inspires the people of Central Power and Light Company? They are paid for what they do, of course. But the best answer is this: the employees of CPL are proud of their part in building a great territory, a great nation. They work as free men to bring better service and value to other free men. They are glad to create wealth in peace instead of destroying it in war.

CPL has been built by free Americans. It is built to serve other free Americans, its customers. It is free from political dictation. Like all industry, like the nation itself, it will succeed as long as there are free Americans to work for it and free Americans for it to work for.

HULL IS OUT OF POLITICS

Secretary Of State Not To Run

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has, on several occasions, disclaimed interest in the presidency, declared in a letter made public Saturday he considers himself "out of politics."

W. T. Kennerly, Knox county Democratic leader, wrote the secretary advising him the Knox county (Knoxville) Democratic convention had strongly endorsed him should President Roosevelt decline a third term.

Hull replied: "I can only repeat what I have said in all candor during the past twelve months, in letters and in the press, and that is that I am out of politics, that I have no aspirations in any sense for any office."

Clipper Plane Hits Bad Weather

NEW YORK—(AP)—Pan American Airways' Atlantic Clipper which took off for Europe Friday afternoon turned around when a third of the way across the Atlantic and landed back here early Saturday morning.

The line's tentative explanation was that the reversal apparently was due to bad weather.

The Clipper had 21 passengers, including Rear Admiral David Le Breton, who was going to take command of the U. S. naval squadron at Lisbon, Portugal; and General Stefano Cagne, director of civil aviation in Italy.

Florida Will Send Three Men To Area

HARLINGEN — Florida is planning to send a three-man committee to the Valley, California and Arizona to check the situation of the citrus industry in those areas, according to information reaching here.

One of the things which influenced the Florida Citrus Commission to send a delegation on a tour of the citrus areas was the fact that California kept a representative in Florida for 89 days following the January freeze.

BABSON SEES SUDDEN TURN HERE TO STAY

By ROGER W. BABSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Despite the violent news from Europe, American business has held its ground over the past month. A sensational surge in steel and other heavy industries has cancelled out losses in textiles, building, foreign trade, and automobile sales. Business has also absorbed violent shocks in security and commodity prices without throwing the upward trend (which started in mid-April) into reverse.

This is a remarkable situation. Ordinarily when the stock market is hit with a 30 per cent shakeout over a fourteen-day period, it is as sure a sign of a business slump as is a rapidly falling barometer of a storm. Added to the panic in the security markets is the drastic break in farm product prices. Wheat, for instance, is off twenty cents a bushel. Naturally, this sharp drop is having its effect on retail trade in rural areas. Sales are already off 10 to 20 per cent in such territories as Kansas City, Dallas, Minneapolis.

Textiles And Building Off

Textile mills have felt the shock, too. Their schedules dipped 10 to 15 per cent as raw cotton prices were slashed two cents a pound. An incessant barrage of war news, twenty-four hours a day, does not help real estate salesmen close their deals. Consequently, the gains in home buildings, which were running along smoothly up to May 1, are now being cut down. Latest figures for the country, nevertheless, show 1940 is still topping the level of a year ago. The slowing down in building is reflected in a tapering off of activity in the lumber camps as well.

Automobile sales are beginning to take it on the chin. After listening to a fifteen-minute broadcast of war news, or a quick perusal of the War Extra, the average buyer has the starch taken right out of him. Moreover, loss of the North European markets is a big blow to our exports of automobiles. Motor output in the first half of 1940 has been at a very high level. Now, with big field stocks, with sales slowing down, and with the export markets disrupted, manufacturers are cutting down production. The same situation is true in certain appliance and furniture lines.

Arms Industries Booming

These unfavorable trends, however, are all being erased by the tremendous impetus given armament industries. Current appropriations cover the largest peace-time funds ever set aside for our army and navy. New factories, training camps, shipyards, machine shops, foundries, will be needed to gear America up to war-time needs. I say war-time needs purposely because it seems inevitable to most well-informed people that we will tangle with Germany or Japan somewhere, sometime! Terrific stock-piles of copper, iron, rubber, lumber, tin, aluminum, will be needed to produce this vast defense machine.

So much for what has already happened. Gloomy as the war news has been—far more shocking than that which swept across the nation in 1914—our markets and business have absorbed the jolts relatively well. Back in 1914 the market collapsed, then closed, and business dropped sharply. It was six months before we had a rally. This time, as I have predicted right along, the war should give American industry a tremendous lift. Hundreds of thousands of the unemployed should find their way back to jobs (either in industry or in the army) in the next twelve months.

Foreign Trade Dislocated

America will, for awhile, become the World's Number One manufacturer, farmer, shipper, and banker. The wiping out of Denmark, Holland, and Belgium has temporarily given our foreign trade a rough time of it. Those countries, for instance, took over 30 per cent of our wheat exports. The loss of our markets in the neutral countries should soon be made up, however, by our taking over of their trade with South America and with England. We will supply the Allies, for example, with steel which they formerly purchased from Belgium or produced in Northern France, with paper which they purchased from Scandinavia, and with foodstuffs which they purchased from Denmark and Holland.

Hence, I believe that, war or peace, our industries will continue to hum. A German victory should mean a far greater defense program than that now contemplated; while an Allied victory should mean billions for reconstruction. To the extent that the world continues its expenditures for luxuries, style goods, and amusements, these armament and reconstruction costs will result in an exhaustion of capital and world wealth. Then a lower standard of living throughout the world will follow unless unnecessary luxury expenditures are curtailed.

Repeal Wages and Hours

There is one other possibility. If the Wage and Hour Act could be repealed and if labor unions would be reasonable, we might be able to increase our armament expenditures and still maintain our present standard of living. As long, however, as short-sighted politicians and selfish labor leaders remain in control, I see no hope for this change. The people of the United States—I fear—still fail to realize that only integrity, hard work, intelligence, self-control, and sacrifice will save them!

Relaxing

M. L. Annenbarg, above, is shown in a thoughtful mood as he relaxes during a recess in his federal court hearing at Chicago.

ITALY BOOSTS STEEL BUYING

Munitions Industry Is Hard To Feed

WASHINGTON—(AP)—To feed its munitions industry Italy has increased its monthly purchasec of United States scrap steel more than ten-fold since the second month of the European war, while Japan's buying has sloughed off markedly.

From a low point in October, 1939, when Italy bought only 7,000 tons, purchases have gained month by month to 74,000 tons in April—last month for which commerce department figures are available.

The United States has no restrictions on export of scrap steel, although many proposals for embargoes have been made in Congress.

Despite gains to Italy, Great Britain and Canada, however, United States exports of scrap steel in the first four months of 1940 totaled only 850,000 tons, as compared with 1,005,000 tons in the same months of 1939.

AUSTIN LEGION POST SEEKS TO BAR COMMUNISTS IN VOTE

Group Will Hold To Minimum Influence By Subversive Group; Reply To Protest Due To Be Given Monday

AUSTIN—(AP)—A move to bar Communist party candidates' names from the state general election ballot was launched Saturday by Travis post No. 76 of the American Legion in Austin.

Asserting its intention to "hold to a minimum" any influence wielded by any subversive group, the Legion post, in a letter to Secretary of State M. O. Flowers protested inclusion of Communist party names on the ballot, contending the candidates would be ineligible to hold public office.

In years past, Communist candidates for state offices were listed with Democratic, Republican, Prohibitionist and other party nominees.

Flowers, studying the protest with his legal staff, said he probably would reply to the Legion post's letter Monday.

Communist candidates in the last state election included Homer Brooks, who received 424 votes for governor; Cecil Robinett, 1,023 votes for lieutenant-governor; Nathan Kleban, 163 votes for attorney general, and James Sagar, 204 votes for commissioner of the general land office.

In the 1936 general election, Communist Earl Browder received 253 Texas votes for the presidency and Brooks 283 for governor.

On instructions of the Legion post membership, Adjutant J. E. McClain asked Flowers to deny a place on the ballot to Communists because:

"First: The Communist party is not a major political party.

"Second: Any avowed member of the Communist party running for public office on the Communist ticket would be ineligible to hold such office because, when becoming a member of the Communist party, such person is required to swear allegiance to a foreign government, and thus every act would be as an agent of such foreign power.

"The second reason given is amply and conclusively proved by sworn testimony given by Earl Browder, secretary of the Communist party of America, and others, before the Dies un-American activities committee and other government agencies in recent years.

"Also, this is proved by articles appearing constantly in the newspaper 'Daily Worker,' published in New York, the official organ of the Communist party in America."

SOUTH TEXAS JOB PLACING SHOWS DROP

Tomato Canning May Bring Employment

BROWNSVILLE — Temporary farm placements fell off considerably throughout South Texas in May, compared with the same month a year ago, W. B. MacFarland, district supervisor of the Texas State Employment Service, Brownsville, announced Saturday.

There were only 8,211 farm placements during the month, compared with 14,613 of May, 1939, in the 16 South Texas counties comprising District No. 3 of the TSES, Mr. MacFarland reported.

Late Tomato Deal

The late maturity of the tomato deal as a result of the freeze earlier in the year, bore the brunt of the decline.

With the tomato canning season expected to start about June 20, and a good season in the offing, the employment of figures are expected to pick up considerably.

Public and private placements throughout South Texas also suffered a set-back during May. The placements totaled 1,452 compared to 2,122 of May, 1939.

Private Jobs Fewer

There were 1,223 private placements and 229 public ones in May compared to 1,388 and 734, respectively for the same month a year ago.

The May report of the TSES showed further that there were 1,697 new applications for employment filed in May, compared with 1,913 a year ago.

Total applications in the active file as of May 31 were 15,436, compared to 13,115 of May 31, 1939.

Claim Filed

Initial compensation claims filed in May totaled 1,690, and secondary claims, 4,872. Field visits totaled 2,282.

J. G. Starck is manager of Area A of the TSES which includes Brownsville, Harlingen and San Benito.

Nazis See Stronger Spain With New Land

BERLIN, —(AP)— The authoritative commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland predicted Saturday that Gibialtar would become Spanish as it was before Britain made it a Mediterranean stronghold.

The commentary said that areas opposite Spain on the African coast—apparently meaning some in addition to Spanish Morocco—"must be in Spanish hands."

"Spain in this position will have the function of an independent trustee for all nations living on the Mediterranean or doing business there."

Relief For Single Persons May Soon Be Refused—Mudd

TRENTON, N. J., —(AP)— State Relief Director Arthur Mudd suggested Saturday that local directors refuse relief to single persons eligible for military service.

"While it is probably not yet the right time to issue a general bulletin of instructions to relief directors on the subject," he said in a memorandum, "field representatives in their contacts can accomplish much in this regard.

"Relief directors should be advised to refuse to single persons eligible for military service and to require unmarried persons in relief families to enlist."

16 CANNERIES JOIN HIDALGO TOMATO DEAL

Four Firms To Work On Pineapples

McALLEN — Although the Rio Grande Valley's tomato canning deal this summer may equal only 25 to 50 per cent of the pack last season, at least 16 processing plants will go into operation in Hidalgo county in the near future, R. N (Bob) Hancock of McAllen, county sanitarian, announced Saturday.

Hancock checked all of the plants late in the week as they rushed preparations to start work about June 17.

Season Is Late

The canning season is more than a month late this season. Last year such operations began May 7. The January freeze was blamed for most of the delay which reduced both quantity and equality of the 1940 spring tomato crop.

Almost all canning will be finished by July 4, the processors told Hancock.

Four of the 16 plants will also can juice from the crop of Mexican pineapples now coming into bearing.

Companies Are Listed

At Mission the Bohannon Canning Company and Smith canning plant will work the tomato deal McAllen will have the Reagan Canning Company, McAllen Canning Company and St. Clair Foods Company in the tomato deal, with the Christensen Products Company plant handling both tomatoes and pineapples and the Southwest Products Company processing pineapples only. Two Edinburg plants, the Myers Canning Company and Apte Brothers will can tomatoes. At Weslaco the L. Maxcy Texas Corporation, Charles Divens cannery and Christensen Products Company plants will be active, with only Christensen handling pineapples. The Taormina Corporation at Donna will can tomatoes, as will the Rio Food Products Company at Mercedes and the Engleman Gardens Association cannery at Elsa.

Swiss Blast Nazi Planes Over Area

Young Bullfighter To Appear In Lisbon

Rangel To Fly Across The Sea

BROWNSVILLE—Braving a peril more formidable than bulls, Antonio Rangel, 25, ace Mexican bullfighter, Saturday was en route to Lisbon, Portugal, to fulfill a bull fighting contract despite possible spread of the European war.

The veteran of six years of bullfighting, despite his youth, arrived here Friday afternoon from Mexico City by Pan American Airways and left by Eastern Air Lines for New York.

He is to leave New York for Lisbon via PAA Clipper plane June 9.

Wounded Twice

During his six years in the ring, Rangel has participated in about 144 fights, but he has only been wounded twice by bulls.

His interest in bullfighting was acquired by just "hanging around" the matadors when he was a youth he said. He later studied under Rodolfo Gaona, the champion bullfighter of Mexico, who has taught many famed matadors the art.

Rangel was reared in Leon, Guanajuato, the home of Gaona, and it is no wonder he became enthused.

Likes Capework

Capework gives him the greatest thrill. The use of the cape is an art in itself, he said while changing planes here.

The most dangerous part of bullfighting, however, is making the final thrust with the sword while "working" in close quarters with the bull. That is because the fighter can't see the horns of the bull due to the cape, Rangel explained.

ANTONIO RANGEL

"What does a bullfighter do in his spare time?" Rangel was asked.

They don't sip tea, if Rangel is a typical example. The youthful matador's hobby is "jai alai," a more vigorous form of American handball, a sport that is very fast, and exhausting.

When Rangel gets to Portugal, he won't be faced with the necessity of killing the bulls, but the danger will be there just the same. They don't kill the bulls over there, he said. Fighting the bull, however, is carried out in all its perfection.

Rangel is contracted for six Portugal fights, and there is the possibility he might fight 10. He expects to be away from Mexico about three months.

TICKER TAPE BARELY HITS TRADE LEVEL

Stocks Finish Week On Downside

NEW YORK— (AP) —In dealings that barely kept the ticker tape alive, the stock market Saturday finished a war-hesitant week pointing slightly downward.

Leading stocks started out with minor advances, but the majority fell away a trifle at the close.

Transfers of 199,270 shares for the two hours were the smallest for any session since July 8, 1939. They compared with 273,445 last Saturday. The week's turnover of around 2,500,000 shares also was a bottom figure for this period in about a year.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .1 of a point at 28.2 and on the week was down .3.

Willys - Overland common and preferred were a bit ahead following announcement the company, with a subsidiary, would enter the munitions field. Chrysler and General Motors were resistant.

U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Youngstown, up for a while on forecasts of a brisk upturn in next week's mill operations, ended under water. Other losers were Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Texas Corporation and International Paper Preferred.

Up a shade were Sperry, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Standard Oil of N. J., National Biscuit and General Electric.

In a ragged and sluggish curb modest advances were posted for American Gas Standard Oil of Ohio and Technicolor. On the offside were American Cyanamid "B," Brewster Aero and Jones and Laughlin. Sales of about 44,000 shares were the same as a week ago.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

MARINE THINKS CHANNEL SWIM JUST A BREEZE

LONDON —(AP)— How a British marine swam eight of the 21 miles between Calais and Dover and was just "getting into my stride" when he was picked up by a small ship ferrying soldiers home from Flanders was told Saturday by Gilbert Rowe, of the Queen Victoria Rifles, one of the few surviving defenders of Calais.

Rowe said the marine seemed quite fresh when pulled aboard the ship.

"His first remark was 'Sure you have enough room for me'"

Dallas Men Organize For Americanism

DALLAS— (AP) —A committee of 100 prominent Dallas business men and civic leaders made plans Saturday for a city-wide "Americanism" mass meeting to be held next Friday evening. One of the principal purposes, they said, was to "crystalize sentiment and material support for the Allies."

Karl Hoblitzelle, financier and theatre magnate, was named chairman at a meeting Saturday morning.

In addition to aid for the Allies, a resolution calling for the meeting said it would stress: "Enunciation of the aims and principles of Americanism; the speeding of national defense and protection of our (American) institutions; and speeding of extermination of the fifth column in the United States."

America's Industry Shifts From Peaceful Gadgets To Fighting Units

Expansion Of Plants Set On Large Scale As Needs Of War To Be Turned Out

Hundreds Of Millions Will Be Spent For Construction Of New Plants

NEW YORK—(AP)—Shifting from the manufacture of peaceful gadgets to fighting machines, America's industry has embarked on large-scale plant expansion and adaptation of factories to war needs, a nation-wide survey showed Saturday.

Projects under construction and in prospect to handle home defense and increased Allied purchases will result in expenditure of hundreds of millions of dollars for materials, workers and machines, the survey indicated.

Prodded by Allied buying, actual war industry expansion has been most spectacular in airplane and motor manufacturing. Some plants have tripled capacity in the past year or so. Others are pushing new expansion, either started or on the drafting boards.

Gathering momentum to the cadence of the Nazi blitzkrieg tempo war orders are spilling into munitions, textiles, tanks, automotive equipment, guns, explosives, chemicals and have forced a start on the greatest war plant expansion in the United States since 1914-18.

Heavy Spending Seen

Considering the administration's $5,000,000,000 defense program and the race to lend material aid to the Allies, financial circles regard the current expansion as merely in the opening stage.

Waldo G. Bowman, editor of the "Engineering News-Record," estimated Washington's defense plans alone would call for construction outlay of about $500,000,000, including air bases.

Much more may be spent, he said, for industrial plants, either with private capital or government loans. Investment bankers insist there is plenty of private capital available for factory expansion, providing arrangements is made for rapid charge-offs of war facilities. President Roosevelt has indicated public funds would be available, too.

Many Contracts Issued

Aircraft, tool and chemical industries were major contributors to increased industrial construction under way. Contracts for factories and other industrial structures in the first five months of this year totaled $171,000,000 compared with $73,000,000 in the like 1939 period, according to "Engineering News-Record."

The shift to war industry was accompanied this week by a further rise in leading production barometers, notably steel. A fifth consecutive weekly advance lifted the Associated Press index to industrial activity to the highest level since February. This index has regained about half its loss in the winter and early spring slump.

Wall Street speculative markets, however, remained cautious despite the climb in the business curve and the preparations for heavy plant expenditures to equip war industry. Brokers ascribed the apathy of the markets partly to anticipation of individual and corporate income tax boosts to meet the soaring arms bills.

The new German thrust into France and the Italian threat of war in the Mediterranean likewise kept speculators on the sidelines waiting the outcome, brokers said.

FINE TOTALS RISE IN MAY

Fewer Cases Produce More Revenue

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville lower courts assessed fewer fines in May than in April, but the fines were heavier, checks at Brownsville corporation court and in both the Precinct Two justice court indicated Friday.

Eighty-eight fines assessed in May were for a total of $1,367.35 as compared to 107 fines in April for a total of $1,256.67.

Justice of the Peace Fred Recio, place one in Precinct Two, during May assessed 28 fines for a total of $630.80 as compared to 29 fines for $600.42 in April.

Justice of the Peace George Krausse, place two in Precinct Two, during May assessed 22 fines for a total of $368.55, compared with 26 fines for $290.25 in April.

... city corporation court, Judge John Dutro assessed 40 fines for a total of $368 in May, as compared to 52 fines for $366 in April.

A breakdown of the city court fines in May reveals that of 40 fines for $368, eight were worked out for $80; at least something was paid on 11 fines, for $54; and a balance is due on 26, for $234. No fines were suspended.

In addition to collection of $54 on current fines, $14.25 on old fines was collected in May, bringing city court collections to $68.25 for that month. During May also, 12 old fines were worked out, for $94.50.

VALLEY ASKS GUARDS POST

Edinburg Seeks New Border Unit

EDINBURG — Although Hidalgo county officials have been advised that no national guard unit is available for the Upper Valley, members of Edinburg's newest civic organization, the 20-30 club, have petitioned State Adjutant General J. Watt Page at Austin to seek establishment of such a unit in Edinburg.

Scott Toothacker, chairman of the board of the club, said Saturday the petition was signed by local leaders the past week and was taken to Austin by State Senator Rogers Kelley of Edinburg, who conferred with General Page and with Governor W. Lee O'Daniel on the possibility of securing the guard establishment. Only one unit of the Texas National Guard is now operating in the Valley, that at San Benito.

Bonner Wootten, president of the 20-30's, also announced the club has dispatched a telegram to Congressman Milton H. West at Washington urging the sale of araments and other war supplies to the Allies. "We also seek your support of border fortifications, including a national guard unit for Edinburg," the club informed the congressman.

The club, meantime, is completing arrangements for its next regular meeting here, scheduled at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Palm Cafe, when Wayne Wood, president of the San Antonio 20-30 club, is scheduled to be present as a guest of honor.

The Edinburg club now has a membership of about 50 young business and professional men.

Tax Sales Made

Edinburg Gets $5,500 On Property

EDINBURG—Sales of city property through tax foreclosures have yielded $5,500 in new revenue to the city of Edinburg since January of the year, Mayor A. A. Aldrich said Saturday.

Delinquent taxes against the property totalled about twice that amount, he said, and the city settled on a pro-rata basis with the county and the school district, both of which had back tax claims against the land.

Tax collections here, meanwhile, are running about average, with some 70 per cent of all assessments paid up to the last accounting, the mayor added.

Communists Protest Jailing Of Members

MEXICO CITY—(AP)—The Communist party protested Saturday to President Cardenas against the detention of six members by the police in connection with the investigation into the machine-gun attempt to assassinate Leon Trotsky.

In a message to the chief executive, as well as to the attorney general and the secretary of the interior, the party declared that such detentions would "disorient public opinion with regard to the party's activities."

Study Is Approved

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt signed into law Saturday legislation directing the Bureau of Labor Statistics to study labor and production costs in manufacturing, mining, transportation, distribution and other industries.

The bureau estimated that between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000 men were unemployed because of labor saving devices put into use since 1929.

CITY PUSHES PAVING WORK

Edinburg Uses 'Pay As You Go' Plan

EDINBURG—Edinburg has completed the paving of 11 blocks of streets in its new pay-as-you-go improvement program at a cost of about $300 per block, Mayor A. A. Aldrich revealed Saturday.

"We found we were able to do the work with city laborers at a cost approximately that under the WPA program," the mayor said, "so that is why we have undertaken the project."

Work and materials on all save four of the blocks have been paid for already.

The city puts up $100 and the property owners $200 per block of pavement, he explains. Thus far the city has spent exactly $1,100 and the lot owners have provided the remainder of the $3,000 cost.

The mayor said the program has proved attractive to property owners because no debts against the property, such as paving liens, are left "hanging fire." The work is not undertaken unless both city and property owners' funds are on hand or are in sight for a given block.

"This work will continue indefinitely," Mayor Aldrich asserted. "We are hampered somewhat right now by lack of equipment, but I plan to ask the city commissioners to allow the inspection of and purchase of a piece of machinery in the near future which will help us a great deal."

Local Red Cross Meet Is Called For Monday

Additional Funds For War Refugees Will Be Discussed By Harlingen Men

HARLINGEN—Executive committee of the local Red Cross Chapter will meet at 4 p.m. Monday at the First National Bank to discuss the appeal of the national organization for additional funds with which to assist refugees of the war in Europe, according to Roscoe Pryor, local chairman.

A telegram was received a day or so ago asking for additional funds with the spread of the war and the resulting increase in refugees, Pryor said.

The San Benito Chapter with which the Harlingen group is affiliated, recently was given a quota of $1,860, according to Joe A. Sloan, chapter chairman. This has since been doubled and efforts are being made to raise this sum, he told The Star.

There now are 5,000,000 refugees very much in need of help and the American Red Cross is seeking to raise $20,000,000 or double the original $10,000,000 that was asked, in order to be able to extend needed assistance.

Fishing Rules

With tens of thousands of fishermen on lakes and streams in Texas, the executive secretary of the State Game Department has outlined a few simple rules for the protection of the angler from accidents, and at the same time outlined practices in the handling and treatment of fish and minnows that should be followed if Texas waters are to be as productive of these species as every angler expects them to be.

For your own safety and for the producing of better fishing, check these rules and see if you're living up to them:

At a glance one can usually tell whether or not he has caught a fish that must be returned to the water. Catch the fish i nthe lower lip with your thumb and fore finger, remove the hook and release him easily to the water. If it is necessary to catch the fish with your hands, wet your hand first to prevent disturbance of the protective slime that covers the fish. Be sure you have a legal fish before it goes on the string. This oversight might make a fishing trip an unhappy one. Check your tackle box for a ruler before you leave home or mark off the lengths on your boat or tackle box. Remember bass must be eleven inches long and crappie seven inches. DON'T WASTE FISH. TAKE ONLY THOSE THAT CAN BE USED, AND USE THOSE THAT YOU TAKE.

Seining bait may prove to be more expensive than buying it from a bait dealer, if care is not taken. Be sure that you do not sein minnows over three inches long, small bass, crappie and perch are not minnows. All species other than minnows must be released to the water immediately. Minnows that are too small for bait should be likewise returned to the water. They may be large enough for bait next time you go fishing. They are also valuable fish food. It is illegal to injure small fish or leave them on the bank to die.

Never use a boat that is unsafe and always have life preservers for every member of the crew. Boats with rotten boards should never be used. In case your boat does turn over, never get excited. Most wooden boats will support three or four people even if turned over or filled with water. Wait for help and never try to swim a great distance to shore. Many a good swimmer has lost his life trying this stunt. If it is necessary to swim, never try to swim with your clothes on. Remove your shoes first and then other clothes. It is better to lose your clothes than your life. Never wade unknown waters with hip boots, because if you go into water over your head with hip boots on, it is nearly impossible to remove them. Holes or rock jump-offs will cause one to lose balance and here is where the trouble comes.

Every fisherman should have some first-aid equipment in his fishing outfit. Scratches and bruises should be treated immediately to prevent infection. Never try to get a complete sun tan on a single fishing trip. The pain from sun burn is a poor trade for a sun tan. Every fisherman should have a kit to threat poison snake bites.

Practice safety first and maybe you will not have to use first-aid.

About Show Dogs

That dog fanciers are fully aware of the importance of good inheritance in the breeding of pure-bred show dogs is attested by some 1,350,000 names and pedigrees in the stud book of The American Kennel Club. And yet, the mating of representatives of notable dog-families does not, necessarily, produce dogs of championship caliber.

Quality seldom can be produced unless there is some quality with which to make a start. But even potentially great quality can be ruined by improper raising. The most successful dog breeders realize that their work merely has started when a litter is whelped—regardless of how many champions are found on both sides of the pedigree.

Proper nutrition, particularly in the early life of a puppy, is one of the most important factors in the making of a future winner. The youngster that comes of a line noted for sturdy bone may wind up as a spindly-legged "cripple" unless it receives the correct, bone-building foods. The coat, feet, and ears are other points that may go completely wrong.

Many dog judges place great emphasis upon soundness of structure. Inheritance has a great deal to do with soundness, but the dog raised in the best environment and always kept in splendid condition can best preserve that soundness.

There are many cases on record of excellently-bred dogs that lost their quality under poor care, and many other cases of apparently poor specimens that were made into noted champions by good treatment. One of the greatest show winners of modern times was a dog that at one period in his career seemed fit only to be put to sleep. Of a good line, and structurally correct, he was permitted to lapse into such poor health that few wanted him—even as a pet. Bought by a man who knew the secrets of conditioning, this dog became famous. (From The American Kennel Club Press Bureau).

Playoff Set To Start At 8:30 Today

Many Players Are Disqualified

By GAYLE TALBOT

CANTERBURY GOLF COURSE, CLEVELAND—(AP)—Gene Sarazen the dark, fast-striding little golf veteran from Connecticut, came out of nowhere late Saturday through the rain and mud to tie Lawson Little for the National Open championship at 287 strokes and carry the former amateur king into a playoff for the title Sunday.

Winner of his first Open championship in 1922 and a repeater in 1932, Sarazen struck for his third title so unexpectedly that it wasn't until the last three holes that the huge gallery swarmed around him.

Sensational Finish

His finish was nearly as sensational as that of '32 when he scored a final record-breaking round of 66 at Fresh Meadow to snatch the title from Bobby Cruickshank and Phil Perkins.

Little, winner of the British and Amateur titles in 1934 and 1935, was in with what looked like the payoff score. Sarazen had "blown" on the out nine, going two over par, and he needed an impossible 34 coming back to tie. The course was muddy and heavy from a soaking rain.

While Little sat in the press tent and watched the scoreboard with anguished eyes, Sarazen did it. The little guy not only picked up the two birdies he needed, but on the final hole, he nearly curled in a 45-foot putt that would have won him the title

Oliver Disqualified

There was a terrific hullabaloo because Ed Oliver, of Hornell, N Y., had been disqualified along with five other players for having made an unorthodox start on his closing round.

Oliver had a total of 287, too, but it never was posted. His 71 in the afternoon was thrown out because the committee decided the 23-year-old star had broken one of golf's most sacred rules by teeing off some 30 minutes before his scheduled starting time and without having reported to the official starter.

None of the other five disqualified mattered particularly, because they were out of the running anyway, but Oliver was mad in every one of his 240 pounds and he had plenty of support. There was a strong movement afoot to force the U.S.G.A. to admit him to Sunday's play-off. Both Sarazen and Little were willing.

But Hal Pierce, of Boston, president of the golf body, said flatly "the matter is closed. We will not consider it further."

He complimented Little for having made a "sporting gesture" in asking that Oliver be included in the playoff. Sarazen had said: "Shucks, let him play. I can beat both of them." The little man with the fighting heart was in fine fettle.

To Meet This Morning

The two man battle between Little, 30, and Sarazen, 38, is scheduled for 3:30 a. m. (CST) Sunday. If they tie again, they will go at it for another 18 holes in the afternoon. Both are impatient. Oliver was crying in the clubhouse Saturday night.

Little's four rounds were 72-69-73-73—287.

Sarazen had rounds of 71-74-70-72—287. He started the final two rounds a stroke behind Little and Sam Snead. He was two shots behind the veteran Frank Walsh, who led the field at the end of 54 holes with 213. But while Walsh and Snead were falling apart in the final crucial 18 holes, Sarazen got tougher hole by hole until he pushed through to his favorite place in front.

New Orleans Track Is Up For Sale

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— A "For Sale" sign was hung Saturday on the Fair Grounds race track here where once the best horses ran for some of the country's richest stakes.

General Manager R. E. Eddy, Jr., of the Louisiana Jockey Club turned the 125-acre tract over to a real estate broker after he had appeared before a Louisiana house ways and means committee and unsuccessfully opposed a bill which would set up a state racing commission and outlaw bookmaking.

"It will be impossible to race unless we can include the morning line," Eddy said after his appearance before the committee. "As the new bill forbids bookmaking of any kind either inside or outside the track, there is nothing to do but bow to the inevitable."

To Settle Fuss Today

LAWSON LITTLE

GENE SARAZEN

Staging one of the most brilliant late rallies in recent play in the National Open, Gene Sarazen, above at the right, will fight it out with Lawson Little today for the championship. Sarazen came from behind to startle a large gallery by tieing Little Saturday after the former National and British amateur champ appeared to have the big tourney in the bag. Sarazen won the Open in 1922 and 1932 and just missed winning again Saturday when he missed a 45-foot putt by inches. The playoff match will go 18 holes and will get under way this morning. Ed Oliver of Hornell, N. Y., had the same total score posted by Little and Sarazen, 287, but was disqualified for having started his last round ahead of time and without reporting to the official starter.

Class D Evangeline Loop Is Club Owner's Dream

Associated Press Feature Service

LAFAYETTE, La.—Nearly half a million persons saw the eight clubs of the Class D Evangeline League in action last baseball season.

That's a pretty impressive attendance figure. It's even more impressive when you learn that cities forming the league total only a little more than 100,000 in population. It gets more impressive when you figure that represents an average of four or more games seen by every man, woman and child in league towns.

If that doesn't mean much to you figure it this way:

With that percentage of attendance in the big leagues they couldn't build a stadium large enough to hold the crowds!

Judge W. G. Branham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, calls the attendance record "remarkable." Officials say success of the loop can be attributed to a combination of a sports-loving population, geographical advantages and the application of good principles of salesmanship.

Evangeline League cities are concentrated in Southwest Louisiana, except for Port Arthur just over the border in Texas. Easy traveling distances make it possible to work out schedules which will allow maximum drawing power at all games. In smaller towns, for instance, a team will not play at home two nights in succession. Most of the crowd is drawn from the same group and officials have found that the fans would rather not stay up late two nights in a row.

Knothole gangs and other popular devices are used to attract youngsters—and they flock to the parks.

Worthington Meets Coffey For T. G. A. Crown Today

SAN ANGELO, Tex.—(AP)—Hezzie Carson, San Angelo's golfing man of steel, finally broke down.

Worn by 62 holes of tournament strife in two days, the San Angeloan fell before Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth ace and state Open champion, 3 to 2, Saturday in the semi-final match of the Texas Golf Association's titular meet on Carson's home course.

The Fort Worth shotmaker, Coffey, was off his game, but Carson was too fatigued to take advantage of it. Coffey made the turn one above par and four up on the West Texan, but was four strokes above par over the six hole back stretch.

Joe Worthington of Kingsville, the Rio Grande Valley links king, engages Coffey in the 36-hole championship final Sunday.

Worthington, pumping even par, but Joe Moore, Jr., of San Antonio, the state junior champion, out of the proceedings, 4 and 3, in the semi-final match.

Coffey was a murderous gunner in his quarter-final, 7 and 6, massacre of E. B. Lovvorn, Sweetwater, shelling the course for seven birdies in the 12 holes played. The Fort Worth sensation clicked five birdies, two bogies and two pars on the first nine to come in under the wire at the turn with a 32, three below par.

Carson was caught on the 18th by Tom Miller, Jr., of Austin, in the quarter-final tilt, then barged on into the extra hole to win as he had done twice before. Carson cracked a par 4 on the 19th while Miller three-putted and came up with a bogey five.

Moore and Worthington had the honor of taking out the tournament medalist and defending champion during the morning round.

Moore eliminated Reynolds Smith of Dallas, medalist, 1 up.

Worthington turned back Don Schumacher of Dallas, deefnding champion, 1 up in 19 holes, shooting a par 4 on the 19th while Schumacher bogeyed.

Bill Stark of Orange plays L. M. Montgomery Sunday in the first flight championship final.

Dees McDermott of Waco, and Lindsay Telford of Lubbock battle for the second flight laurels.

Allan Barnard of Lamesa takes on ePnrose Metcalfe of San Angelo for the third flight crown.

La Feria Girls, Edcouch In Lead

McALLEN—What looks like a horse race is shaping up in the Rio Grande Valley girls soft ball league with La Feria and the Whamerettes from Edcouch-Elsa tied for top honors closely pursued by McAllen and Raymondville with San Perlita and the rejuvinated Mercedes team likely to cause trouble for the championship hopes of any of the ball clubs.

Two new girl teams are entering the league warfare. Mission and Donna will get under way soon and the reports are that both teams are strong.

Edcouch-Elsa whammed out a 14 to 11 victory Thursday night over the fast-stepping McAllen Masterettes with a barrage of doubles, triples, and home runs that kept the Masterettes outfielders hunting for the ball most of the time. Lee Watson's pitching was just to the liking of the twin city girls. They also gave the La Feria lassies a scare last Tuesday night by whamming out nine runs in the first three innings. La Feria showed their rating as one of the top teams of the Valley by coming from behind to nose out the Edcouch girls 10 to 9.

McAllen fell from grace and the top rating by their miserable showing against the Mission girls Wednesday night and Edcouch Thursday night. Several new players will probably put Masterettes back in their winning stride. Raymondville and San Perlita have been bumping into the top teams and splitting a pair of games on their home grounds. They will have an opportunity to improve their standing during the coming week. Sebastian and Mercedes are in the process of reorganization. Additional playing talent has been secured to bolster both teams.

The league schedule will be divided into thirds with a champion declared at the end of each round and a final playoff at the end of the season for the season championship.

League standings to Friday shows:

Edcouch-Elsa	3	1	.750
La Feria	3	1	.750
Raymondville	2	1	.667
McAllen	2	1	.667
San Perlita	1	2	.333
Mercedes	1	2	.333
Sebastian	0	1	.000
Edinburg	0	3	.000

Schedule for this week includes:

Tuesday

Mission at Raymondville.
San Perlita at Mercedes.
Sebastian at La Feria.

Wednesday

Raymondville at McAllen.

Thursday

McAllen at San Perlita.
Donna at Edcouch.
Edinburg at Mission.

Friday

Raymondville at Sebastian.

Sharyland TCX Club Is Upset By Whalen Ten

Tiff Halts McAllen Edinburg Tilt

McALLEN—Old Man Upset again took his weekly kick at the dope bucket in the Hidalgo County Softball League when the last place Whalen ten clubbed out a 10-inning, 9 to 7, win over the second-place Sharyland T.C.X. club.

The Friday night tilt, played at Edinburg, was one of the best and most exciting games played in the league to date. Pitcher Kenneth Fox led the tenth inning assault on the T.C.X. aggregation by smashing a line single to left field. Heins singled with Fox taking third and both scored when the center fielder dropped Ruppert's long fly. Cunningham flied out to right with Rupert taking third after the catch. Salters walked but Walters provided the winning blow with a smash to shortstop that Robinson booted, allowing the winning tallies to trickle over the plate. Wallace, on the mound for the Sharyland club, allowed 11 hits while Fox allowed a like number for the Whalen entry.

Tuesday night at Edinburg, the Edinburg Stars loafed through an easy 3 to 0 win over the McAllen All Stars. The McAllen team started off with a bang by getting three hits and a walk in the first inning and still not scoring. They had 18 men stranded on the bases during the tilt as the county seat team played heads up ball.

Thursday night at McAllen, the Edinburg club ran up against tougher competition than was expected. The McAllen Stars put up a game battle all the way and fans were seeing a well-played ball game when trouble broke loose. The Edinburg partisans, and there were many of them, had worked themselves up in a huff over several decisions called by Umpire Luther Harper.

Mike McKinney was fired when several pitches were called balls and when the Edinburg infield converged upon Harper, he climaxed the occasion by ordering the Edinburg shortstop, Jerry Stephens, out of the game. He gave as his reason "that Stephens was very sarcastic in his remarks." Manager Abe Bloomfield refused to jerk his player and after a minute and a half, the umpire called the game off and gave it to the McAllen club. Edinburg was leading 4 to 1 when the affair started. It was the last half of the eighth inning. Manager Bloomfield planned to protest Harper's decision, but by noon Saturday, league officials had not received the protest. If allowed to stand as is, McAllen will be awarded the game 9 to 0. If not allowed to stand, Edinburg will take the field with the score 4 to 1 in their favor and a runner on first base. There will be two out when the game starts.

Friday night, at Engelman Gardens, the McAllen All Stars dropped a 7 to 3 game to the Won-Up club although they had defeated the Won-Up club at McAllen last Friday night.

Travis Wallace pitched a 7 to 0 shutout over the Whalen club Monday night at McAllen.

Standings

Edinburg	12	4	.750
Engelman's	12	7	.631
Sharyland	11	7	.611
McAllen	9	10	.473
Whalen's	4	14	.222

San Antonio Man Is Skeet Winner

HOUSTON—(AP)—H. L. Brown of San Antonio won the state 20 gauge skeet title here Saturday after a 75 bird shoot off with Landrum Cullum of Wichita Falls.

Brown and Cullum tied in the 100 bird race with 99, then Brown won the overtime match when Cullum only placed a single shell in his gun and lost a double when his firing pin fell on an empty chamber.

Brown came back in the first 100 targets of the championship race to post a perfect score of 100. Other shooters who registered perfect scores were young Jimmy Cullum, Sol Freundlich and Frank Wood of Wichita Falls, and Roy Cherry of Dallas.

F. S. Hawkins of Dallas, C. J. Colby of Corpus Christi, Gilbert Gardiner of Houston, all amateurs, were tied for second place with 99.

The second 100 targets of the all bore race will be shot Sunday morning. This event will decide the women and junior titles.

Saints To Play Merchants Today

SAN BENITO—Rio Grande Valley baseball fans are certain to welcome the reorganization of the San Benito Saints, a name long associated with Valley baseball.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, the new Saints will meet the Brownsville Merchants at Kiwanis Park here in their first game of the season.

Slingin' Sammy Tossing Calves Around In Rodeos

By FELIX R. McKNIGHT

SWEETWATER, Tex.—(AP)—Pardner, meet up with Slingin' Sam Baugh—an old cowhand 350 miles from the Rio Grande.

Slingin Samuel, the gentleman rancher with football's finest forward passing arm, is roundin' up the dogies in rodeo corrals.

The sun-broiled Texan has put hemp burns on every critter within reach of his slingshot lariat to date. Old-timers who nearly gulped down their quids when Sammy roped, tied and spanked a calf in 11 seconds out on his ranch, say he has the touch.

In Formal Debut

The Slinger made his formal debut at the Floydada rodeo two two weeks ago. He met up with an unruly calf and used up 19 seconds, which was slightly out of the money.

"Shucks, out here on the ranch I've cut that time in half," apologized Sam. "But it was different in that arena."

Other than football, of which he knows plenty after terrific careers with Texas Christian University and the professional Washington Redskins, calf roping is the best sport, allows Cownand Baugh.

Recently Sam bought 25 head of Brahma calves on which to practice. But he had to sell 11 of them.

"They just got too derned big to handle," he admitted.

To offset the remote possibility that Mr. George (Wet Wash) Marshall, the rather easily excited owner of the Washington football club, should become alarmed over Sam's innocent hobby of wrestling with bawling calves, the Slinger insists that he will not branch out into other rodeo pastimes—such as bulldogging steers mounting unbroken broncs and riding wild steers with a surcingle.

May Join Jenkins

Incidentally, one of Sam's illustrious fellow townsmen, Mr. Larrupin' Lew Jenkins, the generally recognized lightweight boxing champion, has a hankering along the same general lines.

SAMMY BAUGH

Sam owns some thoroughbred brood mares which the past spring bore thoroughbred colts.

Jenkins, a ranch boy who quit riding herd to win a boxing title, has been conversing with Sam about going into the thoroughbred business. The deal is practically closed—all they need is a thoroughbred stallion!

And, of course, all Lew needs is a ranch. But he promises his thunderous right hand, the one that jellied Lou Ambers' face, will take care of that, effective with his July engagement against Henry Armstrong.

Sam plans to go right along with his rodeoing having entered the famed Stamford rodeo July 2, 3 and 4. He will warm up at Spur June 14 and 15. He trains his own cow ponies and herds them around in a trailer he rigged up.

Right now you can go out any day to Sam's corrals and find a dozen or more dogies with their tongues hanging out.

And Sam's, too.

Texas All-Star Voting To Begin

DALLAS—(AP)—Fans of the Texas baseball league can start casting their votes Monday for their favorite players in the annual All-Star game scheduled for Fort Worth July 11.

Voting will continue through midnight, June 27, and the results announced Sunday, June 30.

Southern division fans can vote on members of the Beaumont, San Antonio, Houston and Shreveport clubs while the Northern division group consists of Dallas, Oklahoma City, Fort Worth and Tulsa.

Each team will carry six pitchers, two catchers, five infielders and four outfielders, plus a manager. Players must be voted for at their regular positions, including the outfield.

The manager must be voted on as the manager, but playing managers can be named at their positions. Not more than five men from any one club can be named in the fan's ballot.

The Southern division, until last season, had won the first three games of the annual contest. But, in San Antonio, the North cracked the streak.

Ballots may be mailed to sports editors of league newspapers or to the Texas League office at Dallas.

Texas Athletes Grab Honors In Princeton Meet

Wolcott Tops Three Hurdle Marks

By WHITNEY MARTIN

PRINCETON, N. J. — (AP) — The eyes of track fans were on the state of Texas Saturday as athletes from the Longhorn country won three of the seven events in the Seventh Annual Princeton Invitation track meet, with Fred Wolcott of Rice accounting for two of the victories, one with a world record bettering performance.

Wolcott skimmed the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.5 seconds, bettering the recognized world record of 22.6 set by Jesse Owens of Ohio State in 1935. He also was timed in 22.3 at the 200 meter mark, surpassing Owen's 22.6 record.

In the 120-highs, he was timed in :13.9. This bettered the meet record of :14.3 set by Sam Allen of Oklahoma Baptist in 1935, and also the recognized American record of 14 seconds flat established by R. D. Osgood of Michigan in 1937.

As the select field of performers scattered old meet marks right and left in most events, the feature event of past programs—the mile run, went in the good but not sensational time of 4:11. It was won by a dark horse, "Lonesome John" Munski of the University of Missouri.

The University of Texas shuttle hurdle relay team of Douglas Jacques, Coleman Pack, Ralph Baggett and Boyce Gatewood turned in a grand performance in that event to make the Texans' day a smashing success. Matched against a classy Yale team, the Texans were timed in :58.6, which bettered any known time for the event. The best previous record was :59.8, set by USC in 1935.

Summaries included:

120-yard hurdles, second, Boyce Gatewood, Texas; third, Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C.

Two mile run, third, Wayne Rideout, Shore A. C.

220-yard low hurdles, second, Edward Dugger, Tufts; third, Marsh Farmer, Shore A. C.

Mile run, fifth, Blaine Rideout, Shore A. C.

Hornsby Signs To Manage Oklahoma City

Will Pilot Tribe Today In Twin Bill

Replaces Keesey In Drivers Seat

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, the "Old Rajah" of major league baseball fame, has been signed to manage the Oklahoma City Indians of the Texas League, owner John Holland announced Saturday.

Hornsby is expected to take charge of the faltering Indians, now in the league cellar, for a doubleheader with the Dallas Rebels Sunday afternoon.

Hornsby replaces Jim Keesey, who declined an offer to stay and play first base. Holland asked waivers and named Al Fisher, nominally a pitcher, as the regular first sacker pending Hornsby's approval.

"RAJAH" HORNSBY

Hornsby is the second "big name" baseball figure to join the Texas League this week.

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean signed to pitch for the Tulsa Oilers Thursday and will hurl his first game there Sunday against Fort Worth.

Hornsby's long career in organized baseball started back in 1914 when he joined the Hugo club of the old Texas-Oklahoma League.

He went into the majors in 1915, signed to play first base with the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, remaining with the squad until 1926.

In 1926 he went to the New York Giants, to the Boston Bees in 1928 to the Chicago Cubs in 1929 and back to the Cardinals in 1933.

That same year he joined the St. Louis Browns of the American League, remaining through 1937.

In 1938 he managed the Baltimore club in the International League part of the season and handled Chattanooga in the Southern Association for the remainder of the year.

Last year, he was back with the Baltimore squad as non-playing manager.

He now lives in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, packing to leave for his new job as manager of the Oklahoma City club of the Texas League, said Saturday night he had made no plans for the team and knew nothing about it except that it was in the cellar.

"All baseball managers' jobs are tough," Hornsby said.

The "Rajah" said his success with the Indians would depend on the kind of material he found.

Moody Still Big Question In Texas Politics; First Primary Is Near

DEMO CHIEFS SET MEETING FOR MONDAY

Site Will Be Chosen For Convention

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN —(AP)— With the first Democratic primary only 49 days distant, the number one political question in Texas Saturday continued to be:

Will red-headed, dynamic Dan Moody, twice governor but for the last 10 years engaged in the private practice of law in Austin, once more campaign for the office which none has ever held three times.

A meeting of the state Democratic executive committee here Monday, for the triple purpose of selecting a site for the fall state convention, certifying candidates for the primary ballot and passing on any requests for referenda on controversial matters, was of secondary interest.

Statement Due Monday

Moody said he would have no statement before Monday. His name was filed by friends, which met legal requirements regarding filing, but the committee would not certify it if Moody requested it not to do so.

Mineral Wells, Houston and San Antonio have asked for the September convention, and Amarillo and Dallas may make bids Monday, E. B. Germany of Dallas, chairman of the executive committee, reported.

The convention will declare the nominees of the party, draw a platform for them to run on against the representatives of other parties and select a new executive committee.

No Petitions Received

Germany said he had received no formal petitions for referenda, but expected one on the subject of a tax on gasoline at the refinery in lieu of the present tax at the filling station. Requests for referenda on prohibition and the sales tax also might be presented, he added.

There has been little agitation recently for referenda and capital opinion generally is that there probably will be none.

The executive committee will certify to county committees for printing on the primary ballot the names of 50-odd candidates for state offices. It might have to make a decision or two on whether late filers complied with specifications.

18 In One Race

The deadline for candidates for stats office to file was midnight last Tuesday. The same hour also was the deadline for candidates for district offices in districts of more than one county.

The closing for district office candidates in districts of only one county, and also for precinct and county candidates, is June 15, next Saturday.

If Moody's name is finally included, there will be nine on the ballot in the gubernatorial bracket, compared with 13 two years ago.

The most entries, 18, will be in the contest for the railroad commission seat of Lon A. Smith, who is retiring.

Reply to Governor W. Lee O'Daniel, if any to questions of Ernest O. Thompson concerning O'Daniel's "record of patriotism" in the World war period is being awaited.

Provisional Leader Forecast In Mexico

Border 'Gold Shirt' Source Claims Neither Avila Camacho Nor Almazan Will Win

REYNOSA, Mexico—Neither Manuel Avila Camacho nor Juan Andreu Almazan will be the next president of Mexico, a person closely identified with the "Gold Shirts" declared here Saturday.

To prevent a rebellion or possible loss of control by the administration, President Lazaro Cardenas will declare a state of "national emergency" and appoint a provisional president to succeed himself, this source said.

"That has been the plan for some time and both candidates know but they can do nothing," he continued.

"Just who the provisional president will be is unimportant, because the Cardenas administration will still be in power."

A national news weekly magazine recently reported that President Cardenas would appoint Sanchez Tapia in his stead. Sanchez Tapia, former military commander in the Federal District, withdrew several months ago from the presidential race.

The election is scheduled for Sunday, July 7. The new president is to take office in December for a six-year term.

An extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress is expected to be called this month, and the Gold Shirt sympathizer said Cardenas may declare an emergency at that time.

The Gold Shirt organization, headed by the exiled Nicolas Rodriguez, claim conservative policies and are vigorously opposed to the Cardenas administration.

WATER MAIN PLAN OKEHED

WPA $25,000 Project Will Start Soon

BROWNSVILLE — Brownsville City Manager Robert Runyon said Saturday he has received word a water main project the city is seeking has been approved by the district WPA office at Laredo.

The proposed project will be sent on to the state office and then to Washington for final approval.

Total cost of the proposed project he said is a little under $25,000. About 4,000 feet of 14-inch pipe, now located near the river and not in use since a change in the river bed, is to be dug up and installed on Levee street.

It will replace eight-inch and four-inch mains there, and will afford better fire protection along that street, Mr. Runyon said. The pipe removed along Levee street will be located in other parts of the city, and some new pipe will be purchased and laid in different locations.

Water mains to serve the Brownsville Housing Authority will be included in the project, the city manager said.

He estimated that the city's share of expense in the project will amount only to about $2,000 in cash, after credit is allowed on city equipment that will be used.

Alcohol On Breath Easy To Find Now

The invention of Dr. Walter W. Jetter, of Taunton (Mass.) state hospital, weighs only four ounces.

NAZI RAIDER CHASED AWAY

Lone Plane Attacks English Town

A SOUTHEAST ENGLISH-TOWN —(AP)—A lone German raiding plane and a British ground crew engaged in a spectacular duel in the glare of searchlights late Saturday night while thousands of townspeople looked on.

Searchlights picked out the Nazi craft which roared in at an altitude of only 500 feet. Then the ground defenses blazed away.

Machine gun bullets spurted skyward. The German answered with a stream of tracer bullets directed at the searchlights.

Anti-aircraft guns joined the attack with numerous bursts and the raider made off toward the French coast.

The amount of damages to be paid was not specified in the decision, being dependent on an accounting of profits since April, 1933

M'ALLEN SET FOR FOURTH

Annual Celebration Plans Pushed

McALLEN—The 1940 edition of the McAllen Fourth of July celebration, one of the oldest festivities in the Valley, is rapidly being whipped into shape, General Chairman George Chapapaas announced Saturday.

The various chairmen this week met with their committees, and announced generally that "all the preliminaries are out of the way."

19 Flyers Entered

Al Weir, chairman of the Air Show committee, said 19 Valley and out-of-Valley flyers would participate in the air carnival. Also, he said, Braniff Airways has been invited to send from Brownsville one of its new 21-passenger Douglas DC-e transport planes.

Four Class AA Valley high school bands will participate in the celebration, in addition to the Pan American Airways drum and bugle corps, Chairman John Gregory of the bands music committee announced.

Fireworks Display Set

Chairman Bob Miller of the Bathing Beauty Revue committee said several new and novel acts were being planned for this year's show.

An orchestra and a floor show will be secured for the dance at the Club Royale, Dance Committee Chairman O P. Martin said.

Large quantities of fireworks have been ordered for the gala display the night of the Fourth, according to Dr. F. G. Sigrist, chairman of the fireworks committee.

Poor Americans May Be Left Behind As Rescue Ship Leaves

DUBLIN—(AP)—At least a hundred homebound Americans, faced the prospect Saturday of being left behind because they lack money for passage to the United States on the liner Washington.

The ship arrived at Bordeaux Friday night and is scheduled to sail for Lisbon, Portugal, Saturday night, and from there to Ireland sometime next week. It may call either at Galway on the west coast, or at Cobh in the south.

The men and women and their families, likely to be left behind unless something is done, are poor working class people whose families have grown so rapidly that they can hardly think in terms of $200 each for the minimum fare.

Tough Steaks Hard On His Bad Teeth

MILWAUKEE —(AP)— His wife purposely served him with tough steaks after he had all his teeth pulled, Robert M. Cross, an auto mechanic, charged in filing suit for divorce. The couple had been married since 1916.

Wounded In Flanders

TRAIL OF STOLEN CARS LEADS TOWARD MEXICO

McALLEN—Investigation of rumors concerning the whereabouts of the 21 stolen Hidalgo county autos consumes most of the police officials' time these days, Chief of Police Noah Cannon said Saturday.

Almost daily someone approaches the police with what he believes is a "hot tip," leading the law to further investigations. Ordinarily most of the informants are residents of Mexico, bearing unfounded rumors. Frequently, however, the reports have given the police a clue which defies their pursuit once it goes across the Rio Grande.

Cannon said state and county police from other Valley counties are cooperative with the local division and the sheriff's department in trying to apprehend the car thieves whom they are certain drive the cars across the border.

Recently, it was understood that state police from Tamaulipas proffered their assistance in trying to stop the current wave of thefts by apprehension of the auto thieves across the border with the cars. It is their opinion that the cars are taken some place and reconditioned and repainted before being driven to the interior.

Chief Cannon pointed out the fact that after a car is in Mexico for 72 hours without being properly bonded, it is subject to seizure by the customs. Only one such instance has been reported, causing local officials to believe the cars have a distributing agency working with them in Mexico.

Recently two county officers went to Monterrey in search of information concerning the thefts. Their mission was fruitless, however, since nothing could be learned from police officials there.

STATE LISTS CASH BALANCE

Deficits Shown For Three Funds

AUSTIN—(AP)—The State of Texas had an overall cash balance of nearly $21,252,000 in its treasury at the end of May despite deficits in three funds amounting to $24,613,000, the treasurer's office reported Saturday.

Unpaid warrants totaled $28,390,000 as against a cash account of $50,642,000 on deposit with banks.

Funds containing deficits were general revenue with $22,059,000; confederate pension with $1,833,000 and state old age pensions with $720,000.

Among accounts with large balances were the available school fund with $1,765,000; state highway, $10,352,000; permanent school fund, $8,143,000; county and district highway indebtedness, $7,639,000; highway investment, $1,261,000; highway motor fuel tax, $3,906,000; road bonds, $1,083,000; series two of relief bond sinking funds, $1,219,000, and teacher retirement savings, $1,127,000.
